COLLINS' BROTHER SEEKING PASSAGE

TRYING TO FIND NEW ROUTE TO TRAPPED MAN

Passageway Which May Lead To Sand Cave Victim Being Explored As Shaft Sunk From Top of Hill Gradually Deepens.

NEW PASSAGE HOPES BLASTED.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 7.—Homer Collins' last effort to reclaim his own from caves beneath the Kentucky hills came to naught here tonight when he squirmed his way from the pit he had entered at sundown and admitted his dream of another passage to the point where his brother, Floyd, lies prisoner in the bowels of Sand Cave, had been dashed against the hard reality of solid rock.

"It's no use," Homer said sorrowfully, "we can never reach him that way."

(International News Service.)

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 7. — Another member of the Collins family was given into the keeping of his native Kentucky hills late today when Homer, brother of Floyd, who for eight days has lain hunched into a narrow rocky confine, fifty-five feet below the outer level of Sand Cave, squeezed his way into another yawning tunnel into the bleak cliff in a last desperate effort to find a new route to the prison chamber.

Accompanied by two miners from southern Kentucky, Homer inspected the entrance which opens hardly 200 yards from the tunnel through which Floyd entered and which now stands deserted as rescuers concentrate their efforts on adding inches to the depth of the shaft which engineers hold is certain to bring Floyd out, dead or alive.

A consultation was held, Homer entered and returned. The miners advised against the attempt. A threatening boulder was propped with timber and Homer crawled in, passing from sight as the tunnel twisted through a narrow point and dropped downward.

Twilight came and then as the sun sank over these hills in a last blaze of crimson, the electric lamps that have been strung over the wilderness of the cavern, flashed on, glowing strangely pale in the dying light of day.

Another Day Ended.

Another day had ended. Twelve hours more added to that total of minutes and hours and days which have passed slowly, ever more slowly, as facts and hope waxed and waned and the chip, chip, chip of steel against rock continued while a nation watched and waited.

And still Homer failed to re-appear. No fear was felt for his safety. He is familiar with the dangers of Kentucky caves and his continued absence was taken only to mean that he had not yet reached the terminal of the passage.

In the meantime, men of science who have given of their time and skill that Floyd may not remain forever imprisoned, a victim of the cave he loved, had torn aside the

Shaft Work May Not Be Finished For Nearly Week

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 7.—All hopes of reaching Floyd Collins, entrapped in Sand cave, by Sunday night through the shaft being sunk for the hill top were blasted tonight.

"It will be later than Tuesday when we reach Floyd," H. T. Carmichael, general supervisor of the operations at the cave, told newspapermen as he leaned wearily against a creaking derrick, his eyes and heavily lined face telling the tale of sleepless nights and nervous strain.

"I think it will be well into next week before we locate him or his body. Tell the people we are doing our best but that it may be Friday, or Saturday — possibly later—when we reach the goal."

GET RUM RUNNER AFTER GUN FIGHT

Mark Gilbert Captured On High Seas By Coast Guard Cutter.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. Mark Gilbert, master rum runner—the man who a few days ago announced from the quarter deck of his ship he would "never be taken alive"—was captured today by a coast guard cutter after a running gun fight sixty-five miles out at open sea, according to a dispatch reaching Washington.

Wanted by the department of justice on a number of serious charges, Gilbert is being towed into port aboard his famous ship "The Homestead," a former American battleship.

Because of a technicality which made him a "pirate" under the law, the revenue cutter was able to seize Gilbert so far out at sea. His ship papers, under the Costa Rican government, were found to be fraudulent and thus, being under the protection of no country, he was pursued beyond the twelve mile limit.

Gilbert resisted capture vigorously, according to the reports reaching here, until shell fire from the cutter ... "The Homestead" ... and virtually ... out of commission.

Wife Gives Husband And "Other Woman" A Horsewhipping

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7. — How Mrs. R. R. Roberts horse-whipped her husband, a dentist, and a woman known as Mrs. Alice Decker, was revealed today when Roberts appeared in Justice court on a charge of violating the rooming house ordinance.

The horsewhipping incident was related by Dr. Roberts and his wife and was said to have taken place several nights ago when Mrs. Roberts is said to have found her husband and Mrs. Decker together in a Main street residence.

Mrs. Roberts was quoted as admitting that she not only applied the whip to her husband, but also to Mrs. Decker.

Will Hays Refuses To Comment After Trust Charge Made

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, tonight declined to comment on a letter made public in New York in which Murray W. Garshon, head of Garshon enterprises, Inc., an independent producing company, alleges trust methods against the Hays organization.

"I have not received the letter and have nothing to say," was Mr. Hays' only comment. He arrived in Los Angeles this week to attend the annual meeting and election of officers of the Southern California branch organization he heads. The meeting will be early next week.

Dr. Fitzsimmons Of Tecumseh Has Serious Sickness

Dr. A. P. Fitzsimmons, well known Tecumseh physician, is at St. Elizabeth's hospital in Lincoln where an operation was performed last Friday for the relief of mastoid infection in and around both ears. This condition developed while he was ill with influenza. Reports from Dr. Fitzsimmons' bedside Saturday evening were not altogether encouraging. However, his wife, who accompanied him to Lincoln, and many friends here are hopeful of his recovery.

Dr. Fitzsimmons served for a number of years in the Philippines in an administrative position under former Governor General Harrison. He has been very prominent in democratic political activities.

GIRL ENDS LIFE.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 7. — After twice wounding her former sweetheart, John S. Flom, after he had announced his engagement to another girl, Anna Cooper turned the gun on herself here tonight and committed suicide. Flom is expected to live.

SOLONS HAVE QUEER IDEAS ON MARRIAGE

Attempt To Save 1923 Notice Act By Requiring Examination Of Those Who Marry In Other States.

BELIEVE LAW WOULD BE UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Measure Before House Is Far More Severe Than Any Other Matrimonial Regulation In United States.

In their efforts to stave off repeal of the 1923 marriage law whose workings have been so unsatisfactory in Nebraska, its defenders are proposing to make it more drastic than ever by imposing conditions and requirements upon those who go outside the state to escape its offensive provisions.

The plan they have evolved in the form of a substitute bill, which is to come before the house of representatives as a special order on February 17, goes far beyond any legislation now in force anywhere in the United States.

Wisconsin Not So Strict.

Not even Wisconsin, the experimental laboratory for all sorts of "reform" legislation, has gone to any such length in attempting to regulate matrimony.

Cases have been known where the cure for a disease was worse than the disease itself. This may be said of the substitute bill formulated by the friends of the present marriage law. Should it be enacted, Nebraska will doubtless receive a great deal more advertising on account of its freak marriage statute than it ever has before.

Believed Unconstitutional.

The central idea of the substitute measure is to punish those who go outside the state to be married, by compelling both bride and groom, if they return any time within three years, to submit to physical examination. Should either be found to have a social disease, or subject to hereditary epilepsy or insanity, proceedings would be brought to annul the marriage.

Should they fail to present themselves for examination immediately upon their return, the couple would be liable to a fine of $500 to $1,000, or six months jail imprisonment, or both.

Whatever merit, if any, these provisions might have in themselves,

QUAKE DOES BIG DAMAGE

Vienna Reports Tell Of Heavy Losses From Earth Shocks At Erlau, Hungary. With Inhabitants In Flight.

(International News Service.)

VIENNA, Feb. 7. — Enormous damage has been done by earthquake shocks in Erlau, Hungary, word from there today said.

The inhabitants were reported to be fleeing from the city and those who could afford it were moving to Budapest.

Business activity was reported suspended and the city desolate.

Trains from Erlau are crowded with frightened people. The poor are camping out in the open country, afraid to return to the city. Damage was estimated to run into millions of dollars. It is doubted, reports say, whether the destroyed parts of the city ever will be rebuilt.

Famous For Wine.

Erlau is famous for its red wine. The population of Erlau is approximately 25,000 and it is sixty-seven miles northeast of Budapest. It is a city of industry and trade and there are mineral springs in the city which have medicinal value. The most important building is the Arch-Episcopal palace. In the palace is an extensive library.

In 1552 Erlau made a heroic defense when invaded by an overwhelming body of Turks. From 1596 to 1687 it was under Turkish rule. Dispatches from Erlau last week told of severe earth tremors having been felt there.

Tiny Electric Lamp Flashes Message of Hope To Collins

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 7.—"Keep faith. Keep faith. We're coming."

A mute electric lamp which has been burning constantly in the darkness of Sand cave, sending the comfort and cheer of light to Floyd Collins, imprisoned for eight days in its torturous recesses, tonight was winking out this message.

Along the copper strands that link the prisoner with the outside world, the silent electric current, entering where a man cannot make his way, is being sent and stopped, sent and stopped, ceaselessly, regularly, in the hope that Floyd, lying in the damp and slime down there may know that help is coming, that he has not been abandoned to the forces which hold him prisoner.

And as long as any rescue effort is being made, says H. G. Lane, in charge of the miniature power plant which has been set up at the rim of the cliff overshadowing the workers in the pit, this beacon of hope will continue to flash its message.

He estimated that, burning continuously, the lamp will continue to function nearly 1,000 hours. Thus far, it has been burning something less than 100.

No further effort to carry out another "radio" test will be made, Lane said.

Ranchers Flee As Dam Breaks In the West

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 7.—A wall of water loosed when the Moses lake dam burst under pressure of heavy rains, swept through Crab creek valley, near Ephraita, Grant county, today taking an unestimated toll in property damage.

The roar of the water could be heard for miles as the lake, backed up by the dam, was unleashed upon the countryside.

Motorists and horsemen sped ahead of the racing water, warning ranchers who succeeded in reaching high ground. The extent of the damage had not been ascertained at a late hour tonight.

BRITAIN READY TO TALK DEBTS WITH FRENCH

To Collect Only Amount Necessary For Her To Pay America.

(Copyright, 1925, by the United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Great Britain tonight notified France in a note handed Premier Herriot by Lord Crewe, the British ambassador, that the Baldwin government is ready to talk debt settlement with this country on the basis of the so-called "Balfour agreement."

In effect, Britain will collect from her debtors only what it becomes necessary for her to pay the United States.

Premier Herriot is informally invited to go to London, taking his finance minister, Clementel, with him, if he likes, and talk debts as well as the security pact. This pact is a German idea and involves

BORAH WOULD RESTORE ALL OF PROPERTY

Idaho Senator Asks Adoption Of Bill Returning To Alien Owners $800,000,000 Worth Of Property Seized During War.

TERMS PASSAGE 'ACT OF JUSTICE'

Measure Would Authorize President To Make Returns Within Sixty Days And Abolish Property Custodian's Office.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—All alien enemy property seized by the United States government during the world war—totalling about $800,000,000—would be returned at once to its original German, Austrian and Hungarian owners under terms of a bill introduced in the senate this afternoon by Senator Borah, republican of Idaho.

Borah demanded its passage as "an act of justice" to former enemy aliens and as a sequence to the Paris agreement which arranged for the recovery of all American claims against Germany. With the property returned, the office of the alien property custodian would be discontinued.

The bill would authorize the president to return the seized property within sixty days. If he failed to do so the former owners would be empowered to sue for the property in the United States Court of Claims.

An amazing feature of the bill bill was a provision calling on the attorney general to recover all the seized property since sold by the alien property custodian. Under this clause, the returnable property would include not only the $300,000,000 worth of stocks and bonds now held by the alien property custodian but some $500,000,000 worth of factories, steamships and patents disposed of to Americans since the end of the war.

Leviathan Included.

This would include the Leviathan and $31,000,000 worth of other liners, the Bosch Magneto and a thousand smaller factories, all the German dye patents, which were sold to the Chemical Foundation.

As applied to patents, factories or steamships, the original alien owners would also receive a "rental" for the time their property was used by Americans.

Borah declared the seized property should be returned at once

NEW LOCATION OF STOCK YARDS MAY BENEFIT LINCOLN

Is Converging Point For Burlington Serving Large Territory.

Movement of the Burlington stock yards from Burnham to a site west of the present freight yards, an undertaking which will cost $250,000 and may mean the establishment of Lincoln as a meat packing center, has been begun by the railroad company and will be completed by the end of the summer.

The new stock yards will be situated north of the state men's reformatory and west of the present Burlington roundhouse. They are to be located on about forty acres and will be much more compact in form than the old ones near Burnham.

Business Increases.

Significance of this move is made plain by the steady growth of the Lincoln Packing company in the last twelve years. This company has an all modern plant and the best of facilities for handling the increasing trade which it has enjoyed.

That the Burlington should be

Stone Hurt In Auto Accident

O. L. Stone, 415 West Twentieth street, University Place, is still in bed at his home as the result of injuries received Friday afternoon when he was run down at Fourteenth and O streets by a car driven by Miss Katherine Swift, 1510 K street. Miss Mae Droste, also a student living at 1510 K street, was another occupant of the car.

The extent of Mr. Stone's injuries has not yet been fully ascertained. No bones seem to have been broken, but he is bruised about the head and chest and complains of pains in his abdomen and elsewhere. He was crossing the street at the time of the accident and is said to have been trying to catch a street car.

Jack Dempsey and Estelle Married Ahead of Time at Quiet Ceremony in San Diego Church; Planning an Extended Honeymoon

(International News Service.)

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 7—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion and Estelle Taylor, widely known queen of the silver screen were quietly married here at 7 o'clock tonight in the First Presbyterian church by the Rev. Wallace Hamilton.

Only half a dozen of the king's nearest relatives and closest friends were present. Miss Helen Taylor, sister of Estelle, stood by the side of the bride.

Joe Benjamin, the lightweight prizefighter, was best man for Mr. Dempsey.

Jack's mother, his brother, John, and two friends comprised the rest of the party. The champion and his bride completely "put one over" on the boys of the press by staging the ceremony so quietly.

At first is was reported the wedding had taken place at 8 o'clock in the evening in the U. S. Grant hotel, but later it was ascertained that at that time Jack and Miss Taylor had been married a full hour.

Reporters Fooled.

To reporters and to his very best friends, Dempsey throughout the day said that while he had secured a license the ceremony would not take place until Monday.

"Meet me at the U. S. Grant hotel in San Diego at 8 o'clock and I may have something to say to you fellows," Jack told a group of newspaper men at Tiajuana this afternoon.

At 8 o'clock sharp, Dempsey and his bride slipped quietly into the U. S. Grant hotel and word came to their friends and to reporters in the lobby that they would all be welcome upstairs at a banquet. On arriving at the banquet room with his guests, the champion made the announcement that he and Estelle had been married for over an hour.

Friends "Tipped Off."

James W. Coffroth, president of the Tiajuana Jockey club, Mr. and Mrs. ene Normile, Jack Atkin and a score of other friends of the champion, arrived at the church while the wedding service was in progress, Dempsey said, having been tipped off by a member of the party as to the time and place.

The entire Dempsey party will spend the first day of the honeymoon at the Tiajuana race track, Jack said tonight.

Jack and Estelle will leave San Diego Sunday evening for Los Angeles where matters of business will tie the champion down for a few days—possibly a fortnight, he said, after which they will leave for an extended honeymoon.

"Estelle will decide where we shall go," the champion said, putting a long, powerful arm caressingly about her shoulders. "She is debating upon Honolulu, China and Europe.

Other Guests Arrive.

"'And thou beside me, seated in the wilderness,'" Jack started to

She will compare prices and the factors which influence the demand for meats.

TO CONTINUE FIGHT.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 7—Leon Trotzky, deposed soviet commissar for war, will carry on from his unnamed place of exile his battle against Gregor Zinoviev, president of the executive committee of the communist internationale, according to word received in communist circles here today from Russia.

LYNCHING PLANS ARE FRUSTRATED

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 7 — Plans to lynch C. S. Stone, who claim to be the father of Jack Hoxie, movie actor, who is charged with the murder of Nina and May Martin, were frustrated today when the prisoner was put in solitary confinement in the county jail while a revengeful mob, armed with shot guns and rope, waited in vain at the scene of the crime.

Stone was to have been taken to the spot where the children's bodies were found, but news that a crowd had gathered was rumored around and Stone was kept in the jail.

Police connected these complaints with circumstances surrounding the death of the Martin children.

FIVE PERSONS DIE IN CRASH AT NEARMAN

R. H. Jones, Engineer, Of Falls City, Among Dead Following Collision Of Missouri Pacific Trains----Several Injured.

(United Press.)

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Feb. 7.—Five persons were killed and at least fifteen injured in a headon collision of a Missouri Pacific passenger train and a freight train near Nearman, Kas., late today.

The wreck was caused when passenger train No. 104, Omaha to Kansas City, crashed into a freight train. The passenger locomotive jumped the track as it approached the freight which was on a siding and ploughed into the freight locomotive.

The dead:

R. H. Jones, engineer, Falls City, Neb.

Marvin C. Woddell, engineer, Kansas City.

W. E. Gardner, fireman, Kansas City.

D. R. Wires, fireman, Council Bluffs, Ia.

An unidentified soldier riding the "blinds."

Missouri Pacific officials here said there had been a "bad mixup" but would not comment further.

Due to a mixup in telephone calls several ambulances went to Merriam, Kas., a small town on the opposite side of Kansas City from where the wreck occurred.

None of the passenger coaches left the rails.

An unknown number of persons in the coaches were injured. It was reported only members of the train crew were injured seriously.

Nearman is a switching station about seven miles north of here.

So far as officials had been able to learn tonight, the wreck was caused when the pony trucks of the passenger locomotive jumped the rails just as the big engine was approaching the freight locomotive.

An investigation failed to disclose what caused the front wheels of the engine to leave the rails.

Wise died in a hospital here.

Three seriously injured in local hospitals. They are soldiers from Fort Leavenworth, Kas. They are Jack Painter, Dillon Caulston and Kenneth Bunker.

Missouri Pacific officials at Lincoln had received no word of the wreck early Saturday night. Number 104 runs between Omaha and Kansas City, leaving Omaha at 8:15 a. m., and arriving in Kansas City at 3.30.

Ralph H. Jones, engineer who lost his life in the wreck, is the eldest son of Ed Jones, conductor running on the Missouri Pacific's Crete branch. He has relatives here and is well known in railroad circles here.

In a telephone message from Nebraska City, where the parents of Jones live, Mrs. Jones certified the reports of Ralph's death. She said the father had received word in a message from Kansas City. Aside from the brief announcement that he had been killed in a wreck at Nearman, there was no other information in the message, she told relatives here.

Ralph Jones was married and leaves a wife.

THE WEATHER.

ABSOLVE DRIVER IN GIRL'S DEATH

Witnesses Corroborate Poland's Story of Fatality Near School.

Gertrude Brockway, 8-year-old school girl who died Friday afternoon from injuries received when struck by a truck driven by George Poland, farmer living southwest of Lincoln, came to her death as the result of an unavoidable accident, near Thirteenth and South streets, a coroner's jury at the inquest held Saturday afternoon decided.

Poland testified that he was driving slowly, about ten miles an hour, near the center of the street, when he suddenly saw the girl before his car.

"I saw her just as she was in front of my car," he said. "Then I picked her up and carried her in my arms to St. Elizabeth's hospital."

Mr. and Mrs. George Burgess, living southwest of Lincoln, who were following Poland's truck, and William H. Hobart riding with Burgess, corroborated Poland's statements.

Burgess said he thought the girl hesitated and turned about when in front of the car.

Pat Riordan, 1300 E street, gave similar testimony. He was driving a car behind that operated by Burgess.

Miss Lena Merrill, teacher at the Saratoga school also appeared. The teachers watch the children across the street at either end of the school, she said, but the school has no traffic officer.

The jury was out about fifteen minutes. The verdict was signed by E. S. Wolfenbarger, R. H. Neal, C. H. Hedlund, F. H. Fortune, E. T. Leck and W. A. Fink.

Dr. A. L. McKinnon, who performed an operation upon the girl, testified that she died from a fracture at the base of the skull.

PROPHET FACED WITH POVERTY

Celestial Dream Blasted—Children of Robert Reidt Hungry.

EAST PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Feb. 7.—If the world is determined to go on, despite the prophecies of doomsday, Robert Reidt and his little band of Reformed Adventists decided tonight they would just have to make the best of it and go back to work.

Carrots and water went all right for a couple of days but the Reidt children are getting hungry.

The wage of prophecy is poverty, as far as the fervent little German who predicted the world's end is concerned. Having sold his home and all his worldly goods for a song, he finds himself up against the prospect of finding a residence here to replace the celestial one he was prepared to occupy.

Not that Reidt has given up hope entirely. He watched the sky again tonight and prayed for those who scoffed. But his enthusiasm had waned and his followers had drifted away.

Only his immediate family and the beared disciple, Will Downs of Yaphank, remained of the group who expected to become "brides of the lamb," and be led into heaven any time after midnight Friday.

The desolate hillside where Reidt watched in vain today was churned ankle deep in mud.

For since the world did not come to an end, the prophet is still a paperhanger.

Sarah E. Marshall, Mother of Deceased, Is Principal Beneficiary.

The appraised value of the estate left by Lewis W. Marshall, Lincoln real estate man, who died March 23. a week after the death of his wife, Nellie M. W. Marshall, is $174,325, according to a report of G. H. Risser filed in county court Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Marshall died March 16 and her husband 7 days later after being brought to Lincoln from Florida. In the woman's will, drawn on rough loose leaf paper. January 8. 1909. her estate, consisting of $70,846.53 in personal property and a $2,500 interest in a Perkins county farm was left to the husband with the provision that an annuity of $600 be paid her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. White.

Upon Marshall's death the properties were not otherwise willed went to his mother, Sarah E. Marshall. His will. which he made December 11, 1920, provides that Union block property and 100 shares of the Union Real Estate Co., should go to a nephew, John Marshall Miles. One share of the stock was left to a sister, Pauline M. Wheeler, to revert to the Miles block of stock at her death.

Final hearing on the estate was set for March 9 by Judge Robin Reid upon agreement of the heirs, and their attorney. Claude Wilson.

It is estimated that an inheritance tax of from $1,500 to $1,800 will be collected from the estate.

A detailed list of properties listed in the Lewis Marshall estate follows:

Real estate, $23,000; 200 shares of Union Real Estate Co., stock, $140,000; 15 shares of Pithian Building Co. stock, $75; 734 shares of the Star Van & Storage Co., stock, $3,675; fifty-four shares of Lehigh Sewer Pipe and Tile Co., stock $4,500; three automobiles, $750: half interest in barber shap at 1010 O street. $300; office fixtures, $75; motor boat, $950. Total personal property $151,325. Total with real estate $174,325.

Half interest in Perkins county farm, $2,500: cash $46.53; ninety-nine shares of capital stock in the Union Real Estate Co, $69.300; eighteen shares of Lehigh Sewer Pipe and Tile Co., $1,500. Total personal property, $70,846 53. Total with real estate $73,346.53.

A final account and final report of the administratrix Effie Aeserleman, shows that $14,795,35 has been collected by the sale of some of the property and that of this sum $11,540.17 has been expended. Inheritance tax, administrative expenses and other expenses are yet to be met, her report shows.

the fact that no requirement for a physical examination is made as to those who take out licenses and are married in Nebraska is considered by many lawyers a fatal defect. Such attempted regulation could, no doubt, be successfully resisted on the ground that it makes an unconstitutional discrimination between citizens of Nebraska.

Wisconsin Also Strict.

Wisconsin is the only other state which makes any pretense of undertaking to prevent bridal couples going outside to have the knot tied. Its law says that if they do so to evade the law, the marriage is null and void; otherwise they are required merely to procure a blank certificate when they come back, have it filled out, and sent to the vital statistics bureau of the state.

The proposed Nebraska act, however, makes it prima facie evidence of intent to evade the law if the couple leave the state, and they must undergo physical examination upon their return, regardless of what the circumstances may have been.

Adjoining States Not Strict.

Of the six states bordering Nebraska, five—Iowa, Missouri, Colorado, Wyoming, and South Dakota—have none of the restrictive regulations contained in the present Nebraska law or the proposed amendment to it. Kansas forbids epileptics and feeble-minded persons to marry, unless the woman is over 45 years of age; but it has no requirement for advance notice in taking out licenses, for physical examinations, or even for statements by the the applicants themselves that they are not afflicted with serious diseases.

North Dakota is the only state which compels both bride and groom to undergo physical examination preceding marriage. The man must also make oath that he has no venereal malady. If the woman is past 45, these provisions do no apply No notice is required.

Must Be Examined.

In Wisconsin and Alabama the man must be examined as to his physical status, but not the woman. A physician's certificate is required in Oregon, though it need not be based on a complete physical examination.

The Wisconsin law requires 5 days' notice to be given before the license is issued. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts also have the 5-day provision. In New Jersey there must be 48 hours' notice before the license is issued, and the nuptials may not be held for another 24 hours thereafter. Delaware laws call for 24 hours notice. Nebraska is the only state where ten days' notice must be given.

Must Give Bond in Tennessee.

A peculiar kink is found in the Tennessee law, where there are no eugenic requirements of any kind but anyone taking out a matrimonial license must give bond in the sum of $1,250. Presumably this is to guarantee that the couple are not marrying in violation of the statutes which prohibit unions between blood relatives or between persons of different races.

North Dakota and Washington have enacted regulations forbidding habitual drunkards or persons afflicted with pulmonary tuberculosis to enter the hymeneal state. In Washington, criminals are included in the ban.

The candidate for wedlock in Wisconsin must pony up several fees, including $2 to the physician who makes the examination and $2 more for a microscopic and blood test if venereal disease be suspected. The judge of any court is empowered to suspend the requirement for 5 days' notice, upon payment of another $2 fee.

High Blood Pressure Makes Thousands Old Before Their Time

High Blood Pressure, Hardened Arteries and Heart Trouble Result n Premature Ageing and Shortens Many Lives.

It is estimated that fifty per cent of men and women past forty and many younger ones are victims of high blood pressure.

The commonest symptoms of this dangerous disease, which saps vitality and brings frequent prostration, are dizzy spells, dull pain in the head, peculiar flutterings near the heart, and black spots before the eyes.

Unfortunately few people realize that they are suffering from this disease which is almost universal in America, until they are suddenly prostrated by a stroke, or find themselves the victims of Bright's disease.

But there is hope for you no matter how old your case, from a wonderful new formula It seemingly brings freedom from high blood pressure after most things fail.

This wonderful treatment is known as Van Burr's Vitalizer, and is prepared in convenient capsule form All you need do is to take three tablets a day and the symptoms seem to vanish like magic.

To prove these statements the Van Burr Institute, 115 Gateway Station, Kansas City, Mo. generously offers to send a $1 treatment free and postpaid to anyone who writes them If it cures you, you can repay the favor by telling others, however, there is no obligation Just send your name today—a card will do—for this free treatment It may be the means of your avoiding apoplexy, Bright's disease, and hardening of the arteries —Adv.

BORAH WOULD RESTORE ALL OF PROPERTY

"because American claims against Germany are protected by the Paris treaty."

He was supported by Senator King, democrat of Utah.

"There is no longer any need to hold this property," said Borah. "The time has come to release this property as a matter of self respect. The manner in which we seized this property was in violation of our treaty with Germany. We merely took it over as a trustee to return it to its alien owners after peace. We haven't any right to hold it indefinitely."

King said the government had no right to dispose of the seized property.

DEMPSEY AND ESTELLE WED

quote with a playful air when other guests arrived and interrupted.

The fighter and his bride will make their permanent home, in Southern California, he said, probably in Los Angeles.

He is at present negotiating for the purchase of a ranch in San Diego county. If the deal is consummated, he will probably build a summer home on it, he said.

The picturesque couple, center of rumor and gossip for months, surprised friends today by appearing unannounced at the local courty courthouse where they were licensed for the nuptials. The wedding had been previously set for May 20 and Jack had insisted there would be no change in the date.

Plans Carefully Withheld.

"The wedding will be tonight, though Estelle says tomorrow," the champion told newspaper men. And early tonight found Jack and Estelle playing hide and seek with reporters, their plans for the ceremony carefully withheld.

"That's to be a secret until the last minute," said the champion "I'm afraid if I told you boys where the match was coming off you'd all crash the gates."

"Yes, it is going to be a simple ceremony," chimed in the bride-to-be.

"No one but our intimate friends are to be present"

"We're going to be very happy together aren't we honey?"

Miss Taylor smiled prettily

"She wants me to quit the ring," Dempsey went on. "All women are that way about boxing. I know.

Not Ready to Retire.

"Im not ready to retire yet though and I don't think Estelle will object very hard."

Dempsey's famous grin was still with him when he and Miss Taylor returned this evening from the races at Tijuana.

He proudly displayed the marriage license which was secured at the county clerk's office this noon and reassured himself and every-one else by saying

"I'll be a much married man soon, boys"

Kearns Sends Blessing.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 7.—Jack Kearns' blessing will go with Jack Dempsey and his bride on their honeymoon.

"I wish the mall the happiness in the world," he said here.

"I knew they'd be married, but this speed does surprise me. They have all my best wishes."

WILL OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF LINCOLN'S BIRTH

Leslie M. Shaw Principal Speaker On Evening Program.

Plan Reception at Chamber For Former Cabinet Member.

F. M. Hall, chairman of the Lincoln anniversary program for Thursday, announced Saturday that plans for the observance of the martyred president's birthday call for a reception to former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, at the chamber of commerce at noon, and a Lincoln memorial program in the evening at 8 o'clock at St. Paul's church. Governor Shaw will be the principal speaker and Mr. Hall will preside. Governor McMullen will also speak.

Prior to his appearance at the chamber of commerce where he will be received by a committee representing all interests of the city, Mr. Shaw will speak during the convocation period at the university. It is expected that he will speak briefly at the chamber.

In addition to the speaking in the evening, musical numbers will feature the program with Mrs Carrie B Raymond directing a chorus of 100 voices. The evening program follows.

BRITAIN READY TO TALK DEBTS WITH FRENCH

Great Britain, France and Belgium as well as the late enemy.

Herriot will go to London as soon as possible when the international situation permits and continue conversations begun here by Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary.

Clementel to Visit U. S.

PARIS, Feb. 7—The French finance minister, M. Clementel, will make an "unofficial" visit to the United States shortly after March 4, it as learned today.

While in America he will, his friends said, "get first hand information necessary for an intelligent settlement of the Franco-American debt."

Clementel's friend emphasized the visit would be "absolutely unofficial." He does not intend to set a date for his departure from France until he has obtained the approval of fellow members of the cabinet, it was said.

The trip, it was further said, will depend on the success of the "unofficial" visit which Premier Heriot and Minister Clementel will make to London to discuss the British debt.

Clementel has had "purely personal conversations" with Willis Booth, president of the international chamber of commerce, vice president of a New York bank and formerly a Los Angeles banker.

Booth emphasised to Clementel, it was said, that only by making a personal visit to America would he be in a position to intelligently handle the Franco-American debt situation.

NEW LOCATION OF STOCK YARDS MAY BENEFIT LINCOLN

especially interested in making Lincoln a packing center is readily understood from the fact that its engines pull four-fifths of the freight in and out of this city. At Omaha, center of the packing industry in Nebraska, the Burlington is hardly the principal railroad and has for competitors besides the Union Pacific, half a dozen other carriers. Consequently it is called on to haul a share of the freight in and out of that town which is small in comparison to the amount that would be handled by it if Lincoln were a principal packing center.

Lincoln Favored Spot.

As the converging point for three main lines of the Burlington, from Chicago to Denver, from St. Louis to Seattle, and from the twin cities to Lincoln, as well as the central city for numerous branch lines, Lincoln is a particularly favored spot for an industry that deals with agriculture. Already enough cattle and sheep are sold here to warrant the regular publication of prices on those animals. Were a large packing market established, the Burlington would be benefited both by the haul of livestock into the city, and by the carriage of the dressed meat to points of distribution.

Much Work to Be Done.

The new yards will include a large track system, three big sheep barns, cattle pens, a hay barn, general office building, material barn, and a 100,000 bushel elevator. Some preliminary work has already been undertaken, but the project will not be finished before fall. Straightening of the road on the west side of the yards, and of the Middle creek channel, which has encroached on the road bed, are included in the program inaugurated by the Burlington and upheld by directors of Sanitary District No. 1.

FORD RUNS 57 MILES ON GALLON OF GASOLINE

A new automatic and self-regulating device has been invented by John A. Stransky, 170 Fourth St., Pukwana, South Dakota, with which automobiles have made from 35 to 57 miles on a gallon of gasoline. It removes carbon and reduces spark plug trouble and overheating. It can be installed by any one in five minutes Mr. Stransky wants distributors and is willing to send a sample at his own risk Write him today.— Advertisement.

sealing of the original passage and were again risking their lives to re-check the survey which established the position of the "life or death" shaft

With the drilling virtually half accomplished, it was considered necessary to make assurance doubly sure that no error has been made. The survey, made originally by Roy B. Anderson, formerly of Lancaster, Pa., and now associated with a Louisville company, and Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, geologist of the University of Kentucky, was re-checked once before and found accurate, but it was felt the third check should be made while it was still possible to enter the passage.

The scientists, carrying yardsticks and an aneroid barometer, were able to proceed only fifty feet along the narrow torturous passage but the distance from there to the spot where Floyd lies has been very definitely established and their readings and measurements were calculated from this . No error was found and the work of drilling which now has settled to a routine of labor was ordered continued.

The night crew was ordered into the shaft and the creak of the derrick raising its buckets of earth, virtually from off the chest of the victim, the talk of men as they toil, an occasional sharp order, the stump of heavily booted feet in muddy ground, and, over all, the whisper of scores of persons, almost unconsciously awed into keeping their voices subdued as if the presence of death itself, sounded out of the ledges of Sand cave.

The forces of science had reopened the onslaught against nature

DOCTORS MEET

PLUMBERS HERE FOR CONVENTION

Master plumbers from all parts of Nebraska will be in Lincoln to attend the sixteenth annual convention of the state association which will assemble here Wednesday and Thursday, February 11 and 12. Between fifty and seven-five delegates are expected.

President Bushnell of the chamber of commerce, will welcome the visitors. Wednesday afternoon the officers will submit their annual reports and the convention will close Thursday with a banquet at 6:30.

Speakers listed on the program are F. E. Coatsworth, president of the Queen Incubator company, who will talk on "Co-operation and Organization." George K. Wells, of the National Trade Extension bureau, will discuss "Apprenticeship;" Prof. Charles A. Robbins of the law college of the University of Nebraska, will speak on "The Importance of Signed Contracts;" Fred R. Stone, public director of the First National bank, will tell "How to Finance a Business;" G. R. Martin of Lincoln, will discuss "Profits."

The officers are: President, P. W. Hart, University Place; vice president, Howard McCray, Albion; treasurer, John A. Anderson, Omaha; secretary, E. H. Brown, Omaha. Members of the board of directors: Howard McCray, Albion; E. L. Dimick, Laurel; John A. Anderson, Omaha; P. W. Hart, University Place; Martin J. Kelly, Grand Island; Charles Miller, McCook, and G. H. Phelps, Lincoln.

CREDIT MEN TO HOLD BANQUET

About fifty members of the Omaha Credit Men's association will attend the February meeting of the local organization at the Lincoln hotel Tuesday evening. The guests will be met at the train by representatives of the Lincoln club and escorted on an automobile tour of the city and visit to Lincoln stores and credit offices.

Frank M. Stephens will be toastmaster at the dinner which will be served at 6:15 in the main dining room of the hotel. A. A. Braun, president, will welcome the Omaha executives to the city and introduce the guests. H. O. Wrenn, president of the Omaha association, will give the response. Judge E. B. Chappell of the Lincoln municipal court will deliver the principal address. Frances Carrothers will give a group of readings and John Costello will sing several selections, accompanied by Clyde Davis.

Music for the dancing which will follow the banquet is to be furnished by the Candy Kids orchestra

LUMBER DEALERS MEET IN OMAHA

The Nebraska Lumber Dealers association and the Cornhusker Knot-Hole club will hold a joint convention and institute at the Rome hotel in Omaha, February 18, 19 and 20. About one thousand retail lumbermen are expected to attend.

L. C. Oberlies will be "schoolmaster" at a school to be held in connection with the institute. Several members of the association will give instruction on buying, advertising, selling, accounting, collecting, and other subjects.

Oz Black, cartoonist for the Lincoln Star, will give a chalk talk on "How the Lumberman Can Draw Trade" Harvey C. Kendall, former president of the Lincoln Ad club, will speak on "Can a Lumberman Increase His Business by Advertising?"

Action will be taken at the annual business meeting on the proposal to reorganize the mutual insurance department of the association.

This is the first year that the Knot-Hole club has held its institute in connection with the annual convention. The club has been active in community work throughout the state during the past year and has supported the Nebraska Dairy Development society's program.

Legion Men to Continue Drive For Membership

Commander W. L. Cummins of the Lincoln American Legion, issued a statement Saturday thanking comrades who worked during the recent membership drive. He urged a further campaign for new members.

Cummins apepaled to individual members to aid in signing the men who have not yet joined in getting them interested in the Legion work and meetings in the new quarters, 1505 O street.

COURT TO HEAR SPECIAL CASES

Two Cases To Come Up Which Involve Question of Constitutionality.

Coal Company Stockholders Seeking To Have Tax Valuation Reduced.

The Supreme court will hold a special session next Tuesday for three cases, two of which involve a question of constitutionality. The third is a rehearing of the Phelps vs. Williams case appealed from the Franklin county District court, relating to the collection of a $10,000 note.

The most important cases is that of Butte vs. Hamilton county, in which George C. Bute and other stockholders in the Bucskhannon River coal company and Fink River coal companf, both of West Virginia, are seeking to have the tax valuation on the stock reduced.

The stockholders claim that due to a strike in 1922 the Buckhannon companf was forced to surpend business and owing to the fact that it had previously operated at a loss business has not since been resumed. On this grounds they claim that their stock is practically worthless and has no market value and therefore should not be assessed.

The Hamilton county officials assessed it at full value of $100 per share.

In regard to the Fink company the stockholders claim that though the land held by the company is valuable it is at present inaccessable and of no real value and ask that the assessment valuation be reduced.

The district court refused to grant their petition.

The third case is a dispute which was once settled by the state railway commission but an appeal has been taken from the commission's ruling.

It is between Lena Lindermann and the St. Joe and Grand Island railroad company. Lena Lindermann sought to force the railroad company to build a private crssing over its right of way connecting land on each side of the tract owned by her. Under the law a railroad must build such a crossing where its tracks divi des land owned by one person.

The railway commission ruled that it should build the crossing but the company claims that the land was purchased after the track had been established and it is there fore released from the responsibility.

A SHOWDOWN ON AIR STRENGTH OF AMERICA LOOMS

Congressional Inquiry May Result From Charges Of Mitchell.

General Facing Possible Demotion And Perhaps Courtmartial.

WASHINGTON Feb 7— A showdown on America's actual and relative air strength was considered tonight as the almost certain result of Brigadier General Mitchell's vigorous assault on his chiefs for their attitude toward the air service regardless of what happens to Mitchell personally

Inability of Mitchell and his opponents to agree on figures showing the actual condition of the air forces has produced a bad impression and congress may take initiative in starting a thorough investigation to clear up the statistical chaos relative to air power

Mitchell faces demotion and possibl courtmartial for insubordination His bold flaming views before congress his slashing criticism of his immediate chiefs and his attacks upon the good faith of the navy are held inevitably to presage removal from his post as assistant chief of the air service when his term expires March 26

Punishment Looms

Moreover by making his reply to Secretary of War Weeks public at the capitol before Weeks received it he becomes guilty of insubordination and on this ground a more severe penalty than merely losing his official position may be meted out

Mitchell's attack drew from Weeks today a defense of high officers directly or indirectly but in a formal statement Weeks appealed to the country not to be critical of the officers assailed by him

I have noted there is a tendency on the part of some newspapers and some men in public life to be critical of the officers actively connected with the army Weeks said

Praise For Officers

It is well for the country to keep in mind who these officers are Very largely they are men who commanded the American armies in France during the World war in such a manner as to bring everlasting glory to the American army and the American people

First and foremost is General Pershing who has just been relieved as chief of staff

President Coolidge may enter the controversy shortly but for the moment he is leaving the whole controversy up to Secretary Weeks and Secretary Wilbur and their advisors He has on his desk the report of the general board of the navy on its inquiry into the relative values of aircraft and battleships but probably will not make them public now because it would immediately become a secondary storm center and perpetuate the raging quarrel

Road Conditions

The following report on highways in this vicinity was given out Saturday afternoon by the Lincoln Auto club

Boy Dies From Burns Received In An Oil Furnace

LOUISVILLE, Ky Feb 7 — Albert Lee Greaver, 12 years old, died here today as a result of burns received in an oil furnace

The boy is believed to have crawled into the furnace and fallen asleep At 6 o'clock this morning John Jones negro janitor, lighted the furnace Shortly after the fire had been lighted Jones heard screams emanating from the furnace Upon opening the door he found the boy squirming in the flames

Fear stricken the janitor turned off the furnace fire and with difficulty pulled the boy out He was taken to a hospital but lived only a few hours

Police believe the janitor's story but say the case will be thoroughly investigated

LAWYER ASSERTS GIRL UNBALANCED

Insanity To Be Defense Of Dorothy Ellingson, Attorney Says.

SAN FRANCISCO Feb 7 Dorothy Ellingson was declared to International News Service tonight in an exclusive interview with Alexander Mooslin attorney for the 16 year old defendant who murdered her mother and then went out to drink and dance

Revealing the plans for the defense of the girl for the first time Mooslin declared that the plea to save the young slayer from a long term in San Quentin prison would be unqualified insanity

Dorothy is not sane or normal in any respect declared Mooslin Her actions show that clearly and we will prove she is not sane

Dr Jau Don Ball famous mental expert will examine the girl Wednesday Mooslin said subjecting her to a long series of mental tests

The same day Dorothy will appear in Superior court for arraignment

She will enter a plea of not guilty to murder her attorney declared A report covering Dorothy's examination by Dr Ball will be made the latter part of the week and on this report her defense will be largely based

TRADE REPORTS OF PAST WEEK ARE FAVORABLE

Markets Reflect In Price Movements Improvements In Industry.

Expansion In Demand For Commodities Results In "Speeding Up."

NEW YORK Feb 7 — Reports and forecasts from the important departments of American trade and industry during the past week were uniformly favorable The principal speculative markets reflected in their movements of prices the improvement that has come into the respective industries since the turn of the year The grain markets were the most notable exception to that rule but the break in prices of wheat and rye was due entirely to technical market conditions the desire of traders to take profits and the uncovering of stop loss orders which if november the market a few cents I low current price levels

Expansion in the demand for commodities in recent week has led to the speeding up of the wheels of industry and the increase in production of articles in common use

Those who have looked below the surface express the opinion that most of the heavy buying is for immediate consumption and that a close balance between production and consumption is being maintained

The most inspiring reports of the week came from the transportation industry January and early February traffic movements were the largest in the history of the country and January net earnings are expected to reflect this condition

Oil Prices Go High

Practically all the large oil companies marked up prices of crude oil and gasoline this week to new high levels So swift has been this upward movement in fact that the government has summoned some of the leaders in the industry to appear in Washington to explain the need for advances of from 3 to 6 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline within a period of a few days

Many stocks reached new high price levels for the year

Profit taking in the oil stocks was accelerated by the uneasiness felt in the stock market over the contemplated investigation of the swift rise in gasoline prices by the government Some of the railroad stocks also were under liquidation the natural result of a long forward movement in prices that invited taking of speculative profits

Cast Iron Pipe provided most of the market pyrotechnics with a further advance of 6 points making a total gain of 19 points for the week It was reported the split up of the stock was close at hand the general understanding being that the shares would be split on the basis of 2 to 1 with dividends of $4 a share against earnings of nearly $8 a share on the new basis The sugar motor copper and equipment stocks were active and strong some of the most important movements being in the Cuba Cane Sugar stocks American Sugar Refining American Smelting and Refining Mack Trucks General Motors Central Leather common and preferred and Baldwin Locomotive

Float Big Bond Issue

An important weekend incident was the successful offering and flotation of $80 000 000 of Consolidated Gas 5 1 2 per cent bonds and New York Edison 5s by the National City Co on the off day in the bond market Over subscription of the issue was announced shortly after the opening of the books and the bonds were immediately admitted to trading in the curb market where the gas bonds gained 2 1 4 points at 102 1 4 and the Edison Co 5s nearly a point Junior railroad bonds of the Missouri Pacific Katy Seaboard Airline and the Chicago Great Western systems continued their forward movement in the listed market

The grain markets made a fair recovery after the sharp decline of Friday and closing prices of wheat in Chicago and Winnipeg were about 2 cents a bushel higher Commission houses reported a heavy influx of buying orders

Despite lower cables and indications of rain in the southwest over the weekend the cotton market was firm today and prices advanced about 15 points Business was smaller in volume shorts covered over the weekend and speculative traders leaned to the buying side of the market

Call money advanced to 4 per cent in the latter part of the week Time money was unchanged Sterling exchange declined nearly a cent in the last two days and continental exchanges were also reactionary

Business failures for the week according to Bradstreet's numbered 488 against 509 last week Bank clearings for the week were $9 679 860 000 a gain of 8 6 per cent Stock sales 10 131 500 shares Bond sales $87 868 000 par value

Dozen Churches At Cave City To Offer Prayers

CAVE CITY, Ky. Feb 7—The prayers of Cave City and this entire countryside will go out from a dozen little churches, snuggled down between the hills tomorrow for the life of Floyd Collins explorer imprisoned in Sand cave

The pastors of the three Cave City churches already have arranged their services so that united prayer may be offered and from Mammoth Cave and Glasgow nearby towns, comes word that similar plans are under way there

It is as Mrs Jennie Collins stepmother of Floyd, would wish The efficacy of prayer is a tenet to which she with the simple unquestioning faith of the hill folks holds staunchly

'More prayin' with the diggin' would get Floyd out quicker" she said succinctly as she stood on the cliff of the pit the day of her only visit to the cave

NAME FREMONT MAN PRESIDENT

A. H. Waterhouse Elected Head of School Board Association.

Annual Convention Comes to a Close Saturday Afternoon.

A H Waterhouse superintendent of schools at Fremont was elected president of the Nebraska School Board association at the annual convention which closed with a meeting at the Lincoln hotel Saturday afternoon Mrs Charles Terry of Harvard was re elected vice president and H O Scharf of David City was re elected secretary treasurer

School legislation was the principal subject discussed at the Saturday afternoon session. M L Palmer of the Lincoln board of education gave an address on Reasonable Economy in School Administration C H Metcham jr chairman of the state education committee and Charles Miner, chairman of the senate education committee and Charles Miner chairman of the house education committee spoke on school bills now before the legislature

Unreasonable Economy

Mr Palmer declared that out of 7067 districts 1761 received no appropriation from the school funds because they failed to maintain a legal minimum term of school He pointed out other evidence of deplorable conditions in certain country schools He said that the average rural district levies not to exceed five mills and that some districts attempt to hold school for nine months on less than a thousand dollars It is the most unreasonable(unjust economy so called) in any department of the state government he asserted

He also reviewed the accomplishments of the Lincoln schools and explained plans for the new buildings

While I am in the legislature Representative Miner told the school men and I think I can speak for the rest of the committee there will not be a bill reported out that is a backward move for education Senator Meacham read the various senate bills pertaining to education and explained their provisions

J C Rouse of Scottsbluff spoke briefly thanking the legislative committees for their courtesies He advocated House Rolls No 149 changing the name from teachers' college to college of education No 249 prohibiting the issuance of certificates to persons under 18 No 353 for a change in certification No 361 for compulsory attendance and No 439 the tenure bill

Matson Makes Talk

State Superintendent John Matson explained the present system of certification and outlined the changes proposed

Resolutions were passed on the death of two former presidents Carl Kramer of Columbus and C D Marr of Fremont

A musical program of five numbers was given by the Girls Glee club of the David City high school under the direction of Alice M Howard supervisor of music Nearly all of the twenty two girls in the club are freshmen

The executive committee was authorized to select the city where the association will meet next year

OUTLINE MAGIC HILL PROGRAM

Plan Interesting Summer Work At Camp Fire Outings.

Miss Irene Simpson To Be Head Councillor For Older Girls.

Plans for the opening of Magic Hill camp at Camp Kiwanis until the national training school of Camp Fire are progressing rapidly, Miss Martha Curtis executive secretary said Saturday Already the opening dates for both camps have been announced and yesterday the head councillor for the older girls unit was selected and part of the program for the training school announced

The head councillor for the older girls unit which will be on Magic Hill a new camp established this year for the first time immediately south of Camp Kiwanis will be in charge of Miss Irene Springer of Lincoln daughter of Mr and Mrs L D Springer, 3140 S street Miss Springer is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is director of physical education at Simpson college Indianola Ia She has been one of the instructors at four different camps held by the Lincoln Camp Fire

Among those who will appear on the program at the national training camp are three members of the teaching staff at the University of Nebraska They are Miss Winifred Hyde professor of psychology at the university who will lecture on Phychology of the Adolescent Girl Miss Della Marie Clark instructor of physical education at the university will have charge of instruction in Camp Fire girls games and Prof Herbert Brownell of the teachers college will lecture and have charge of a field trip in which he will stress the importance of nature lore in connection with the work of teachers

The parents tea and Camp Fire exhibit scheduled by Miss Curtis for March 8 at Camp Fire headquarters in the Fraternity building is expected to be the largest ever held Miss Curtis said yesterday judging by the number of inquiries which have been made The exhibit will be divided into seven groups the judges for a part of which already have been selected

GIVES OPINION ON LICENSE LAW

Examination Required Of All Applicants For Professional Permits.

All applicants for licenses to practice osteopathy dentistry chiropractic physicians and surgeons chiropody pharmacy nursing veterinary medicine embalming and treated alike and required to take an examination even though they have practiced their vocation in other states where the standards are equal to those of Nebraska except where the statute specifically provides for the extension of reciprocity

That is the opinion of Attorney General Spillman given following an inquiry by Judge Lincoln Frost secretary of the welfare department concerning the right of the department by rule to provide for reciprocity where it is not provided for by law

In the bureau of examining boards there are ten separate boards In the branches considered by seven of these boards osteopathy dentistry chiropractic physicians and surgeons chiropody pharmacy and nurses there are specific provisions allowing the department to extend reciprocity to graduates in the different branches from other states which have equal requirements to those in Nebraska

However there are three different boards in the department of licensure those relating to veterinary medicine embalming and optometry which are given no right to grant reciprocity in the statutes

The specific question of the right of the department by rule to extend reciprocity to practitioners coming from other states was raised by a member of the veterinary board

The secretary thereupon asked the opinion of the attorney general

The veterinarians are already seeking to correct this and have caused to be introduced in the legislature a bill which allows the department to grant reciprocity to practitioners from other states

Children Awed By Beauty Of Things When Sight Is Restored By Operation

DENVER Col Feb 7—With her sight restored little Violet Emour 13 year old girl is sorrowful because she cannot adequately describe the beauty of the world

It wonderful she said simply I never saw anything like it I did not know it could be so nice

Violet spoke from her hospital cot where she has been confined since I used X rays the power of a surgeon's knife and fingers restored her sight to her Her face was flushed with the wonder of it all tears showed in her eyes unbandaged for the moment and her hands played nervously with the coverlet as she tried to express her joy

It's—It's—nice was the nearest she came

Violet and Peter Morris 18 were taken from the state home for the blind at Colorado Springs two weeks ago by authorities of the Colorado General hospital and delicate optical operations performed on them Physicians today announced the complete success of the operations and practical recovery of both patients

Yesterday both children were taken for a tour of the mountain parks But their attention was centered on wonders of their own choosing

The grass beneath her feet and a stream of running water were the first two wonders of the world to Violet

It's green she said running her fingers through the grass I didn't know what green was like

Peter more self contained than Violet, stood in awe before a brick house

I've had bricks in my hands was his sober reflection but I didn't think a brick house could look like that

On her cot in the hospital Violet is waiting for her release Then she says she is going home to romp in the fields

That trip yesterday was awfully nice she told her interviewer at parting It must be wonderful to do that every day

Violet and Peter have been blind from infancy

Are you making a study of the various furnaces on the market, with a view of having one installed in your home?

We would be glad to figure with you, and feel sure that we can persuade you that our "NORFOLK" is the furnace you are looking for.

The fact that there are thousands of satisfied patrons demonstrates that the NORFOLK Furnace, with our method of installation, is the most satisfactory on the market today.

The NORFOLK Furnace burns less fuel, and produces more heat, than any other furnace on the market, on account of the long fire travel.

If you will phone or return the attached card, we will have our heating engineer call and give you an estimate on a NORFOLK installed complete and ready for fire.

He will talk on "How Price Cutting Affects the Buyer." All printers not members of the club have been invited.

Dr. H. Guy Brown of the Lincoln State hospital staff left Saturday afternoon for Melcroft, Pa., where he will relieve Dr. S. S. Newill, head of the Newell private hospital while Doctor Newill is evactioning in Florida.

The history department of the Lincoln Woman's club will hold a meeting Monday at 2 p. m. in Faculty hall. Professor Cochran of the university will speak on "The Social Customs of the Jacksonian Period."

The members of the B. P. O. W. club will be entertained Friday evening of this week with Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Parris of Woodlawn.

AMERICANS PROTEST.

PEKING, Feb. 7. — The American legation today protested to the Chinese government against practice of the Fukien students uniting in boycotting American fish importers. A tax is collected from the merchants, it was charged, and resulting trouble culminated in the stabbing of a Chinese agent of an American firm.

LEGISLATURE MAY REDUCE EXPENSES

Leaders Will Attempt To Secure Early Adjournment This Year.

Out of $190,000 appropriated by the legislature of 1923 for its own salaries and expenses, more than $25,000 remains unspent. The state auditor's books show $21,414 on hand from the appropriation of $73,800 for incidental expenses, employes' wages, etc., and $4,747 left of the fund provided for printing.

The present legislature has passed bills, which the governor has signed, appropriating the same amounts as two years ago. Unless there are unsually heavy expense items not now anticipated, there will be a balance remaining from the current appropriation not less than from that of 1923, and perhaps greater.

Saturday was the 25th legislative day in the house of representatives. The senate has been in session just 20 days. The period for introduction of bills expired in both chambers during the past week. The total number is 729, a reduction of 27 per cent from two years ago. This gives some promise of shortening the session and adjourning earlier than usual.

The finance committee of the house has been holding hearings the past week on various items in the budget appropriation bills. It will continue doing so this week. Meanwhile, subcommittees of the committees on roads and bridges and on revenue and taxation are working on bills relative to highway construction and maintenance, the gasoline tax, reduction of the automobile license tax, and other matters.

Governor Wants Brief Session.

Governor McMullen is represented as being desirous of speeding up the legislative machinery and winding up the session as soon as possible. In this he will have the co-operation of Speaker Burke, Lieutenant Governor Williams, and leading senators and representatives. The governor can do his part by not introducing additional bills.

The absence of political friction is an encouraging symptom this year and may save considerable time. If the legislature does not devote too much time to such extraneous affairs as the creation of a real estate board, establishing a supreme court commission, the Omaha street railway franchise bill, tinkering with the primary law, extending free pass privileges, raising the butter fat content of ice cream, pensions for school teachers, changing the rate of high school tuition, and others that have been presented to its attention, it may be able to finish up by the end of March.

Some bills that might have produced a good deal of controversy have been withdrawn by their introducers, thereby contributing to a shortened session.

Both branches will reconvene Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Obituary

Mildred Pauline Moore.

Mildred Pauline Moore was born in Lincoln December 14, 1896, and died January 28, 1925, at Kearney. She made her home in Lincoln until October 29, 1924, when illness caused her to leave. She married George E. Moore of Lincoln April 21, 1920, and one child was born to them. She was a member of the Brotherhood of American Yeoman No. 3200, and of the Mothers' club of the Lynox division. Mrs Moore is survived by her husband, a son J. Robert, and daughter, Ruth Eleanor, also a brother, William Gunnarson of Omaha.

LARS O. HEDBERG.

Lars O. Hedberg was born March 16, 1854, in Soderhamn, Sweden, and passed away February 3, 1925, in Lincoln at the age of 70 years, 10 months and 17 days. Mr. Hedberg came to the United States in 1883 and settled at Lincoln when the Queen incubator factory was built in 1905. He was employed continuously by that company until the time of his death.

Before coming to this country he married Christina Lindberg who passed away February 1, 1902. He was united in marriage a second time, May 12, 1903 to Mrs. Peterson.

The survivors are: His wife, Mrs. L. O. Hedburg; two daughters, by his first marriage, Mrs. Hildred Roberts and Mrs. Hattie Kennedy of Kansas City; one daughter by his last marriage, Mrs. F. K. Roebling of Miami, Fla.; two sons, Lars August of Kansas City and Oscar Cecil of Lincoln; fourteen grandchildren, five stepchildren and one great grand child; two sisters, Mrs. W. M. Jenkins of Clay Center, Kas., and Mrs. Margarite Cary of Kansas City; and one brother, Fred Hedburg of Bellingham, Wash.

MANY CALLS FOR AID FROM POOR

Demand Is Greater Than Any Time In Last Twenty-five Years.

Poverty ridden people in Lincoln are demanding more attention than any time in the last twenty-five years, according to C. E. Prevey, secretary of the Social Welfare society.

"The condition cannot be explained by extremes of weather, unusual sickness or an extraordinary lack of employment," says Mr. Prevey. "It simply means that the poor population of the city is growing larger."

Though demands for aid were pressed on the society all during December and January of this month and more money spent than ever before, all of the supplications could not be met fully. If the number of cases and the number of persons who seem likely to become permanent charity wards continues to increase, more money will have to be supplied to prevent real suffering, says the secretary.

The welfare society spent $2,043 in December this year, which at that time was a record of expenditure for any one month. But that mark was passed in Janunary, when $2,740 was spent. The outgo in December, 1923, was $1,746 and in January, 1924, $1,880.

Such expenditures will bring the yearly average to a larger sum than the society has at its disposal, Prevey says. He asks that all who can possibly find jobs to give, notify the society at once. The society is a participating agency in the Community chest.

BODY OF TERHUNE BURIED AT WYUKA

Veteran Employe of Burlington Brought Here On Special Train.

Many Relatives, Railroad Officials, and Friends Make Trip.

The body of Charles C. Terhune, Burlington roadmaster at Omaha for the last eight years and formerly an employe of the same railroad in Lincoln, arrived here aboard a special train at 1:55 p. m., Saturday afternoon. It was taken immediately to Wyuka cemetery, where Dr. A. A. Brooks of the Trinity Methodist church said a few words before the interment.

Two hundred relatives, Burlington officials and other friends accompanied the body to Lincoln. Among them were Superintendent N. C. Allen, Train Master W. P. Mettlin, Train Master L. E. Caldwell, Master Carpenter, A. F. Hedengren, Water Service Foreman S. H. Synder, Yardmasters, Bolshaw, Curran, Berg, Walters and Myers, Chief dispatcher A. A. Thiehoff, Storekeeper W. F. Huncke, Store Keeper I. G. Morrison, H. R. Clarke of Chicago, W. P. McPherson, practically the whole office force from Omaha, all section foremen in Mr. Terhune's territory and a number of section gangs.

Brought To Lincoln On Special.

"Charley," as he was known to hundreds of his co-workers, made the last trip on a special train manned by Trainmen Roach, Pendleton, and Blunk and Enginemen Barhardt and Chaka.

As the special was leaving Omaha, Superintendent Allen remarked, "Terhune was one of the best men we had, stern in the performance of his duties, strictly loyal to the company and loved by all. That carload of flowers is the voluntary expression of the esteem of men in every departmen all along the line."

Mr. Terhune was born at Woodburn, Ia., in 1875 and died at an Omaha hospital Wednesday, on the anniversary of his fiftieth birthday. For twenty-eight years he had been in the service of the Burlington, and fourteen years ago came to Lincoln from Osceola, Ia., to take up the work of yardmaster. After three years, he became roadmaster, in which capacity he served three years more before going to Omaha in 1914 to take up the same duties there.

Was Ill But Week.

Death came after a week's illness following an operation. He is survived by his wife, Rosalind, a son, Bernard A., of Centerville, Ia., a daughter, Mrs. C. J. Rosborough of Des Moines, and two grandchildren.

Active pallbearers were Roadmasters Double, Hawes of Lincoln, Conductor Roach, Road Foreman Hoenshell and Roadmasters Hurlbut and Ferry. The honorary pallbearers were Section Foremen O. E. Clarke, George Ford, M. S. Chaney, T. Olsen, M. Stevens and C. Calendo.

Family of 7 Children Now State Wards

A family of seven children, ranging in age from a few months to 14 years, became wards of the state Saturday afternoon in juvenile court when a plumber's helper giving his name as Manwiller, but who is said to be better known in Lincoln as Jewell, appeared with his wife and the children and asked that the state take them off his hands. Four of the children were those of a deceased wife.

The father and mother of the first wife, who said in court that they had raised a family of eleven, have helped keep the children for some time and stated that they would have been willing to take them indefinitely if the father had contributed to their support.

He was recently placed under arrest on a charge brought by his wife and was taken to Marshalltown, Ia., where he is said to have agreed to pay $5 a week for their support. The grandparents said Saturday that this had not been done.

MEGINNIS TALKS AT GENERAL MEETING.

H. W. Meginnis was the speaker at the meeting of the Lincoln Council of Parent-Teacher associations, held Thursday afternoon at the McKinley auditorium. He told of school architecture, and of the influence of its purpose on its style, illustrating the growth of this particular type of architecture with stereopticon slides, and showing the plans for the new Clinton school to be erected at Twenty-ninth and Houldrege streets.

Mrs. Clara S. Clayton gave a talk on the child labor amendment.

Plans for the Parent-Teacher pageant, "Progress," to be presented at the high school auditorium February 20 at 7:45 o'clock. The presentation is in celebration of the national founders' day, which falls February 17.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM FOR PRESCOTT SCHOOL.

Abraham Lincoln, his life and work, will be the subject of the meeting of the Prescott P. T. A. Thursday in the kindergarten room. Pupils of the school will give patriotic songs and dances. Mrs. C. L. Rundstrom is in charge of talks by Edwin Nelson on the "Life of Lincoln;" the "City of Lincoln," by Donald Easterday; and the exposition given by Ruth Smith on the "Statue of Lincoln by Daniel Chester French."

Mrs. C. D. Husted and Mrs. Fred Deweese are hostesses for the meeting, and Carleen Steckleberg, Gertrude Taylor, Thelma Kirby, Gertrude Bryant, Edith Brockway, and Ruby Johnson are ushers.

MUSICAL PROGRAM GIVEN AT PARK SCHOOL.

A musical program was given at the meeting of the Park Parent-Teacher association held Wednesday afternoon in the kindergarten room of the school. The Kinsella method of piano instruction was demonstrated by the pupils of the beginners' class, and selections were played by the boys and girls of the advanced class. Fourth A and Fifth B pupils sang groups of songs.

At the business meeting, the membership drive, now in progress, was discussed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. H. Burnhardt, Mrs. Peter Frausheiser, Miss Ella Noll, Miss Bertha Bioss, and Miss Edna Kolterman, at the social hour which followed the meeting proper.

CONGDON PRESIDENT FOR NEW ASSOCIATION.

A. R. Congden was elected president of the Whitier Parent-Teacher association at its organization meeting held Tuesday evening. E. W. Aura was chosen first vice president, Mrs. E. G. Bignell second vice president, Mrs. William Shedd, fourth vice president, Mrs. T. A. Kiessellbach, secretary, and Mrs. E. F. Estes, treasurer. Mrs. G. W. Wentz, state president was in charge at the business session, and called on Mrs. J. H. Frandsen, president of the Lincoln council, to tell the purposes and aims of the association.

The Whittier boys' chorus sang, and the girls of the gymnasium classes gave an "Old Man's Dance." Lucile Aura played a violin solo and the girls at the school gave a "Hyacinth" dance. Albert English played a cornet solo.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria at the close of the program.

LINCOLN'S TRIAL NEARING AN END

GENEVA, Ill., Feb. 7. — Warren J. Lincoln, lawyer and florist, probably will know Tuesday or Wednesday the penalty he is to pay for killing his wife and her brother, burning the bodies, and imbedding the heads in a concrete block. Both sides rested their case late today and arguments are to start Monday.

State rebuttal witnesses took the stand today and said Lincoln was sane. Lincoln also stoutly maintains he is sane, but his attorneys insist he is insane and produced medical experts who testified they are convinced Lincoln is of unsound mind. One of the defense alienists defined Lincoln's case as "rheumatism of the brain."

Dr. E. J. Hinton, head of the Elgin state hospital, and Dr. Raymond Dowell, an associate, testified today that Lincoln is a "crafty liar," seeking to save his neck by clever play acting

He is not a victim of delusions, they testified. He is highly intelligent, they held.

The same opinions were given by four residents of Mt. Pulaski, Ill., where Lincoln formerly lived. Their testimony was given to offset that of a half dozen defense witnesses who gave it as their opinion that Lincoln is mentally unbalanced and has been since 1919.

Say Substantial Cars Best Form Of Insurance

Safety has become of such primary importance in motoring that owners are giving more consideration than ever before to safer types of motor cars, according to L. E. Corcoran, general sales manager of the Pierce-Arrow Mtor Car company.

"Prudent owners, now are demanding cars which are safe not only from the standpoint of pedestrians and others, but which afford the occupants themselves a high degree of protecton," said Mr. Corcoran.

"Anyone who has driven or ridden in the larger more substantially built type of motor car has experienced a sense of almost complete immunity from danger. A heavier, more stable car is safer much in the same way as a well-built cruiser is safer than a flimsy canoe

"For that reason, an increasing number of motor car buyers are regarding the higher first cost of the better class of automobles as a sensible form of insurance which protects themselves and their families, as well as others."

Mr. Corceran assigned the factor of increased safety as one of the reasons for the unprecedented demand for Pierce-Arrow's high-priced Series 33 car during the past year.

POISON MYSTERY STILL UNSOLVED

Scene Of Ohio University Probe Shifts Monday To Police Headquarters.

Prosecutor Convinced That Strychnine Planted In Capsules By Some Fiend.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 7.—Balked at every turn, investigators of the [illegible] university withdrew from the campus tonight without a single new clue upon the mystery with which they have grappled fruitlessly since Wednesday.

On Monday morning the scene of investigation will be shifted to the Columbus police department. Several students remain to be questioned.

One in particular, who returned to his home in Canton over the week end, will be asked concerning his unauthorized presence in the university dispensary the day the poison was dealt out.

During today's hearings at the university discrepancies in the testimony of two students were [illegible] out. Prosecutor [illegible] [illegible] that the poison [illegible] some fiend in [illegible] points to no single individual.

A girl student told of seeing the Canton youth come into the dispensary, take down a bottle and either take something out or put something in. Several men students in the pharmacy department, however, said they believed that he was merely waiting on himself due to the rush in the dispensary at the time.

At police headquarters Monday the less than a dozen students who have not been interviewed will come before the police prosecutor, who decided to withdraw from the campus because of class work.

It was determined today that altogether ten quinine capsules in the pharmacy dispensary were adulterated with large quantities of strychnine, including the two which killed the two students.

Misses Ruth and Eleanor Wilson returned to Chadron from Chicago this week. Miss Ruth Wilson has but recently recovered from a very serious illness.

Two Early Towns Consolidated To Make the Present City Of Auburn

Lower, left—First class to graduate from Auburn high school, June, 1889. Prof. Charles F. Fordyce now of the state university, in center. Right, first court house at Auburn.

AUBURN, Neb., Feb. 7.—Auburn, county seat of Nemaha county, can justly be called the twin city of southeastern Nebraska, inasmuch as it is the amalgamation of the towns of Sheridan and Calvert.

Early in the year 1882, a sort of courtship sprung up between the towns of Sheridan and Calvert. The owners of the townsites wanted to united their fortunes for better or for worse, as it was evident that neither of the towns could secure the county seat, and at a point some three miles to the southeast, where the Missouri Pacific and Burlington railways now cross, there had been stakes driven and a townsite called Carson had been surveyed.

The courtship continued for some time and then the twain agreed to forsake all others and become Auburn. At this time Brownville was the county seat and while strenuous efforts had been made for some time to remove it to some other place, all these were in vain.

On May 1, 1882, Auburn became a full fledged entity and blossomed forth with new store buildings, a regular building boom being soon in progress. It was located in the exact center of the county.

The first bank in the north part of of the town, formerly Calvert, was started May 20, 1882, and called the Bank of Auburn. It was under the management of Kelsey and Starin, but it did business only a short time and was absorbed by the stockholders of the Samuelson bank.

In June, 1885, a special election was held for the purpose of finally locating every qualified voter in the county. 1,816 expressed themselves in favor of Auburn, while 659 voted for Brownville.

A few days after this question had been decided Howe & Nixon and the Lincoln Land company set to work and erected a frame building, 40 by 40 feet in dimensions and two stories high with an addition, which was rented to the county for a court house. The lease was for fvie years at a rental of $60 per month, with the privilege of continuing the lease for a longer term. This building was leased for a number of years and then purchased by the county and was occupied until 1900, when the offices and records were moved into the present substantial stone court house, built at a cost of $40,000.

The Nemaha County Agricultural Fair and Driving Park association was organized during the summer of 1885 and October 6 to 9 of that year the first county fair was held in Auburn.

The Auburn Street Railway company was duly incorporated June 20, 1884, with a capital stock of $10,000, but up to the present time no track has been laid. The incorporators were A. H. Gilmore, D. J. Wood, W. T. Reed, C. E. Waite, P. J. Sliter, Church Howe, J. H. Dundas, C. H. Willard, O. J. Stowell and H. R. Howe. Most of these are now dead.

Auburn's first high school was compromised and a site near the court house chosen. Since that time not only the city of Auburn, but Nemaha county in general, has taken a great deal of pride in the excellent schools facilities of the city, which have been taken advantage of by many of the rural districts.

Today there run through Auburn two main highways north and south, the King's Trail and the Capital highway, while to the west stretches the Goldenrod highway.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

There was an exceptionally large number of scouts who came up for second class at this month's Court of Honor, which was held in court room No. 1 at the County court-house Thursday night. A number came up for first class promotion and a number for merit badges.

Members of the Court of Honor present were Prof. E. H. Barbour, chairman, G. Prestegaard, Dr. Earl Brooks, George Kurk, Theodore Berg, W. J. Kent, scout executive, and R. D. McDermott, court secretary.

Scouts promoted to first class were Howard Colton, Troop 3, Don Alquist, Troop 3, and Bernard Crook Troop 4, University Place.

Scouts promoted to second class were John Turner, Troop 8, Kenneth Beaver, Troop 29, Alan Hanks, Troop 12, Lyle Reddick, Troop 10, Leo Buer, Troop 25, Samuel Weber, Troop 12, Lyle Reddick, Troop 10, Irvin Wall, Troop 25, Gerald Wilkerson, Troop 2[illegible], Frank Blanchard, Troop 15, James Cummings, Troop [illegible], Arthur Elliott, Troop 45, Donald Peterson, Troop 12, Vernon Harrah, Troop 10, Ervin Gettman, Troop 51, Rollin Schwarz, Troop 21, Horace Hatcher, Troop 4, University Place, Paul Duey, Troop 4, University Place, and Glidden Brooks, Troop 21.

Scouts who were awarded merit badges were Wilson McGrew, Troop [illegible], Clyde Vanderlin, Troop 8, Richard Ferguson, Troop [illegible], Morris Anderson, Troop [illegible], Carl Heinz, Troop [illegible] [illegible] and Harry Foster, Troop [illegible].

The second of a series of scout leadership training meetings has just been completed. These meetings have been held every Tuesday night at the Temple building at the university. Nearly every new leader in the scout work at the present time has taken this course. In the eight meetings which were held there was a total attendance of seventy-five. These meetings wil be discontinued and the regular scout leadership training course for all scout leaders will begin some time the first of March.

One of the finest scout parent meetings reported to headquarters this year was the one held by Troop 48 of Normal. This was the third anniversary of the organization of the troop. A program which came first was exceptionally fine. It was composed of a first aid demonstration, drill team demonstration, and signal demonstration by the scouts. W. J. Kent spoke to the scouts and the parents and Charles Romelz gave a sleight of hand exhibition. Dr. Benjamin F. Bailey gave the main adress of the evening. The last scene, which was a camp fire scene, given by the scouts, was well received. After the program a box sociable was held and the troop cleared $30 for its treasury. C. J. Lind is scoutmaster of Troop 48 and Albert Tornquist s assistant scoutmaster.

During the next week which is anniversary week, many troops are planning parent and scout meetings and the troop scribe is requested to report them for headquarters, so they may be published in the scout corner.

Expert tests in first aid and signalling conducted by assistant scout executive, R. D. McDermott, at the New Elliott school at 4 o'clock on the first Wednesday of each month and at the city hall at 7 o'clock on the third Wednesday of each month are well attended. Scouts are given tests and help on all expert tests.

The fifteenth anniversary week, February 8 to 14, is to feature a "come back" of all former scouts. February 8 is scout Sunday—recommittment to scout oath and laws. Scouts will attend church in uniform and scout sermons will be given. February 9 is school day, when scouts atend school in uniform and give demonstrations, with former scouts lending a hand. February 10 is home day, when every scout does a good turn in the home.

February 11 is citizenship day, [illegible] to the community, with former scouts helping. "Night in Camp" will be broadcasted from 7 to [illegible] o'clock from Station WCAJ. February 12, Lincoln's birthday, is patriotic day and a patriotic pilgrimage to the statue of Lincoln near the capitol will be made at 4 o'clock. February 13 is round-up day, when special efforts will be made to enlist new members and leaders, the latter especially in the ranks of former members. The scouts of the Lincoln scout council will broadcast from Station KFAB from 9 to 9:30 o'clock. February 14 is reunion day. Scout headquarters will keep open house all day and a big camp fire program will be held at Camp Iotan. All former members and scouts are invited to be present.

The Golden Suns, which is an honorary camp organization for Lincoln scouts and which holds a meeting every two months, met as the guests of Troop 9 last week at the First Baptist church. After a supper of chili, weinie sandwiches, doughnuts, and cocoa prepared by the scouts a business meeting was held. It was decided that the next meeting would be held at Camp Iotan. After a few games were played the boys attended a "movie" in a group. The Golden Suns present were Harold Hildreth, Roscoe Hildreth, LaSalle Gilman and Ernest Perry, Troop 27; [illegible], Troop 26, Burnham Yates, Troop 18, Walter Ducker, Troop 25, Jack Keane, Troop 22, Robert Danielson, Arthur Danielson, George Gant, Ernest Cementi, and Tom Warfield, Troop 9.

The father and scout banquet will be held this year on February 19 at 6:15 o'clock at the Scottish Rite temple. There is a special invitation and reservation for all former scouts.

BAD BRAKES ARE ACCIDENT CAUSE

Rickenbacker Official Believes Four Wheel Devices Would Stop Crashes.

"I am no iconoclast, but I do believe that the safety conference will be a farce unless in its conclusions due regard is given to the subject of adequate brakes—which unquestionably means four-wheel brakes," says E. R. Evans, chief engineer of the Rickenbacker Motor company.

"If all cars could stop in a safe distance, when a pedestrian, a street car or an other automobile unexpectedly appeared ahead, accidents would be reduced more than 90 per cent.

"In fact an analysis of police records proves that of 100,000 traffic fatalities, fully 98 per cent never would have happened if the automobile implicated could have stopped in half the distance they did when the danger threatened.

"Now, in recent tests conducted by the U. S. bureau of standards, and in which many makes of cars participated, it was proven that there is a conclusive answer to this matter of traffic accidents.

"It was proven that, if all cars had 4-wheel brakes, they could stop in less than half the distance that is possible with two.

"In the tests mentioned, it was proven that a car with the best 4-wheel brakes, could actually stop in 31 feet at 20 miles per hour; the average was 25 feet.

"Now when you consider that the average stop of 2-Wheel Brake cars was 53 feet, the answer is obvious.

"In the hundreds of street accidents that occur every day the difference between stopping in 26 or 53 feet is just the difference between an accident and no accident.

"Contrary to the popular understanding too, most street accidents are due, not to high speeds, but to miscalculation of children and grown-ups, of the speed of a car when it is traveling slowly—say ten to fifteen miles per hour.

"Believing it has plenty of time, the child runs in front of a car to recover a ball. Car may stop in a relatively short distance—20 to 30 feet feet with 2 brakes. But that is enough to push the child over so violently as to crack its head on the pavement. That is the cause of more deaths than the car "running over" pedestrians.

"Now, with 4-wheel brakes a car can stop in less than four feet at ten miles per hour! Less than six feet at fifteen.

"So all such accidents would be prevented by 4-wheel brakes."

MOTORS AND THEIR CARE

To Keep Tools from Rusting.

It is a good plan to wipe off all tools on a bit of oily waste before restoring them to the tool box. The oil deposited on the metal keeps it from rusting which is a trouble to be guarded against.

To Remove Spots from Glass.

Hard substances which collect on the windshield or other glass can be easily removed by slipping a safety razor blade in a spring paper clip. By merely pushing the blade along the surface all the spots will be cut away and the glass will not be scratched.

Carbon and the Spark.

Spark plugs should be the snappiest workers around the mechanism of a car, and for this reason they should be kept clean of oil and carbon. Nothing conduces more to spark plug cleanliness than gasoline treated to prevent accumulation of carbon in the vital parts of the engine.

Importance of Clear Vision.

A motorist who plasters his windshield or rear window with fancy stickers is blocking off part of his vision while he is driving. He not only is risking his life, but lives of other people. All trash that is sold to hang inside car windows constitutes a driving hazard and operators should realize that they need a clear vision ahead, behind, and at the side at all time.

For a Perfect "Ground."

To properly ground a wire in the electrical system, scrape or file the wire and scrape the motor or frame where the wire is to be fastened. Put a copper washer under the head of the bolt or screw to insure good contact when drawn up tight. Be sure to cut off any loose strands as one stray strand will cause a short circuit and run down the battery. Cover the connection with vaselin or paraffin to protect it from water.

A Suggestion.

When a car has been parked too close to the curb and it is almost impossible to turn the wheels away from the curb without scraping the tires, it is a good idea to put the jack under the front axle and to lift the front wheels a few inches from the ground. When the car is at this elevation, give it a substantial push sideways off the jack, away from the curb, and enough space is had to turn the wheels without causing serious injury to the tires.

Never ride in a closed car with the doors locked.

Dragging brakes and slipping clutches increase the consumption of "gas" and oil.

Distilled water should be added to a battery only when the car is to be put into service.

Kerosene squirted over the distributor coils and spark plugs will keep water from causing a short circuit.

Loads on running boards should not extend beyond the hub caps on the left side nor more than six inches on the right side.

The Bureau of Standards, after exhaustive tests, has announced that alcohol is the best material to keep automobile radiators from freezing.

A motorist, no matter how long he has driven a car, will always learn something new every day about the operation of cars and their peculiarities.

The engine of a car that has been run for two or three years will give better delivery of power if heavier oil is used than was intended for use in it when new.

When a car is in a backward motion, never shift the gears until the car has been brought to a complete stop. Failure to do this will put a great strain on the entire car and may result in a stripped gear.

Because the core of the radiator serves as a sieve through which dust is constantly drawn by the suction of the fan, this part of the car becomes prematurely old in appearance. By the occasional use of a strong spray of water the front of the car may be kept bright and clean.

COACH BODY TYPE IS 12 YEARS OLD

Was First Put On Market By Hudson Company, Says J. C. Higgins.

In developing the coach type of body and seeing it through to general adoption by the industry, the Hudson Motor Car Co., has scored the third similar success of its history, according to J. E. Higgins of Lord Auto Co., Hudson-Essex distributor Mr. Higgins, declared that Hudson had built and named the first sedan the motor world ever knew, the first speedster type of touring car, and now the greatest success of all, the coach. Hudson built the first coach in November, 1921.

"When we see thousands of sedans on the streets today," said he, "it is difficult to believe that the first one ever built was constructed twelve years ago by the Hudson Motor Car Co. Then as now, the Hudson management was greatly interested in enclosed cars at a moderate price.

"Up to that time, it was thought that only the very wealthy would buy enclosed cars. They were built to be chauffeur driven. The Hudson management believed that closed cars could be built with a single compartment, and that the owner would be glad to drive it himself. That belief was the basis for the Hudson sedan. It had a lot of opposition at first and it was a considerable period before sedans became general.

"Hudson's second great success in bodies was the four-passenger sports type of touring car. The first of these, the Hudson speedster, was introduced in 1916 along with the first super-six type of motor. Low and graceful, with sweeping streamlines, this car caught the public's eye instantly. It was the first of literally scores of similar models.

"But the greatest of all was the development of the coach. Behind this was a truly fundamental idea—the idea of an enclosed car at an open car price. To develop that idea, Hudson had to overturn the industry's whole habits of closed car construction—applying to them for the first time all the economies known to simplified manufacture.

"For three years, Hudson-Essex had this market to itself, while makers of open cars vainly resorted to one device after another to stimuulate sales. But the public wanted closed cars at open car prices—and now the industry has stampeded to coaches. But for a long time to come the man who thinks of coaches will think of Hudson-Essex."

Get Good Parts.

Because every part must be made to the highest standard and machined to extremely close limits, so that it will fit properly and give the utmost in performance, replacement parts of a car should be genuine and not imitations. The price of cheap parts may be more attractive, but sacrifices are made in quality and safety. Many counterfeit parts are only one third as strong as the genuine.

Again--Do Not Expect Long Trading Allowances on Any Used Car When You Come to Buy a Chrysler

This statement of eight months ago is repeated in justice to Chrysler distributors and dealers, who cannot in fairness be expected to penalize themselves by making long allowances, merely because the Chrysler may have depreciated the value of other cars.

A car may be a very good car indeed and still it will lack the riding, driving, braking, accelerating, power and speed qualities which thrill the owner of a Chrysler Six.

As we said in June of last year, those qualities are so valuable and mean so much in efficiency and economy that you could well afford to discard the used car without compensation for the sake of the amazing activity of performance and the saving the Chrysler will bring you.

Even if another car originally cost you twice as much, the burden you escape when you acquire a Chrysler—the substitution of more agile and satisfying performance and the stoppage of waste—will more than compensate you.

Months ago we said that because of these unusual Chrysler qualities, the Chrysler was invading all markets and specially those of much higher price.

We also said that the enthusiasm of the public over the Chrysler was certain to affect all motor cars and ultimately all motor car design.

The change in (internal) design has not yet come. Until it does, there is no possibility for anyone who wants Chrysler results to make a comparison between the Chrysler and other cars, whether they be used or new.

It is all a question of whether you want the qualities which the Chrysler alone provides.

If you do, then it is perfectly clear that you cannot compare the value of another used car or ANY OTHER NEW CAR with the value of the Chrysler.

Neither higher prices nor lower prices nor long allowances have anything to do with the fact that there is still only one Chrysler and that it delivers results which no other car delivers.

This is no reflection on any good car. It is simply a statement of facts which every Chrysler owner knows.

Huskers Knock Off Oklahoma In Valley Cage Clash

SOONERS EASY FOR NEBRASKA

Cornhusker Tossers Put Over Brilliant Victory In Defeat of Oklahoma: Final Score, 31 to 17.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

After getting away to a club-footed start, the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers regained their stride and handed the University of Oklahoma a neat trimming on the armory basketball court Saturday evening, 31 to 17. A crowd which swarmed every available seat in the armory and stood jammed in the corners saw the Nebraska quintet register its fourth conference victory of the season.

It was the second time this season that the Huskers have defeated the Sooner five, Nebraska having handed the Oklahomans a 23 to 18 trouncing on the Norman maples early in the campaign.

The Oklahoma machine, which swept the Kansas Aggies before it Friday evening, failed to function against the Cornhuskers. In fact, after the Sooners had collected their nine points, the Cornhusker tossers stepped along in such a fashion that they scored twenty points before Oklahoma broke through with another field goal, the Sooners being forced to content themselves with [illegible] tosses from the foul line.

Smaha and Klepser.

The injection of Smaha and Klepser in the Nebraska lineup turned the tide for Nebraska. The pair entered after seven minutes of the timer's watch had ticked away on the first half and before the game was complete, Klepser had scored twice from the floor and Smaha had located the hoop for ten points.

The pair toyed with the Oklahoma defense, sifting through at will and uncovering more stuff than any pair of forwards has displayed on a Nebraska court for two seasons. Both displayed a keen eye for the basket and had the Sooner guards frantic in the efforts to force the Huskers to hurry their shots.

While the Norman defense was shifting to watch the two Nebraska speedsters, Goodson and Tipton each broke through and collected a quartet of baskets. Goodson's efforts were clever shots from beneath the hoop while Tipton dropped his through the hoop from back of the foul ring.

Sooners Played Raggedly.

Aside from the first five minutes of play, Oklahoma played little better than mediocre basketball. The first five minutes, however, were plenty interesting. With the score 2-all, Wheeler, Ruppert and Moore caged successful shots from the floor and the Oklahomans were to the front by a 9 to 2 margin.

The Nebraska offense seemed dead and the outlook was as dark as a tramp's undershirt until Klepser and Smaha enrolled in the contest. Their entrance signaled a Cornhusker rally. Tipton scored from back of the foul ring. Klepser slipped the ball through the hoop on a neat follow-in shot and Smaha caged one from beneath the basket after some neat team-work, and the Huskers were leading, 10 to 9, in less time than it takes to recite the Gettysburg address.

The Sooners took out time for consultation, but to no avail, for Tipton, Goodson and Klepser dropped in baskets before the half closed with Nebraska holding a 16 to 9 advantage.

Goodsons Clever Hit.

Nebraska ran its point total to twenty-two before Coach "Bill" Kline decided to insert a few substitutes. The second half was only a minute old before Goodson broke loose to the goal and whirled a spin the ball through the hoop with a pair of Sooner guards watching the performance. Smaha followed with two baskets in quick succession and Nebraska then coasted to a comfortable win.

Captain Wheeler was the main cog in the Oklahoma machine. He [illegible] of the points and covered the floor in a good fashion. Hoppe [illegible] started him in each period. [illegible] once from the floor and [illegible] times from [illegible] line.

Sooner Ace Shut Out.

LINCOLN HI WINS AT GRAND ISLAND

Capital City Tossers Reel Off Cage Victory By 22 to 12 Score.

(Special to The Star.)

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Feb. 7.—Lincoln high defeated Grand Island high at basketball here tonight by the score of 22 to 12. The capital city lads led in the scoring all the way through and were never in any serious danger although the last half was about evenly divided in points scored.

Lincoln opened an offensive at the start and counted three field goals in quick succession before the local boys could stop them. The accurate passing of the visitors was their main strength, they playing the ball to King, who made three field goals in the first period. The half ended 15 to 7 in favor of Lincoln.

The last half was an evenly matched affair, with Grand Island forcing the play. Lincoln seemed to rely on its lead in the first half and played largely a defensive game. The score of the last half was 7 to 5 for Lincoln.

White, King and Ward were the stellar players for the Lincoln lads, three field goals each. Kahler played a splendid guarding game, time after time breaking up plays which looked like scores for Grand Island. Phelan, at center, led the locals in scoring, while Connor and McElroy played good guard positions. The score:

QUATRAIN WINS DIXIE CLASSIC

Son of Omar Khayyam Shows His Heels to Field In $25,000 Stake.

FAIRGROUNDS, New Orleans, Feb. 7.—The New Orleans handicap, with $25,000 added, the feature race of the meeting and the richest prize of the winter's racing, was won this afternoon by F. Johnson's Quatrain in a smiling finish. Prince James finished second and President third.

Quatrain, favored to win, electrified the [illegible] by an eleventh hour spurt down the stretch. The son of Omar Khayyam, in fifth position at the turn of the stretch, dashed past the leaders to win in the excellent time of 1:44 2-5, a new track record for the course of one and one-sixteenth mile.

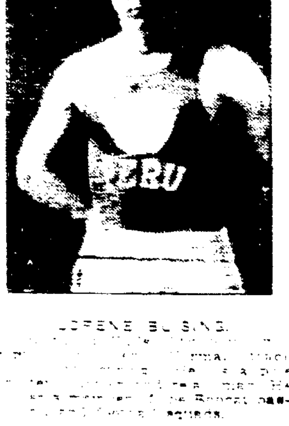

Winner Gets Poor Start.

Quatrain was outrun in the first part of the race, getting a poor start [illegible]. His true class became evident in the stretch [illegible] steadily and won going away. [illegible] Many of the [illegible] were shipped here from Miami.

Quatrain paid $18 to $2 to win, $5 to $2 to place and $4 to $5 to show. Prince James paid $30 to $2 to place, while President paid $2 to $1 to show.

MIAMI, Feb. 7.—Braedelbane, the Island Farm star, scored his third successive victory of the meeting here this afternoon in winning the [illegible] handicap. MASTERS OF CUE VIE FOR CROWN

Experts at Balk-Line Game Compete This Month In Chicago Tourney.

Hoppe Going At His Best. But Cochran and Young Jake Dangerous.

BY AL SPINK.

Just now big and little billiard players are discussing the chances of the six starters in the international 18.2 balk-line billiard tournament, which will take place in the gold room of the Congress hotel in Chicago February 23 to March 1.

The starters will be Hoppe, Cochran, Schaefer, Hagenlacher, Horemans and Suzuki and nearly every one of them seems to have a chance of winning one of the big prizes this year.

The recent accident to champion Willie Hoppe which came with a fall in which he sustained a slight cut on his right arm has not amounted to much. He will be in perfect shape to defend his title property when play starts in the international on February 23.

Hoppe Playing Brilliantly.

As a matter of fact, barring the brief time he was laid up by accident, Hoppe in the last year has been playing the most wonderful billiards in his entire career, if such a thing is possible. In the last few months he has played all sorts of billiards and met all comers. His most important balk-line matches were two against Young Jake Schaefer in California. At three cushions he met most of the stars and his showing was impressive.

Erich Hagenlacher, the German, will enter this year's international a much improved player. He has been in New York most of the time since the last tournament, meeting the best players there and generally taking their measure. With a view to being in real form when the tournament opens, Hagenlacher is now playing exhibition games in New York daily. Only last week he met George Creswell in the Fourteenth street academy in an exhibition game at 18.2 balk-line. He ran 200 points in five innings and made a high run of 94 while Creswell was getting 15.

Belgian Champ on Tour.

Edouard Horemans, like Schaefer, will spend much time in Chicago prior to the opening of the international. The Belgian champion, who has played in the last three world's championships, as well as in one championship challenge match, has been on tour most of the present season. He has so arranged his schedule that he will be in the vicinity of Chicago for at least three weeks before the championship opens, his program calling for him to spend the final week in Chicago. Horemans has been playing a strong game all season, and is expected to supply some genuine opposition this year.

Welker Cochran, one of the big three of the billiard world, has arrived at St. Louis from Hollywood, Cal., where his billiard studio has developed into a gold mine. On his way to Chicago stopped off at St. Louis to play some exhibition games with his old friend, Charles Peterson.

STATE TOURNEY IN VOLLEYBALL

Nebraska 'Y' Teams Booked To Compete Feb. 26 In Capital City.

FORMER STATE CHAMPIONS.
1916—Columbus at Columbus.
1917—Fremont at York.
1918—Omaha at Fremont.
1919—Lincoln at Omaha.
1920—Lincoln at Lincoln.
1921—Fremont at Grand Island.
1922—York at Hastings.
1923—York at Lincoln.
1924—Lincoln at Lincoln.

Volleyball will be the next state championship to be decided in Nebraska Y. M. C. A. circles and the 1925 tournament, as was the case last year, will be staged Feb. 26 at the Lincoln "Y" gymnasium.

Lincoln won the 1924 tournament and hopes to repeat this year — a prediction inspired by the success of the capital city volleyballers in winning the Lincoln-Omaha-Council Bluffs tourney run off late last week at Council Bluffs.

Rules adopted by the state association of "Y" physical directors [illegible] E. Entries will close Feb. [illegible] and must be in the hands of John [illegible] Turner, local physical director, [illegible] before that date. The entrance fee is $2 per team.

Players participating in the tournament must be bona fide members [illegible] representing [illegible] compensation for services performed [illegible] will not be eligible to compete.

Ten Cagesters On Grinnell's Squad

GRINNELL, Ia., Feb. 7.—The strenuous nature of the coming week's campaign has induced Coach Charley Black to take ten men on the Pioneer basketball invasion of Nebraska and Kansas, instead of eight as originally planned. The squad which leaves Grinnell Sunday morning will include Moran, Chase, Doffing, Lamb, Boge, Seel and Gelvin, Winter, Wing and Peterson.

Cramers and Cunninghams To Renew Cage Series at Hebron

CRAMER BROTHERS BASKETBALL TEAM.

The Cramer Brothers of Chester and the Cunningham Brothers of Wahoo rivals for the "brothers" basketball championship of Nebraska, will renew their cage controversy Tuesday night, Feb. 10, at Hebron, competing in the second game of the series. The Cunninghams won the first game, played at Fremont, by a score of 9 to 6. Several additional teams of brothers in Nebraska have declared themselves in the running for the state title.

PLANS TO BEAT COBB'S RECORD

Rogers Hornsby Only 28 and Ought to Hit .375 or More For the Next Five Years In Majors.

Tyrus Cobb has been challenged by Rogers Hornsby, not to one of those sword affairs under the shadows of New Orleans' historical duel of oaks but to possession of one of the most remarkable records in baseball. One notch in Ty's hickory reads: "Leading hitter nine straight years." That's the record Hornsby hopes to surpass—make it ten straight.

No individual in the history of the game stepped out and created as many baseball marks as Ty Cobb. During his days of prosperity it was unanimously agreed that there would never be his equal. And that opinion still stands. However, bit by bit rivals have come along and chipped Ty's name off the plaque containing the stretch of baseball records.

His high average of .4196, made in 1911, was etched out of the way by George Sisler, who reached .4198 in 1922. The base hit total of 248 in 1911 also was beaten by Sisler when he slammed out 257 in 1920. On his remarkable journey in nine successive years as the leading batter he was brushed aside by Tris Speaker in 1916. When he regained the lead in 1917 and added three more years to his phenomenal play, he was ejected by Sisler in 1920.

Ruth Passed Ty In Runs.

In 1911 Cobb scored 147 runs. Close followers of official statistics insisted that no one would ever surpass such a performance. But along came Babe Ruth with 177 in 1921. Thus another of Ty's records passed out of sight.

Admirers of the Georgia Peach leaned back confident that the one of "leading hitter nine straight years" would withstand all challenges. Honus Wagner made it four in a row with the Pittsburgh Pirates, but Honus is not around during these days.

When George Sisler entered the American league in 1915 he was recognized as "Cobb's duplicate." In a way the Michigan Marvel was. However, he did not get up to the top in the batting averages until 1920, dropped to fourth place in 1921, regained the lead in 1922 and then came the blow that put him out of action in 1923.

Up Pops Hornsby.

With Sisler removed from the line of competition there is no one in the American league today within reach of Cobb's nine successive years as the leading batter. But there is a rival major league and one in the [illegible] who feels that he is young enough to tackle the job and get away with it. He is Rogers Hornsby.

They are both sons from the south. Cobb is Georgia's product, Hornsby hails from Texas.

Hornsby was asked [illegible] opinion recently on the prospect of continuing the sensational hitting he has turned out during the last five years and approaching Ty Cobb's record.

[illegible] grinned and [illegible]

His Best Years Coming.

"I'm still young," replied Hornsby. "Just 28 years of age and I feel as if I ought to be able to swing along between .375 and .400 for the next five years."

When Cobb completed his stretch of nine straight seasons he was 29 years of age. Rog will be 33 at the end of the 1929 season. But he has not trailed the bright lights of [illegible] he has not [illegible] [illegible] over the heads of the shortstop and third baseman, he offers pinky

ROTTEN TRICK IN NEW YORK RINGS

Dirty Fighters Use Gimmick With Which to Deliver Quick Knockouts.

Slug of Lead Concealed In Glove and Crafty Second Hides Evidence.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—This is the story of the gimmick!

A gimmick, properly used, will score an instant and spectacular knockout triumph. Improperly or crudely used, it is likely to cause murder in a prize ring.

The charge is now made that a gimmick has been used on at least six or eight occasions in the ring in New York, and that through its use, either championships were won, or tremendous gambling coups were achieved by those who were "in on the know."

A gimmick is a modern improvement over murderous brass knuckles of other days; it has succeeded the old time trick of loading gloves with a piece of iron, with tea lead or plaster paris. And the way that it is used is so crafty that detection has been almost impossible.

Tricks of Former Days.

In other days when unscrupulous fighters were out to win [illegible] they placed a set of iron or brass knuckles under their taped hands, or they put a [illegible] of heavy lead foil under the taping. Others [illegible] plaster [illegible] between the strips of gauze and [illegible] powder becoming wet [illegible] a mass which [illegible] against an opponent's chin would [illegible]

But that was rather clumsy [illegible] same suspicious [illegible] found and the guilty fighter disqualified. And if the opposing fighter didn't discover it, the referee, suspicious of the knockout, might investigate the gloves of his own accord before the telltale evidence could be stripped from the fighter's hands.

Different With Gimmick.

But a gimmick —that's different. A gimmick is an instrument shaped much like a mushroom, with its stem left on. The stem of the gimmick is a bit [illegible] [illegible] The gimmick is [illegible] same adhesive tape as the gloves [illegible] red or gray, as the case may be, so that when it is fitted into a closed

BIG BILL TILDEN ON HIS WAY OUT

Ban Against Player-Writers Likely to Bar Champion From Tennis.

Final Decision Is Deferred Until He Hears From Publishers.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—A decision which may mean the retirement of William T. Tilden, national singles champion, was taken unanimously this evening by the United States Lawn Tennis association at the national meeting at the club at the Waldorf.

The association passed the player-writer rule recommended by its committee, of which "Big Bill" was a member.

Henceforth, players in national championships and Davis cup matches may write for newspapers and magazines, talk over the radio or appear in motion pictures, but may not use their titles in any of these connections. Players are barred from reporting a tournament in which they are taking part.

Tilden Defers Decision.

After the association's action, Tilden said he did not know how it would affect him.

The national champion and backbone of the American Davis cup team is writing for a syndicate, using his name and title. All will depend upon the demands made upon Tilden by his publishers.

If he is not released from independent contracts, "Big Bill" probably will retire from the game in which he has for several years stood out as the world's greatest player.

May Quit Altogether.

The chances are that Tilden at any rate will appear only in the national men's championship and the Davis cup matches, and if the conflict between his playing and writing is too great, he will retire entirely from competition under the U. S. L. T. A.

Tilden won a victory early in the afternoon when he took the floor for an hour and argued that the Davis cup selections should be required to inform those who are to represent the United States in the challenge round 21 days in advance of the date set for the matches. The matches will be held as follows:

Title Tournament Dates.

Men's national doubles, August 21, Longwood Cricket club, Boston, Mass.

Final Davis cup match, September 10, Germantown Cricket club, Philadelphia.

Men's national singles — September 14-19, West Side Tennis club, Forest Hills.

National junior and boys' championship, August 10, South Side Tennis club, Chicago.

National clay court championships, July 13-18, Missouri Valley association.

National municipal championship, August 13, Baltimore, Md.

TITLE TOURNEY FLATTENS OUT

Leading Fighters Pull Away From Compet to Select Benny's Successor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Followers of boxing were almost unanimous this afternoon in declaring that the New York athletic commission's impending lightweight elimination tourney had lost most of its authority by the withdrawal of Sammy Mandell, Sid Terris, Sid Barbarian and Johnny Dundee from the lists of contenders. Lack of condition was given as Dundee's reason for withdrawal, while Barbarian claimed previous engagements with promoters on the Pacific coast.

Mandell and Terris, it is understood, withdrew from the tourney because the board declined to grant them byes in the first round of the event. Reports, however, were to the effect that their real objection was based on the fact that the commission had allotted only [illegible] per cent of the gate receipts [illegible]

CLARKE SEEKS HUSTLING CLUB

Manager Josh and Boss Arnold Plan to Put Team In Lincoln This Year That Will Please Fans.

(Special to The Star.)

LONG BEACH, Cal., Feb. 7.—With the detail definitely settled of selecting Tucson, Ariz., as the spot where the 1925 Links will do their spring training, Manager Josh Clarke today announced that he will mark time until the Pacific Coast league clubs inaugurate their pre-season workouts late this month and early in March.

"The Lincoln players will receive orders to report March 12 at Tucson," Clarke said today. "Most of the Coast leaguers will start training two weeks ahead of the Links and I am glad of that arrangement, as it will give me time to visit most of the Coast league camps in a hunt for a few players who might come in handy in evening our ranks. I have been to three from four of the Coast league teams [illegible] have [illegible] option or outright [illegible]. The Coast loop is a doubles-A league and plays baseball [illegible] of major calibre.

Infielders and Pitchers.

"I shall want a pair of infielders and possibly a [illegible] of pitchers, and I expect to get them from Coast league clubs. Detroit of the American league also is under agreement to deliver us two or three dependable players, so I figure the Links will be sitting pretty when the time rolls around for the start of the Western league race.

"Hope this team will be almost entirely a new aggregation. No more than five of the men who wore Lincoln uniforms last season will be with us this year. Larry Arnold, owner of the club, has given me authority to make any deal that looks good in strengthening the team.

"Lincoln has sold itself to Larry [illegible] patronage the club received last season, when we had a hopeless tailender, has convinced him that Lincoln will go over big with a [illegible] club that is exactly the sort [illegible] have this year.

No Room for Sluffers.

"I have tried to weed out the loafers and bad actors on the 1924 team, retaining only the ones who will give us their best. We are trying to build a hustling club—one that will please the fans—and I believe we are going to succeed.

"With the exception of the infield and pitching staff, the Links are ready for the bell. Haley, a fine minor league catcher, is to be our regular backstopper, while Purdy, Moore and Sweeney are scheduled to perform in the garden. Lincoln fans know the calibre of Purdy and Moore, and I can assure them that Sweeney grades right up with the other two. We shall be strong back of the bat and in the outfield.

Sure of Getting Talent.

"I have already snared ten pitchers, but will make it two or three more before I call quits. We shall have much better pitching than last year. The infield still needs some patching, but that isn't giving me any worry because I shall get the men I need from Detroit and the Coast league.

"Al Modena, Coast leaguer last season, is a great ball player. He will guard the third sack for the 1925 Links. Cartwright and Sitts will fight it out for the first base job. That leaves only short and second to fill, and I'll have those two spots taken care of in good shape before the pennant race gets under way.

Tucson Best Training Spot.

"The Links should have the advantage over the other teams in the league, all of which, with the one exception of Wichita, are scheduled to train in Texas and Louisiana. The Arizona climate will give us the edge. While the other clubs are bucking rain and occasional cold weather, the Links will be working out every day under ideal conditions at Tucson, making every min-

'JIM' DUNN LIVE ONE IN BASEBALL

Baltimore Mogul Has Made Fortune Selling Stars To the Majors.

Proves Sagacity By Turning Down Offers to Manage Big League Club.

It perhaps will fret a lot of the big league gentry to acclaim Jack Dunn the baseball genius of this or any other generation—but they'll have to fret. For in the annals of baildom, there is no man who can match Dunn in the wizardry of developing players.

Through ten years or so, this Baltimore miracle man has sent to the big leagues some of the brightest stars the game has known. Again and again fabulous offers from the American or National circuits have tempted him to part with players who seemed to be the bulwarks of his own club.

Dunn sold the men, and seemed, for the nonce, to have wrecked his outfit, only to display before the astonished gaze of the Baltimore fans a new player as brilliant as the man who had passed along to major league glory.

Knows 'Em in the Rough.

Although Dunn has sent at least 20 great players to the big leagues, he has almost monopolized the pennant heights of the International league in the past decade. For the shrewdness that is his seems to make it possible for him to recognize baseball greatness in the rough, and the greatness that is his enables him to develop a drab rookie into a satellite in a single season of play.

Dunn has been called the "greatest salesman in baseball history." Yet whenever that title is hung upon him, he smiles a bit wanly—and then grins:

Sold Ruth for Mere Song.

"I'm, yes—maybe. But don't forget that I'm the little child who, in 1914, sold Babe Ruth and Ernie Shore to the Red Sox for a total of $5,000, of which $2.30 was for Shore and $2,700 for Ruth. Yes, indeed, I sold him for $2,700—and that's all."

However in defense of Dunn's low appraisal of the man who later was valued at $500,000, it can be said that it happened eleven years ago when an entire ball club wouldn't have brought much more than Ruth's subsequent worth.

Since that 1914 episode, Dunn has been doing very nicely. He's sold one star and another into the big leagues and he's made each receiving club pay, and pay—and then pay a little more.

$100,000 for Groves.

His latest deal was when he turned "Lefty" Groves over to Connie Mack for $100,000. Prior to that he added $65,000 to his bankroll by easing Jack Bentley along to the Giants.

Dunn isn't exuding public estimates of how much he has received from the big leaguers for the stars he has developed—and sold. Some insist that the figure approaches $500,000—and they can't be far wrong.

Dunn, in addition to supplying the big leagues with Ruth, Shore, Bentley and Groves, also sent along Fritz Maisel, Lefty Russell, Wilson Fewster, Herbert Thormahlen, Bill Lamar, Eddie Murphy, Allan Russell, Jim Walsh—and others.

Some Live Ones In Stock.

If he wished he could add another $250,000 or $300,000 to the bank account by accepting offers for Joe Boley, the fleet shortstop; Dick Porter, the great second baseman he developed to take Bishop's place—and for two or three others.

But it always has been the Dunn policy never to wreck his team by sales and, inasmuch as Boley and Porter now are the foundations of the club, they'll remain in Baltimore until Dunn can uncover youngsters to supplant them.

Dunn has had a dozen chances to pilot big league clubs. But he has rejected them all. And why not? He's the king of baseball in Baltimore, the dominant factor in International league affairs and he can make as much single season profit developing a player and selling him as the average big league manager makes in a salaried way in six full seasons.

Tennis Czars Bow to Clamor; Amend Ratings

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Watson M. Washburn of New York and Dr. George King of New York were dropped from the "first ten" of the official men's ranking by the United States nLwn Tennis association today and George M Lott of Chicago and Clarence J. Griffin of San Francisco added to the list.

Washburn had been No. 6 in the list and King No. 10 Lott was placed in No. 9 position and Griffin in No. 10. Harvey Snodgrass of Los Angeles, J. Hennessy and B. I. C. Norton, who were Nos. 7, 8 and 9 in the previous list, were each advanced one notch by the changes.

The new list, which is the official list of the U. S. L. T. A., was made up by the ranking committee of the special committee. The association today ordered the original list destroyed.

The revised "first ten" is as follows:

William T. Tilden.
Vincent Richards.
William M. Johnston.
Howard Kinsey.
Wallace F. Johnson.
Harvey Snodgrass.
J. Hennessey.
B. I. C. Norton.
George M. Lott.

MASTERS OF CUE VIE FOR CROWN

ternational. In that tournament the score at the finish of the regular tournament was four games won and one lost for both Cochran and Hoppe. It was not until a month later that the tournament tie was played off and that Hoppe won. Now playing better than ever in his life and with the champion fancy shot, Peterson, as his mentor, Cochran has now high hopes of coming out at the top.

And in connection with Cochran's coming this time and his hopes of winning it might be well to show by these figures just how well he and the others did in last year's tournament. The figures were:

Figures of Last Tourney.

	W.	L.	High Run	Grand Average
Hoppe	4	1	170	25 20- 25
Cochran	4	1	146	24 47- 94
Schaefer	2	2	169	27 87- 72
Horemans	2	2	241	25 8- 94
Hagenlacher	2	3	157	18 19- 99
Conti	0	5	126	16 39-108

It will be noticed that in last year's tournament Schaefer finished a good third to Hoppe and Cochran and that Horemans and Hagenlacher were tied for fourth place. The last two have improved greatly in the year's play and will surely give a better account of themselves than they did in the last tourney. And Schaefer, realizing this, has, like the foreigners, been playing steadily during the past year, and having also improved in his general health, he has every chance of winning back the championship from the player considered his greatest rival.

Young Jake Fit and Ready.

Schaefer proved a short time ago in his special matches against Hoppe in California, that he is ready. He lost to the champion in the first 3,200-point test in Los Angeles, but won the second in San Francisco. At the end of the match the play was so close that for the total points only one point separated the players, with Schaefer boasting the extra one, and since his arrival in Chicago Schaefer, in his games with McAndless, has shown magnificent form and has won all his games without extending himself to any extent.

Conti, judging only by his poor showing of a year ago, will not be missed from this year's tournament, say the experts, who believe that Suzuki, the Japanese champion, will easily make up for the absence of the French player. Experts are of this opinion because in balk-line games in New York, Suzuki defeated Hagenlacher, who finished ahead of Conti in last year's international. Just now Suzuki, like Hagenlacher, is playing exhibition games in New York. In a game there the other night Suzuki defeated M. Katz, 200 to 23, in eleven innings in a practice match at the Recreation academy, Suzuki's high run was 78.

BENEATH THE BASKET.

The Nebraska crowd drew a "call-down" from Referee "Red" Brown when they "booed" a couple of his decisions during the second period. Honea tossed the free throw and it cost the Cornhuskers a point.

O. B. Anderson and his Y. M. C. A. boys staged an exhibition drill between halves which made a big hit with the crowd. The youngsters did "squads east and squads west" in a fashion that would reflect credit on veterans.

Floyd McBride, Sooner ace, didn't fatten his average any at the expense of the Cornhuskers. McBride "blew" what chances he did have.

Smaha and Klepser were hotter than a mid-summer day in the tropics.

The armory was again crowded to the rafters. With a suitable gymnasium, basketball at Nebraska U. should prove a drawing card which would rival the gridiron sport.

The Grinnell Pioneers meet Nebraska at the Armory Monday. And then come the Kansas Aggies, who look good and bad by spells. They looked bad against Oklahoma which may or may not mean a thing.

Organize Chapter Of Walton League

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., Feb. 7.—Columbus sportsmen organized a chapter of the Izaak Walton league here with a charter membership of 172. Officers elected were: Judge W. N. Hensley, president; Dan Bray vice-president; Fred Boehm, secretary, L. F. Phillipps, treasurer; C. L. Gerrard, J. C. Byrnes, H. A. Graves Jack Elliott and Joe Gutzmer, directors The chapter will send representatives to Lincoln, headed by J. C. Byrnes, former chairman of the democratic state central committee, to urge passage of several bills now pending in the legislature which are of special interest to Nebraska sportsmen.

TOMMY BOND & JACK MANNING

Tommy Bond and Jack Manning, the two oldest living big league pitchers, discussed curves and spitballs at the golden jubilee anniversary celebration of the National league recently in New York City. Bond used to twirl for the Brooklyn Atlantics and Manning for the Bostons.

PLANS TO BEAT COBB'S RECORD

pop flies frequently and the speed of youth carried him from the plate to first base ahead of many throws on infield grounders. They were official base hits, cheap ones perhaps, but base hits nevertheless.

Rogers Hits 'Em Hard.

Cobb and Hornsby are opposite types as hitters. Ty crowds the plate, chokes the bat a bit. Hornsby sands at the extreme outside corner. The bat is gripped at the end. He has perfect rhythm in all movements. As the bat moves off the shoulder and goes on its follow-through movement, the body carries the power of 180 pounds behind the swing.

Hornsby hits for distance. He is not a place hitter. Tyrus has looked for wide open spots and frequently put his hits where he aims.

"I do not claim to possess any unusual system in my hitting," continued Hornsby. "I stick to the one asset—pick only good balls Put your power behind your swing and meet the bat in the center and it is going for a long ride.

Last Year His Best.

"I am encouraged by my own success. I am not fading. My best season was last year when I hit .4235. Several years ago I was dabbling in outside interests I discovered that I could not succeed at another fellow's game, therefore I have decided that baseball is mine and I am going to concentrate on the one thing—hitting.

"I tackled insurance and did not like, it. Tried oil. It didn't take with me. Real estate fellows told me I would make a million. That business became a bloomer. I am settling down to baseball right now.

"I feel that I ought to remain a major leaguer for 10 more seasons, with five of them just as good as the last five. After that I might start to feel the wear and tear of the game but I feel prety frisky right now—fast and strong enough to bat, as I say, between .375 and .400 for the next five years. I may be wrong but that's the way I feel at present."

Bought By Scout Connery.

Hornsby entered the major circuit 10 years after Cobb, joining the St. Louis Cardinals in September, 1915. He had had less than two years of professional experience, playing with Dallas, Hugo and Dennison in Texas circuits in 1914 and with Dennison in 1915 when he was purchased by Bob Connery, Cardinal scout, for $750.

The record years in batting for the rivals—Hornsby in his last five years and Cobb during his run of nine straight—bring out some interesting data. Hornsby's combined mark is .392 and Cobb's but .377.

Twice As Many Homers.

Ty dropped as low as .324 in leading in 1908, while Rog's lowest mark is .370. Hornsby in five years has more than twice as many home runs as Ty in nine, owning 114 against 50. Rog is high for base hits with 250 in 1922 and Ty leads in runs, doubles and triples. The figures on the two during these terms follow:

Neither Larry Arnold, club owner, nor Manager Clarke will attend the league schedule meeting, dated for Feb. 15 in Excelsior Springs, Mo. Arnold has forwarded his proxy to Secretary Moon at Lincoln and the latter will mingle with the magnates at the Missouri resort while the 1925 playing program is being drafted.

Open In Southern Cities.

"I presume there will be no change from the arrangement of the past few years, which means that the four northern teams—Lincoln, Denver, Omaha and Des Moines—will open in the cities of the southern region. I understand the race will start on or about April 17. That would bring the Links back home the last of April for the opening day game, Manager Clarke said."

SUSPICION FALLS ON JACK DELANEY

Eastern Fighter Accused Of Doing His Stuff With Doctored Gloves.

Quick Kayoes of Berlenbach And Flowers Provoke Tongue-Wagging.

(Editor's Note: Does Jack Delaney, middleweight fighter from Connecticut, have something other than nature's knuckles concealed in his gloves? Managers of fighters whom Delaney has knocked out are making that charge. Frank Menke, fearless sports writer of New York, suggests that the allegation perhaps has more foundation than just a mere suspicion.)

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Copyright 1925 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Henceforth life will not be so giddy and carefree for Jack Delaney, of the more or less iron fists.

In ye olden days whenever Jack climbed into the various rings of this nation, he was greeted with a smile here and there, and then received an invitation, via the gong, to go out and strut his stuff.

But them days, as the elite Bostonians put it, has went, yes indeed, they done gone went, forever and ever, amen!

Whenever Delaney hurtles his middleweight self into the resined fighting centers of the future, it's more or less certain that he will be met by a large and most energetic committee who, in behalf of the other fighter, will attempt to learn just what it is that Delaney wears within his innocent looking five-ounce mittens.

Delaney Thinks It Funny.

Up to this time, Delaney has been charged with wearing, upon specific occasions, almost everything from the Rock of Gibralter to a modern battleship. And to all such charges Delaney merely grins and chortles:

"Ain't I the awful boy, though?"

Delaney's career is a rather amazing one. He has fought a hundred fights—perhaps more. Only a few knockouts stud his record. Yet in the three most important fights of Delaney's lifetime—when his manager and supporters have backed him to the absolute limit of their bankrolls—Delaney has delivered the most paralyzing knockout smashes of modern times.

Colima First Victim.

Bert Colima came out of the west—heralded as a phenom. They sent him against Delaney—with Colima a big favorite in the wagering. Yet, just before ringtime, an avalanche of Delaney money was poured into the betting marts—and the Delaneyites were betting not merely on Delaney to win, but on Delaney to win via a KNOCKOUT.

And that's what Delaney did. He sauntered around Colima, waiting for an opening. Finally he found it. His right hand shot out, struck its target—and Colim collapsed as though he had been hit by a crowbar.

Sometime later Delaney was tossed into the Madison Square Garden ring with Paul Berlenbach. The fight was the biggest betting affair in many years of Gotham ring history. Berlenbach was an early favorite and continued almost up to the time the men leaped through the ropes.

Flood of Delaney Money.

Then there came, as in the Colima fight, a tidal wave of Delaney money. The Delaney folks didn't want to bet simply on a Delaney victory. They offered to wager that Delaney would KNOCK OUT Berlenbach, who never had been flattened in his life.

Berlenbach was making a punching bag of Delaney when, of a sudden, Delaney found his first real opening. He drove his right hand to Berlenbach's chin—and Berlenbach went down like a man paralyzed. He managed to stagger back to his feet, was beaten down with another punch—and Delaney was a knockout victor.

After that fight Delaney mingled in quite a few brawls—without knockout success. He took on a dozen men who were little more than dubs, hit each a hundred blows—but didn't drop them. In those fights there wasn't any great interest—and no betting.

Sudden K. O. of Flowers.

Then came the day when Delaney was matched for his third BIG BETTING FIGHT. It was against Tiger Flowers. The whirlwind negro was a 2 to 1 favorite and until about an hour before ringtime it was even money that Flowers would stop Delaney.

Those odds disappeared as if by magic about thirty minutes before the fight started. Immense sums of Delaney money hove into view. The Delaney folks weren't insistent upon merely betting that Delaney would win. They wanted to bet that Jack would KNOCK OUT Flowers.

And that's what Delaney did!

In the second round, Delaney found his first and only real opening. He saw the Tiger crouching and whirling. Delaney shot forth a short blow, half hook, half uppercut. It caught Flowers on the chin.

Negro Out Thirty Minutes.

The negro, who never had faltered under similar blows from men 30 to 50 pounds heavier than Delaney, was almost pulverized by that one blow. He sank to the floor, rolled over, tried to regain his feet, found that every vestige of power had gone from them, fell back to the floor again—and was counted out.

It was nearly thirty minutes before Flowers had recovered from the effects of the annihilating blow.

Will some one please step forth now and make answer to the following:

Why is it that Delaney temporarily paralyzed three great-foemen with a single punch, when he was a short-ender in the wagering and then failed even to stagger a horde of mediocre opponents with a hundred blows—when there was no wagering on the outcome?

fist, it cannot be discovered except by a very close examination.

The gimmick never is used in the first round of a fight—unless the men backing the gimmick user are betting on a first round knockout. Usually the man who is a gimmick user goes along without it for a while, hoping he can knock out his opponent by fair means. For using the gimmick always is frighted with the danger of murder through an ill-placed blow—and no fighter wants to use it until necessity demands.

Time to Pull the Trick.

But if the man who uses the gimmick finds the going is rough, he tells his seconds as he comes back to his corner for the rest between rounds. So just as the bell is about to ring for the next round, one of the seconds slips the gimmick into his gloved hand. The shaft of the gimmick is clutched in the closed fist and the base of it nestles against the outer side of the thumb and first finger—with the glove, of course, acting as a shock absorber when the man hits.

The fighter with the gimmick must be a sharp shooter—he must be able to hit with superlative accuracy. For if he can't, he's liable to miss the swing for the jaw, hit the other gladiator in the temple, or back of the ear—and perhaps kill him.

Lands Inward Swing.

When the gimmick user is ready to hit, it isn't with the knuckle part of his hand. He HOOKS in with the punch, landing with the face of the gimmick; that is, instead of getting forward with his clenched fist, he swings INWARD with it so that he hits with the gimmick.

To get the real idea, double your fist and then strike the palm of your other hand with the flat part of the inside of your fist.

A man struck solidly with a gimmick cannot stand up under the impact any more than can a man hit with an iron slug. The impact is crushing, crumpling, paralyzing.

Second Hides Evidence.

The minute the gimmick user hits his man, he jumps into his own corner while the referee is busy with the count. The fallen man is counted out. One of the seconds of the gimmick user leaps quickly to the corner the instant the count is completed and grasps the winning hand. The public assumption is that he is congratulating his man. What he actually is doing is taking back the gimmick.

Thus the murderous evidence has disappeared.

The winning fighter then dashes gallantly across the ring, picks up the fallen warrior, helps to carry him, to his corner, mutters some sort of condolence—and the next day the headlines scream the fact that so-and-so scored a sensational ONE PUNCH knockout triumph

Performance

Multi-phase performance—is the outstanding attribute of this (new series) Rickenbacker Six.

Some cars excel at acceleration—others shine at high speeds—another is a hardy hill climber.

Automotive engineers are in the habit of saying that they must sacrifice two of these qualities in order to obtain super-performance in the other.

In this Rickenbacker Six you will find a car that is invincible in all three—acceleration, speed and hill climbing.

Surplus power is the answer—in a ruggedly designed but finely finished motor. Two fly wheels—extra heavy crank-shaft—held in seven large bearings; perfect carburetion—perfect lubrication and faultless cooling—these give you a car that will get away, go, and climb anything the wheels will hold.

But such acceleration would be useless without an equal degree of de-celeration.

Such speed would be a menace without equal ability to stop.

Such hill climbing ability would serve only half your needs—for whatever goes up must also come down—and so you must have super-brakes to come down those hills rapidly and safely.

Rickenbacker 4-wheel brakes are the best in the world (bar none). This feature completes the cycle of perfect performance.

Drive this car yourself—it will be a revelation to you.

RIVER NO LONGER A DIVIDING LINE

Land On Nebraska Side Of Missouri Is Part Of South Dakota.

(Special to The Star.)

CROFTON, Neb., Feb. 7.—In northeast Nebraska is a rather vast region known as the Devils Nest country. It is famous for its big timber, pasture and for cattle, its coons and other wild animals and is a favorite hunting place for sportsmen from this state and from South Dakota. In this wild country is a tract of land of over a thousand acres geographically in Nebraska and yet not a part of this state although its boundary line is identical with that of Nebraska.

Strange as seems this remarkable fact, apparently part of Nebraska and not separated from it by any dividing line, is part of the state of South Dakota over the Missouri river on the Nebraska side. Its inhabitants paying taxes and voting in South Dakota. It is owned and has been operated for years by the Hutterisch colony of south Bon Homme county, South Dakota, and is located just south of Bon Homme county, north and west of the Devils Nest country. About 100 acres are under cultivation and the few inhabitants look after the crops and the large number of cattle pastured there in the summer time getting most of their provisions from Crofton, their nearest overland town, although their state citizenship is in South Dakota.

The strange relationship of this tract of land and its inhabitants is the result of nature. This freakish land was once an island in the middle of the Missouri river which the surveyors assigned to South Dakota and was surrounded entirely by deep water so that it could not be reached even when the river was lowest except by boat.

But the Missouri, which is known for its unstableness, cutting away the bank on one side and filling in on the other side year by year, formed sandbars and shifted its current to the north, making of the island a Nebraska peninsula so that a road was built connecting it with the highlands to the south and now big cottonwoods and willows have sprung up and made the connecting link permanent.

Farmers Attend Night Schools In Jefferson County

(Special to The Star.)

FAIRBURY, Neb., Feb. 7.—The Fairbury public school authorities have taken advantage of the offer of the vocational agricultural department of Lincoln to provide for extension classes in agriculture for interested farmers during the months of January, February and March. Co-operating with the county superintendent the Fairbury board of education through the Smith-Hughes agricultural department of the high school has organized six night schools in six different communities of the county where courses are being offered in poultry and swine. A keen interest is being taken in this work by the communities in which classes are organized and twenty five to seventy five are in attendance regularly at the meetings. A. R. Magee of Fort Collins, Colo., is the special instructor in charge of the work.

Change In River Course Causes Land Title Dispute

COLUMBUS, Neb., Feb. 7.—Because of the vagaries of the Loup river the titles to four city blocks of ground, portions of several city streets and a [illegible] island are involved in a lawsuit tried before Judge Button of Fremont in district court here this week. Some years ago the river changed its course and inundated several blocks of ground in the city of Columbus. Some years later it gradually worked back to its old course, restoring the land that it had devastated. Paul Borowiak, owner of adjoining land, is now endeavoring to establish title to all the affected portion of the city by claiming it as accretion to his land. The court last summer gave him title to some of the land claimed but his right to other portions of it is being contested by several property owners including C. C. Sheldon, S. P. Marty, Charles Louis and the city of Columbus. The case presents many interesting angles. Judge Button has taken it under advisement and directed the lawyers to file briefs before he will make his decision.

RINGER TO TELL HIS OWN STORY

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., Feb. 7.—Donald Ringer is to take the stand in his own defense, probably sometime Monday, it was indicated in District court here today by Defense Attorney Willits.

Ringer is charged with the murder of Carl Moore, auto salesman.

The state rested its case early this morning after seeking to prove that only one man was connected with the crime and that man was Ringer.

The defense has already presented nine witnesses in its attempt to prove that there were two men seen in the car with Carl Moore, that two were seen with the car at Geneva, that two men went into Wilber with the car late on the afternoon of October 16 after Moore's disappearance and that neither of the men was Ringer.

At least twenty five witnesses have been summoned by the defense.

Find Much Honey In Walls of House

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., Feb. 7.—A house flowing with honey is the literal paraphrase Towne Levy of Columbus could make of the ancient biblical promise. For several years Levy has known that a swarm of bees have been making his home their home, utilizing the space between the siding and the walls and leaving him in undisputed possession of the rest of the house. Yesterday Levy accepted the offer of a carpenter to tear the siding off the south side of his house, remove the accumulated honey and restore the siding for half of the bees' treasure. The first day's work netted more than three tubs full and the job wasn't more than half finished.

Columbus To Buy Sewer Systems Built Years Ago

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., Feb. 7.—Columbus, one of the oldest cities in the state, a city of the first class for fifteen years, is soon to enjoy the novelty of owning its own sanitary sewer systems. More than thirty years ago the city granted three private companies franchises to construct sanitary sewer systems and throughout the intervening years this has been the only city of consequence in Nebraska in which the sewer systems have not been municipally owned. The people recently voted $60,000 bond issue and the money will be used to buy the sewers. The bonds have been sold to Omaha firms and the city will take over the three sewers in a few days.

Bull Declines To Leave Old Home

(Special to The Star.)

ODELL, Neb., Feb. 7.—A fancy black Angus bull was loaded at this station to be shipped to a new owner in Missouri. It had been placed in a car all by itself and just as the train arrived to pick up the car the shipper decided to take a last look to see if his highness was all right. He pulled the door of the car open about a foot to look in when the bull stuck its head into the crack, gave a shrug of its massive shoulders, pushing the door open and jumped out. It charged the conductor and the station agent, George Skinkle, who were standing near, sending them up the ladder on a car of the train, and then dashed for its former home on a farm nearby. It was necessary for the train to set the empty car out again and the animal will make the trip later.

BENGALS DEFEAT CHADRON NORMAL

Doane Tigers Take Game From Eagle Quintet By 26-16 Score.

CRETE, Neb., Feb. 7.—Doane college defeated Chadron Normal in basketball here tonight 26 to 16. The first half of the contest was warmly contested, Doane setting a 12 to 10 pace when the timer's gun closed the opening period.

In the curtain-raiser the Doane reserves won an 18 to 13 victory over the Lincoln high school reserves.

Humphrey Couple Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., Feb. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. John Frey, residents of Humphrey the last twenty years, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home there this week. Several hundred friends attended a special mass which was read for them by Rev. Father Josephat at St. Francis Catholic church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock and sixty guests attended a wedding anniversary dinner served in their honor at the home of their daughter, Mrs. A. G. Billerbeck, at noon.

A reception was held during the afternoon. A unique feature of the celebration was the fact that three couples who had attended their wedding in Henry, Ill., were present. They were Mr. and Mrs. Steve German, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kurtenbach and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schaecher. All eight of them were childhood friends in Illinois and are now numbered among the wealthy families of the farming community around Humphrey.

Geneva Tossers Give Crete Five Heated Argument

Intangible Tax Law Is Attacked

(Special to The Star.)

AURORA, Neb., Feb. 7.—In the supreme court next Tuesday will be argued a case from Hamilton county which involves the constitutionality of the intangible tax law. George C. Bute and others owning stock in the Buckhannon River Coal company of West Virginia contested the assessment of their shares of stock under the intangible tax law before the board of equalization and in the district court. They were defeated in both instances and appealed to the supreme court where the question will be heard next Tuesday. It is claimed that the intangible tax law is unconstitutional because it exempts from taxation intangible property for years prior to 192[illegible] providing it was listed on that date. The constitution prohibits the legislature from releasing or discharging any taxes but the intangible tax law pretends to release all taxes on this intangible property for the years prior to the first assessment thereunder.

Failed To Obtain New Car Licenses

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., Feb. 7.—Neil Hutton and Theodore Kopf were arrested yesterday on the charge of having their cars without 1925 licenses. They pleaded guilty when they faced Judge Messmore in county court and were fined $1 and costs each. After their arrest officers say they got busy and took out licenses but this did not change matters when they appeared in county court.

HEAVY SIDING RAILS

(Special to The Star.)

HUBBELL, Neb., Feb. 7.—Track men are tearing out the old 66 pound rails which have been used in the sidings in the railway yards here for the past twelve years and replacing them with heavy rails which weigh eighty five pounds to the yard. The heavier rails conform to those used in all main line tracks through here and will carry the heavier engines and loads. The improvement represents an expenditure of several thousand dollars.

Hastings Baptists Let Contract For Fine New Church

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., Feb. 7.—The members of the building committee of the First Baptist church have let the contract for the new $54,750 church and their action is to come before the congregation Sunday for approval.

Busboom Bros. of Fairbury made the low bid. Seven had been submitted, ranging from $54,750 to $65,274.

The structure is to be gothic in type and will measure 87 by 103 feet in size.

Dynamite Ice In Platte River In Fremont Vicinity

(Special to The Star.)

FREMONT, Neb., Feb. 7.—Dynamite crews are breaking up the ice in the Platte south of Fremont, the loud detonations ringing over the city at regular intervals today.

By clearing the channels between the Burlington and state bridges it is hoped to minimize danger of a flood which menaces this year on account of the thickness of the ice and the swollen condition of the river.

New Building For Fillmore's Fair

(Special to The Star.)

GENEVA, Neb., Feb. 7.—The old floral hall at the fair grounds has been torn down and the new building will stand almost on the spot of the first building erected which it displaces. The wrecking process has been accomplished by volunteer labor and the work will be continued in the same manner today. Yesterday fifteen men spent the day sorting the lumber which had been saved from the building and were served a hot dinner by members of the fair board assisted by their wives. Today a number of eighth grade boys are added to the working force and are pulling nails from the old lumber. They also donate their services.

TOTAL EARNINGS NOT TRUE TEST

Man O' War and Exterminator Greater Than Zev On Race Tracks.

In other days the greatness of a race horse was measured by the amount of money he won for his owner. But that method is obsolete in this era of special $25,000, $50,000 and $100,000 purses.

Zev won more money than Man O' War. But none will say that he was the greater horse and none will really mention him in the same breath as Man O' War. For Man O' War was a super-horse, while Zev was merely a fast horse running at a time when phenomenal purses were being tossed around.

Zev only had to gallop to win $80,000 for the Rancocas stable in the match with the mediocre Papyrus. Zev gained $53,000 through his Kentucky Derby victory—the same race which netted only $14,000 a few years earlier to Willis Sharp Kilmer, owner of the gallant Exterminator.

Zev and Exterminator.

As between these two horses—Zev and Exterminator—when each was at his best, the likelihood is that Exterminator would have walked away from Zev. Yet the race winnings of Zev exceed those of Exterminator. And the reason simply is that Zev got a shot at an $80,000 purse—and Exterminator didn't—and Zev earned nearly $40,000 more than did Exterminator for victory in the same classic.

Man O' War was infinitely more fortunate than Exterminator, inasmuch as he had a chance in a $75,000 match race with Sir Barton—an opportunity denied the old gelding. And in his two and three-year-old career, all stakes had a greater valuation than in Exterminator's time.

Nosed Out Man O' War.

Exterminator nosed out Man O' War in the matter of winnings, doing it by the process of running nearly 100 races and winning most of his starts. On only a few occasions did he run for purses that exceeded $15,000 or $20,000.

If Exterminator had earned $53,000 for his Derby triumph, if he had a chance in either a $75,000 or $100,000 match race, or if the other stakes in his time were as great as they were in the days of Man O'War and Zev, then Exterminator would have added at least $150,000 to his total and placed his mark well beyond $400,000.

Much ado was made in 1923 over the fact that the Rancocas stable had fractured the old winning record. In that year Rancocas horses gained $438,849, as against the earlier record of $397,342 made by the James R. Keene horses in 1907.

Record of Keene Stables.

On comparative purse offerings, the Keene record of 1907 stands out as infinitely greater than the Rancocas showing of 1923. For the Keene stable didn't get a chance at a $100,000 match race which Rancocas did in 1923 and which added $80,000 to the Rancocas earnings. Deduct that $80,000 from Rancocas of 1923 and its mark drops far below Keene of 1907.

In 1907 the Kentucky Derby was worth $14,850; in 1923 it paid $53,000. The Belmont Stakes, worth $22,765 when won in 1907 by Peter Pan, owned by Keene, was worth $38,000 when annexed in 1923 by Zev. The Belmont Futurity of 1907 was worth $22,950, when won by Colin; it was worth $64,810 in 1923. And so it goes almost all along the line in the matter of big stake races.

Total Earnings No Test.

In 1923 there was the $50,000 Latonia championship which was won by Zev. There was no such race in 1907. And in 1923 there was a special $25,000 match race between Zev and In Memoriam. Also in 1923 there were stake races that have been created since the days of Keene's greatest glory.

So, it readily can be seen that the earnings of horses no longer can be reckoned when defining equine greatness. For in this era it is possible for a horse to win five races and earn almost three times as much as a horse of ten and fifteen years ago could earn by annexing the same five classics.

Uni. Place Trims Hastings Hi In Basket Combat

University Place high school defeated Hastings high in a spirited game on the suburban court Saturday night, 25 to 17. The young Methodists led throughout the contest, but did not pile up their wide lead until the closing quarter.

The suburbanites were setting the pace 8 to 7 at the close of the first quarter and 17 to 17 at the end of the third period.

The game was warmly contested throughout and at times became rough. Ward, University Place forward, and McCrady of Hastings were removed from the game when they showed an inclination to continue their argument with fists.

Center Ball led the University Place scoring with seven points. Shively was high for Hastings with six points. Score:

NURMI VS. HORSE ON COAST TRACK

Coffroth Would Pit Phenom Finn Against Osprey At Tijuana.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 7.—"It is true that I am trying to arrange a match between Paavo Nurmi and Osprey, training companion of Papyrus and the outstanding speed star of American tracks this winter," James W. Coffroth, president of the Tijuana club said today.

The racing head said the "man and beast" contest would draw a tremendous crowd. A path a yard wide would be rolled hard next to the rail, he said, which would enable the "flying Finn" to strike after a new record. The horse would run just outside the man's path on regulation harrowed soil.

Plan to Handicap Horse.

Packing heavy imposts, Osprey has time and again run a mile in 1:38, and the man marvel reels off a half in around 1:48. So that by handicapping the man and beast on their past performances, fudging a few yards for the Finn and weighting the horse accordingly, it would be possible mathematically to bring the pair to the finish wire noses apart.

Since a human sprinter attains full speed almost immediately upon leaving his mark and it takes a horse some fifty yards to get going full tilt, a quarter of a mile contest, Nurmi and the horse both starting at scratch, might prove of interest, Coffroth said.

Nurmi Mildly Amused.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Paavo Nurmi, his friends said today, was mildly amused by the suggestion of James Coffroth, Tijuana racing man, that he pit his "inhuman" speed against Osprey, a fair plater among race horses. It was proposed by Coffroth that the Finn run a half-mile against the horse's mile. It was explained, with some seriousness, that Osprey is a professional racer and that Nurmi would endanger his amateur standing if he ran against the horse.

RUNS TWO MILES IN RECORD TIME

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. — Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest distance runner, made another and his nineteenth world's record in the Thirteenth regiment armory here tonight, when he ran two miles in 9:08.

In the field against Nurmi was his great rival, Willie Ritola, who was forced to quit at the one-half mark by the pace of the Olympic champion.

Nurmi had promised he would break Joie Ray's record of 9:08 2-5 by eight seconds, but he failed after the first mile and slowed up perceptibly. There was no competition in the field against him and the crowd was shouting for new records.

The Finnish star seemed to exert himself in the last mile and he was too worn in the bell lap to live up to his promise.

Police had to clear a way for the Americans after Nurmi had broken the tape more than a lap ahead of the whole field.

The crowd swarmed out on the track and surrounded Nurmi, but he unsmilingly trotted to his dressing room.

Willie Plant stopped off a new world's record for the 3,000 metre walk when he won readily in 12 minutes 50 1-5 seconds.

Ray missed a new record for the mile by 2 2-5 seconds in a race in which Jimmy Connolly kept at his heels throughout, to lose by five yards. William Goodwin was third.

Charles H. Moore of Penn State set a world's record for the 100-yard high hurdles at 12 1-10 seconds for which no previous mark was in the book, bettering the outdoor time by 1-10 of a second. He held this less than a minute when Carl Christierson of the N. Y. A. C. ran the second heat in 12 9-10 seconds.

RECORDS TOPPLE AT KAYSEE MEET

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 7.—A new world's indoor record for the 50-yard high hurdles was set by Riley of the Illinois A. C. at the annual K. C. A. C. track carnival here tonight, when he topped the sticks in 6 2-5 seconds. Weir, Nebraska, was second and Keeble, Missouri, third.

Harold Osborne, Illinois A. C., broke his own record of 6 feet 5 1-4 inches when he cleared the bar in the high jump at 6 feet 5-8 inches. Poor, Kansas university, finished second.

Hettinger, Missouri university, won the 600-yard dash. His time was 1:16. Lewis, Nebraska, was second, and Greenlee, Iowa State, third.

In the final of the 50-yard dash, Locke, Nebraska, was first; Farley, Missouri, second, and Wiemann, Kansas, third. Time 5 2-5 seconds.

Tigers Barely Nose Ahead of Iowa Farmers

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 7. — The Iowa State college basketball team despite a desperate fight which kept it in front for the first half of the game, suffered its ninth conference defeat of the season at the hands of the University of Missouri five here tonight, 17 to 15. At the half, Ames led 8 to 7.

In the first period the desperately battling players fouled frequently, though there were no rough tactics, and that period was largely a battle from the free throw mark. Missouri scored but one field goal in the first frame and it was by a margin of two free throws that the Tigers won, as each team annexed five field goals. The score:

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 7.

Grains closed strong here today. Wheat finished 1¾ to 4¾c higher. Corn advanced ¾ to ⅞c. Oats closed ¼ to ⅝c up.

May wheat, after selling up to $1.93⅞ in the early trading, sagged off and broke down to $1.86¾, just above its closing price yesterday. After the first half hour, however, it moved upward and finished strong. Corn finished strong, breaking at the start. Oats were rather irregular at the start, but grew firmer. Provisions were active.

WHEAT—Grains were irregular at the start today but May wheat ruled higher in an excited market after the slump in prices yesterday. Wheat was ½ to 1⅞c higher at the opening with a general rush to buy and a scarcity of offerings until prices had been bid up.

CORN—Corn started ¼ to ⅜c lower, but rallied in sympathy with wheat and met with mixed trade.

OATS—Oats were unchanged to ¼c lower, trade light with little pressure on either side.

THE LINCOLN STAR

Classified Advertising

The Lincoln Star is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, which includes leading newspapers throughout the country, and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising. The Lincoln Star, as well as every other member of the Association, endeavors to print only truthful Want Ads and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standard of honesty.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING INFORMATION.

All ads are restricted to their proper classification and to the regular Lincoln Star style of type. The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy.

Errors in advertisement should be reported immediately. The Star will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

Advertising ordered for irregular insertion takes the one time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of two lines.

Ads ordered for seven times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Time .... .12
3 Times .... .10
7 Times .... .08

These offices are open to receive advertisements from 7:30 a. m. to 10:00 p. m. daily. All advertisements received up until 12:00 p. m. will appear in all city editions the same day. All ads received between 12:00 p. m. and 10 p. m. will appear in all editions the following day.

Look On the Shelves'

When you go into a store you see the articles it carries displayed on the counters and on the shelves

You look at this—and that—and decide on what to buy It's easy because everything is right before your eyes

But suppose you could walk into a great store where you could look over the real estate the automobiles the business services and the merchandise that the people of Lincoln are offering today—wouldn't you say that was the biggest shopping tour you ever took?

Turn to the Star's classified section right now—there you'll see the wares of the city—bargains of all sorts—neatly arranged on the 'shelves' in the various columns

Here is a 'department store' that carries many of the things you might want—from a 100 acre farm to a typewriter—and you can get them at unusual prices

When you have an offer of your own to make—call B1234 and ask for an ad-taker

TIMBER WOLVES ARE RATHER BOLD

(Special to The Star)

NELIGH Neb Feb — While chopping wood on the Payne place west of this city Marion Graham had an experience which he does not care to repeat It was extremely cold and he had built a fire to help keep warm and then turned to his chopping Looking up on hearing a rustling noise he espied only a few feet away a pair of big grey timber wolves

Unlike the coyote these wolves gave no indication of being willing to divide the right of way with Graham but stood snarling and showing their teeth Mr Graham had no weapon except his ax and was perfectly willing to call the affair off and say goodbye but the wolves gave no evidence of intending to do so

Finally Graham seized a blazing stick from the fire and hurled it in the direction of the pair and they evidently came to the same conclusion as Graham about calling the affair a draw and trotted off

It is seldom any of these animals are seen in this vicinity and it is supposed the extreme cold weather and the deep snows drove them down into this section from the hills and brakes to the northwest

SKI JUMPERS IN DAKOTA TOURNEY

Winter Carnival Scheduled For This Week On New Slide at Canton.

(Special to The Star)

HARRINGTON Neb Feb 6—In sporting circles in northeast Nebraska much interest is being shown in the big ski tournament to be held at Canton S D Feb 11 and 1 and many in this locality are planning to attend the national event

The Sioux Valley Ski club the host club according to information received here by one of the followers of the winter sport has not spared time and effort in preparing what expert skiers say is the finest ski slide in America

The old slide used for the local tournament a year ago was torn to pieces by a tornado last summer but since then men and teams have been working on a new slide near the old site grading the long hill so that the new slide is longer and better suited to the establishment of new records

Has No Equal In U S

Lars and Andres Haugen one a winner in last year s tournament at Battleboro Vermont and the other a competitor in the Olympic games inspected the new slide a few days ago and declared it to be without a peer in the country The hill site is located in Iowa overlooking the Sioux river and the length of the slide is 600 running feet with a foot perpendicular

Only amateurs will be permitted to compete in the tournament as the national association is a member of the American Amateur Athletic union But as several colleges throughout the country have made skiing a college sport and are planning to enter the national tournament at Canton the Sioux Valley association expects to have more entrants this year than there were at the 19?? national tournament at Minneapolis when ?39 competed the largest number on record

Out in Santa Rosa, Calif., they are all suffering terrible pride because they have so many twins.

They get in the newspapers and in the "movies" and in the magazines and most any place it is possible to put the pictures of the Twin club of Santa Rosa.

Well, fifty pairs is quite a lot of twins for a place no larger than Santa Rosa. Lincoln was that size years and years ago.

But right here in Lincoln we have them come in pairs, too. Not all the Lincoln children are singular numbers by any means.

Santa Rosa, however, has to use all the babies and all the just-larger-than-babies and all the nearly-grown-ups to get a half a hundred twins. If Lincoln worked that hard, it could get a whole Santa Rosa full of twins.

Learning the three R's right now in Lincoln are sixty-nine pairs of twins—and that doesn't count the high school that has several more. Between the kindergarten and the junior high school are nearly three score and ten pairs of twins, girls and girls, boys and boys, and mixed.

Some of the families are especially well supplied, having two sets on the road to knowledge, but usually one set of duplicates is sufficient. However, those with two feel that the fates have been a little better to them than to those with just one pair in the ordinary fashion—quite as those gaze just a little superciliously on the families where the children are all stair-steps.

Saratoga leads the list with ten pairs of twins. Prescott follows with nine and Hartley, Hawthorne, and Willard bring up the rear with but a pair each. Belmont and Lake View schools have no difficulties with twins. Bancroft has four pairs of twins, Bryant two, Elliott seven, Hayward six, Everett three, McKinley two, Park six, Twenty-sixth and O street school two, Normal three, Longfellow two, Capitol [illegible] Whittier one, and Clinton [illegible]

[illegible] and Virginia Foster, the [illegible] year old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Foster, are one set of Prescott twins. They are in the [illegible] grade and have brown eyes and medium hair—and Jane—or is it Virginia?—has a hurt ankle right now. Verne and La Verne Goldstein, aged ten and the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. [illegible] Goldstein, are in the 4A and 1B grades at Prescott. Donald and Robert Hoffman, 4A pupils, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hoffman and they will be eleven July 4. They have light hair and brown eyes.

Dorothy and David Cook, twins of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Cook, will be six Tuesday and they are first graders. Dorothy is a brunette and [illegible]. The eight year old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Earl [illegible] and Doris [illegible] they are in the [illegible]. Their hair [illegible] they have blue eyes. Dale and Deane Blythe are kindergartners at five years old in New Elliott school. They have blue eyes and light hair and are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Blythe. The Elliott kindergarten has another set of twins in the sons of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Mayfield. Max and Morris. Max has reddish hair and Morris is darker but they are both four years old. Roger and Robert Whitburn, aged nine, are children of Mr. and Mrs. W. Whitburn. They are in the fifth and fourth grades at Elliott.

La Vern and La Deen McKinney are pupils in the kindergarten at Bancroft school. The boys have brown eyes and light hair and are six years of age. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. McKinney. Of the four pairs of Bancroft twins, Ella and Elva Lewis make one set. They are ten, blonde, and in the 5A grade. Ella and Elva are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Lewis.

Helen and Ellen Hudson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hudson, don't resemble each other, for the one has dark hair and the other light, but both are eleven. They attend Bancroft school, Helen being in the 4A and Ellen in 4B. The twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hammond are Edward and Edwin, aged seven years. They are in the second grade at Bancroft. Both have medium brown hair and brown eyes.

Two Pairs in One Family.

The S. T. Bruce family in Normal is fond of twins, for it has two pairs, Robert and Roberta, the older, and Willis and Winifred, the younger. Robert and his sister are eleven next Friday and the younger twins are eight. They all attend the Normal school and they are all blondes. The older set is in the fifth grade and the younger in the third. The Normal second grade has a pair of twins, Willis and Wilmer Moore, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Moore. They are blonde and seven.

Whittier has a unique arrangement of twins, too, cousins. Doris and Dorothy Gaddis, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Gaddis, are thirteen years old and in the Whittier seventh grade. They are blondes. Esther and Ethel Gaddis, their cousins, are brunettes, fourteen, and in the Whittier 8A. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Gaddis. Gerald and Harold Pine are other Whittier twins, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pine. The boys are twelve years of age and in the seventh grade.

Jim and Joe Lantz are older twins, being fifteen and in the Whittier 7A. They are blondes with blue eyes and are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Lantz. Harold and Harry Steele, Whittier eighth grade students, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Steele, sr. The boys are fifteen years of age.

One of the Clinton twins is Wilber and William Hutchens, the sons of and Mrs. Benjamin Hutchens. The twins are eleven and in the 6A grade. Both have medium coloring. The Clinton 1B has twins in Genevieve and Winifred Dalton, also.

Louis and Lucile Buss are one pair of the McKinley twins and Roy and Howard Knotts are the others. Roy and Howard are the seven year old sons of Mrs. Gertrude Knotts. They are blonde and can scarcely be told apart. The boys are in the 2B grade. Louis and Lucile are not quite six and are tiny kindergartners.

Leslie and Leland Spence are the fifteen year old sons of L. H. Spence and they are in the junior high school at Twenty-sixth and O streets. The boys have medium [illegible] Harold and [illegible] are also fifteen and are students in the same junior high school as the Spence twins.

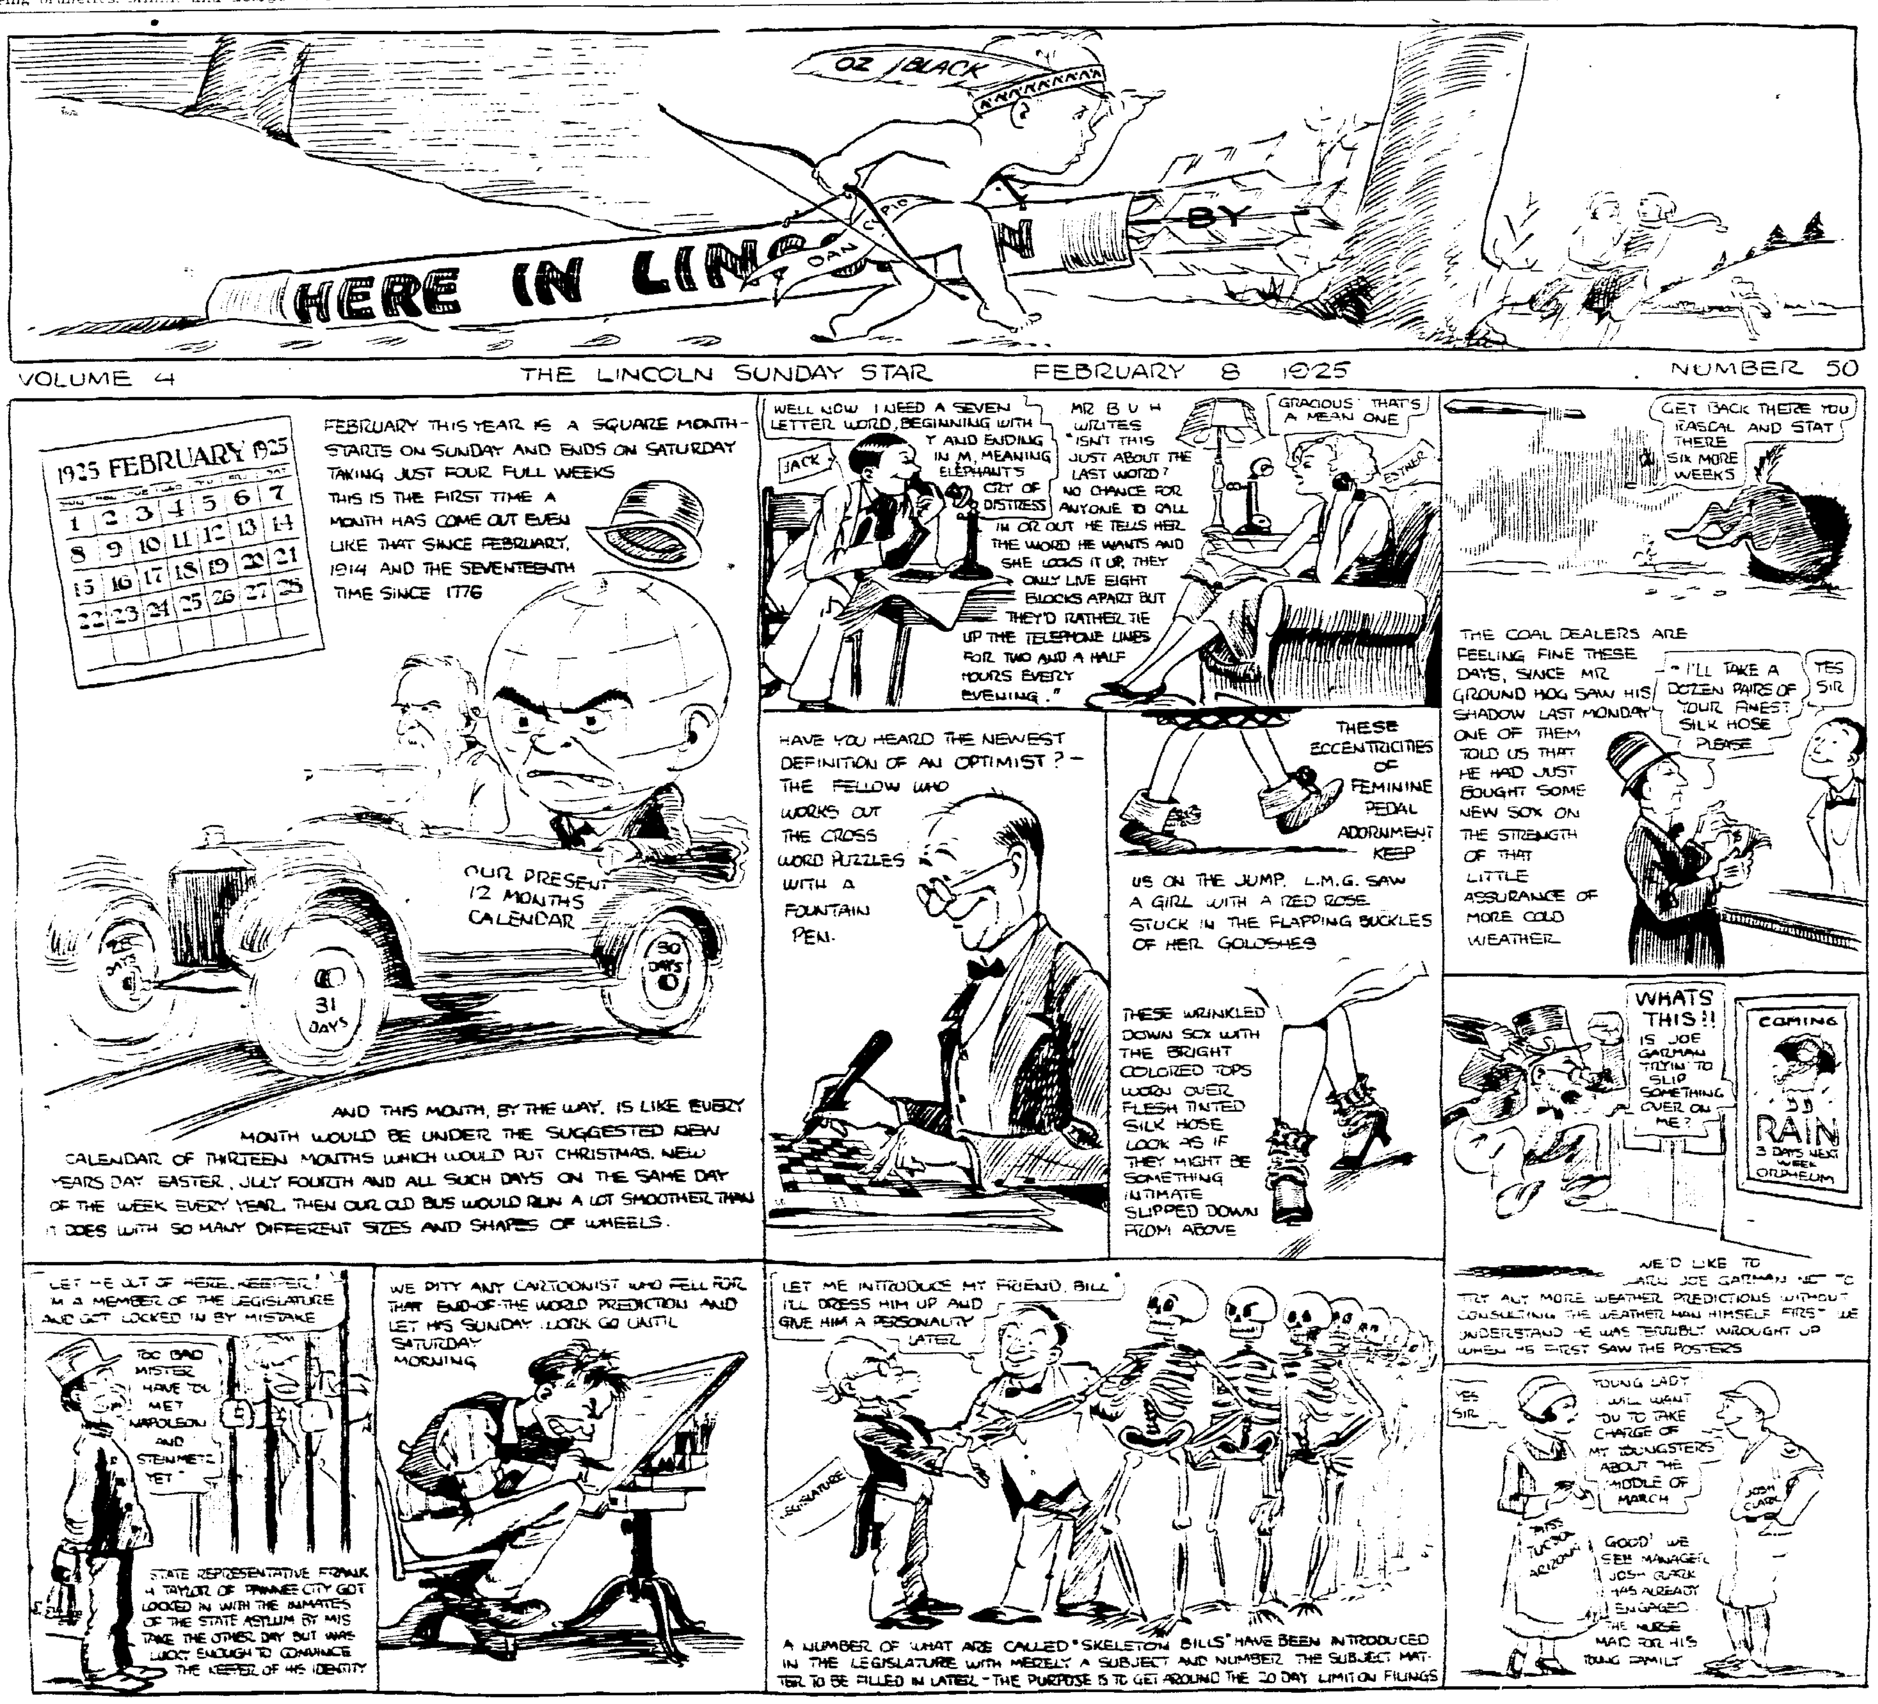

Hartley school boasts but one pair of doubles, Clifford and Clinton Sturdevant, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Sturdevant. The boys are seven and in the 2A. Both are dark.

Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Seng have twins in Bryan school, Herold and Hubert Seng. Herold is a brunette and Hubert is a blonde. They are pupils in the 1B grade. Joy and Joyce Reuter are in the 4B grade at Bryant and are nine years old. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Reuter.

Ten Sets at Saratoga.

Evelyn and Everett Stewart, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Stewart, are one pair of the ten Saratoga sets of twins. Evelyn is a blonde and Everett a brunette. They are five and in the kindergarten. Paul and Bruce Aurand, the sons of Representative and Mrs. [illegible] Aurand [illegible] 1A grade [illegible]

Home Builders Will Find These Pages Full of Interest and Help

MANOR HOUSE IS TO BE COMPLETE WITHIN 2 WEEKS

Last of Carpenter Work On Home Beautiful Finished By Next Wednesday.

Decorating and Furnishing Then Done, and House Will Be Ready For Use.

Stratford Manor is practically complete, from the standpoint of the carpenter and builder. Wednesday evening, according to calculations, should see the last of the carpenter work completed out at 2655 Rathbone road, which is the street address which says, in prosaic form, that this residence is Stratford Manor.

Planing and preliminary preparations for the laying of the floors was completed at the house, the setting of the built-in kitchen cupboard, the installation of tile for the vestibule floor, hearth, mantel breast, and bathrooms, the hanging of doors, and the choice of hardware for the doors, still remain to be done during the earlier part of the week.

The latter part of the week and the following week will be devoted to staining the wood work, papering the second story and painting walls in dining room and living room for decorative effect. Those in kitchen and bathrooms will be whitened.

The glorification of the house, its furnishing and the installation of its drapes, will be completed next week, and the house will be ready for inspection, and for ultimate occupancy.

Visitors are keeping up a constant stream to the Manor, examining its architecture, its adaptation to home life, and the materials used in it. In an uncompleted state it is extremely interesting, and to those who examined the house at various stages, it presents a real educational advantage. The completed, furnished, home will also be open for inspection for a time before it is inhabited.

Trees Already Planted.

Elm trees, thirty-five to forty feet high, have already been planted around the site of the house, and with the days of spring and summer will leaf and bud. Time was when the growth of such trees would require twenty-five or thirty years, but modern nursery and landscaping methods have made it possible to transplant growing trees without injury.

During the coming week the doors will be hung, a project which provides considerable enjoyment for the interested watcher. Swinging doors are to be used between kitchen and dining room, and the French doors which can be thrown open upon the terrace, and those which lead from the long living room to the place where the table is daintily set, will be in place by the middle of the week. Hardware for these doors must be chosen and installed, with the knobs, and "escutcheons," which is the word technically used for the plates set behind the knobs.

The niche in the kitchen is provided for the alarm clock, that it may not be knocked down inadvertently in the unavoidable just-the-last-minute rush of cooking. The windows are correctly placed over the sink and over the work table, and space has been provided for the built-in cabinets for kitchen storage. These cupboards will be finished to harmonize with the painted walls, and to aid in the proper appearance of the culinary quarters.

Finishing Touches On Stratford Manor

—Macdonald.

Lincoln people who begin this week their work in putting the finishing touches on out at Stratford Manor, the "home beautiful," paid a visit to the house Friday. The upper row shows B. Boyd of the Boyd Jewelry company, which will supply silverware; Miss Mary Schmunk of the Hamilton Market, who will receive orders for stocking the larder and the electric refrigerator; Curry D. Bryson of the Korsmeyer company, furnishing lighting fixtures; L. J. Allen of the Nash agency, who brings the official car; and E. H. Armintrout of the Lincoln Traction company, which installs the electric ironer.

The lower row shows W. E. Nash, jr., decorator; and A. L. Gulle of the Perkins-Huffman company, from the floor of whose store the furnishings and draperies will be taken.

EDITORS HAVE FULL PROGRAM

Press Association and Writers Guild Meet; Students Plan Activities.

University Will Be Host From February 17 to 21 and Give Entertainment.

Nebraska editors will temper business with pleasure when the Nebraska Press association holds its fifty-second convention, the newly organized Nebraska Writers' Guild meets for the first time, and leading publishers of the state address students in a combined program for Journalism Week, Tuesday to Saturday, February 17 to 21, at the University of Nebraska. The university and the school of journalism will be hosts.

A banquet by the Lincoln chamber of commerce Thursday evening, a reception and "mixer" Friday evening by the students and faculty of the school, followed by entertainment, "dutch-treat" breakfasts for past presidents and "old timers" of the association, exhibits, and excursions to points of interest about the university campus will provide diversion for the visitors.

Arrangements have been made by Prof. M. M. Fogg, director of the school, for the entertainment of the university's guests—as far as chapter-house facilities permit—at sorority and fraternity houses, Thursday and Friday nights. Accommodations will be provided at the university cafeteria Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

To the Nebraska Press association and the Nebraska Writers' Guild are extended the privileges of the Faculty Men's club in the Temple. Club rooms will also be placed at the disposal of women guests.

Convention to Be Filmed.

Members of the joint convention will assemble at noon Friday before the west front of Social Science building for motion and still pictures. In the evening, following the reception, the visitors will "see themselves as others see them" when moving pictures of the morning gathering will be thrown on the screen in the Temple Theater.

The week opens with seven addresses Tuesday and Wednesday at the School of Journalism on various aspects of newspaper work by Frank O. Edgecombe, editor of the Nebraska Signal, Geneva; J. G. Alden, editor of the York Republican; E. R. Purcell, editor of the Custer County Chief, Broken Bow; J. P. O'Furey, editor of the Cedar County News, Hartington; Mrs. Marie Weekes, editor of the Norfolk Press and president of the association; M. A. Brown, editor of the Kearney Hub, and Field Manager Ole Buck. The program of the Writers' Guild comes Wednesday and Thursday with a joint session of the guild and the association Thursday evening, followed by business sessions of the association which continue until Saturday.

Members of the committee responsible for the details of the program are Mrs. Marie Weekes, Ole Buck, Prof. M. M. Fogg, and Keene Abbott of the Omaha World-Herald, acting president of the Writers' Guild.

Nebraska authors who will speak at the Writers' Guild meetings are Bess Streeter Aldrich, Mrs. Myron Learned, George C. Shedd, C. Lawrence Hawthorne, Adam Breede of Hastings, Dr. Louise Pound of the University of Nebraska; Grace Sorenson, editor of Every Child's Magazine; Stanley R. Osborn, Prof. Edwin Ford Piper of the University of Iowa, author of "Barbed Wire and Wayfarers," and Dr. Julius T. House of the Wayen Normal college.

Nebraska Authors Speak.

Various exhibits will be open during the week. Visitors are invited to inspect the collection of paintings on New York city and vicinity and the Nebraska Art association's collection in the university Art gallery. Guides will be furnished and explanatory lectures will be given to groups on request at the University Museum. The four silver loving cups to be awarded in the 1924 contests of the association and the competing papers will be on exhibition in the School of Journalism. The cups follows: Community service cup, presented by the Omaha chamber of commerce; editorial cup, presented by the Lincoln chamber of commerce; front page cup, presented by the Hartington Community club, and the field manager's cup, presented by Ole Buck.

The Henry Allen Brainerd collection of more than 500 pictures and 36 volumes of the annals of the association from 1879-1912; an exhibit of student work in the new course in typography, and a copy of the first issue of the Nebraska Palladium, Belleview, and other material of historial interest will be exhibited at the school of journalism. In the Nebraska State Historical society rooms in the library will be displayed files of early Nebraska ewspapers.

Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalistic fraternity, and Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalistic sorority, will assist in entertaining the university's guests.

University Notes

Thomas Sullivan, secretary of the National Stone company of Omaha and Louisville, Neb., called at the office of the Conservation and Survey division last week. Tests of the various layers of the stone quarries at Louisville were made by the division.

KIRSCH TO SPEAK

Dwight Kirsch, instructor in the university school of fine arts, will speak on the pictures in the gallery Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

MANY TWINS IN LINCOLN SCHOOLS

among the Saratoga twins. The twins of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Harris are nine years of age and are Elizabeth and Rufus. They have light hair and blue eyes and adorn the Saratoga 4A. The Frisbie twins, Lloyd and Floyd, are ten years old and Lloyd is a member of the 5A class and Floyd of the 5B. Lloyd is dark and Floyd is not quite so dark. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. Frisbie.

Clarence and Claude Gardner are twin brothers in Saratoga who live at the Home for Dependent Children. They are thirteen and in the sixth grade. They have medium brown hair and blue eyes and both boys are members of a boy scout troop. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bolan have eleven year old twins in Saratoga school. Grace and Frank are in the 4A and the 4B grades, respectively. Both the twins have dark hair and blue eyes.

Florence Block is in the third grade and her brother, Clarence, is in the fourth at Saratoga school and they are eight years old. They are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs J. B. Block. The nine year old twins of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Haas are Oliver and Orville. They are pupils in the 3A at Saratoga and are the dark haired twins of the grade. Leona and Leola Smith are ten years old and the daughters of Mrs. E. R. Maisch. Leona is a 4A pupil and Leola a 4B. They have light hair and brown eyes.

Leona and Leola have an older brother and sister, also twins, in Everett school, making two families with two sets of twins in school in Lincoln. Ellsworth and Edith Smith are thirteen and in the Everett 7A. Edith is a brunette and her brother is a blonde. Leona and Lillion Strasheim are the twin daughters of Mrs. Mary Strasheim and they are in Everett school.

4 Pairs From 2 Families.

Charles Kenneth Kulla and Mary Cologne are twelve years old and are the children of Mr. and Mrs. William Kulla. They are in the 6B at Everett school. Both of the children have very dark hair and eyes. Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Mills have twin sons in school, Floyd Edwin and Lloyd Everett, and they are five years of age and in the 1B grade at Everett. Floyd is light and Lloyd dark and Lloyd is a little more mischievous than his brother. Floyd and Lloyd have four year old twin brothers, Keith LeRoy and Kenneth Roy.

Park school with its six twins has Marie and Martha George, the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. George. The girls are ten, with dark hair and eyes. They are in the 5A grade at Park. Harold and Herman Blumm are in the Park school and Frank and Bertha Hermont are a third set of Park school twins.

Little twin girls in Park school are Louise and Elizabeth Hill and a brother and sister who are twins in the same school are Freda and Victor Bauer. They are ten years old and in the 5B grade. They are the children of Mrs. Christ Bauer. Ruth and Roy Bauer are the final pair of twins in this school.

Hayward, too, has a half dozen sets of twins in its building. Alexander and Marie Kildow are twelve years old and are the twins of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kildow. The twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Schwindt are eleven years old. Herbert and Paul have been out of school a great deal of the time and Herbert is in the 2B grade and Paul in the 2A grade. Catherine and John Schwindt are not relatives of Herbert and Paul, but they are twins, too. These twins are ten years old and in the 3A at Hayward school. Mr. and Mrs. Adam Schwindt are their parents.

The twins of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Weber are Rachel and Leah. They are ten years old and in the fourth grade at Hayward. The Hayward first grade has its twins in Alexander and George Groh, who are just six years old. Alexander and George are the little sons of Mr. and Mrs. G. G Groh. Hilda and Freda Niederhaus are the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs Jacob Niederhaus. They are nine and in the 2A grade.

La Vone and La Verne Wood are the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Wood and they are in the 7A grade at Capitol school. The girls are thirteen, with dark hair and blue eyes. Betty and Julius Willson, who are eleven, are the younger twins in Capitol school.

Frieda and Herman Wertz are the little twins of Longfellow school. They were seven last Saturday and are in the 2B grade. Edward and Drenning Rheinhold are the other pair of twins in Longfellow school.

Edith and Delbert Bice represent Willard school as the sole pair of twins in their school.

PROTECT AGAINST COLD WEATHER IN HOME BEAUTIFUL

Metal Strips Installed at Windows and Doors to Shut Out Frigid Blasts.

Will Result In Warm House and Will Also Guard Against Dirt and Soot.

Metal weather-stripping will be installed on windows and doors at Stratford Manor during the coming week. This work is not begun until the plaster has dried well, but is completed before the interior painting is started.

Weather stripping has definitely established itself in a position of importance in home construction. The consequences of neglect of this feature are interesting.

Perimeter of an average double-hung, or common, window is sixteen feet, measuring twice the height of both sashes and three times their width. A window in general practice, without weather-stripping, can not be fit closer than one-sixteenth of an inch. To figure one-sixteenth of an inch, stretched over sixteen feet, leaves the equivalent of a hole one inch high and a foot long, or three inches by four. Expressed in engineering equivalents, a double-hung window two feet by four feet, fit to within one-sixteenth of an inch, with a 30 mile per hour wind blowing against it, leaks 83 cubic feet of air per minute. Imagine the fuel saved with the installation of weather-stripping.

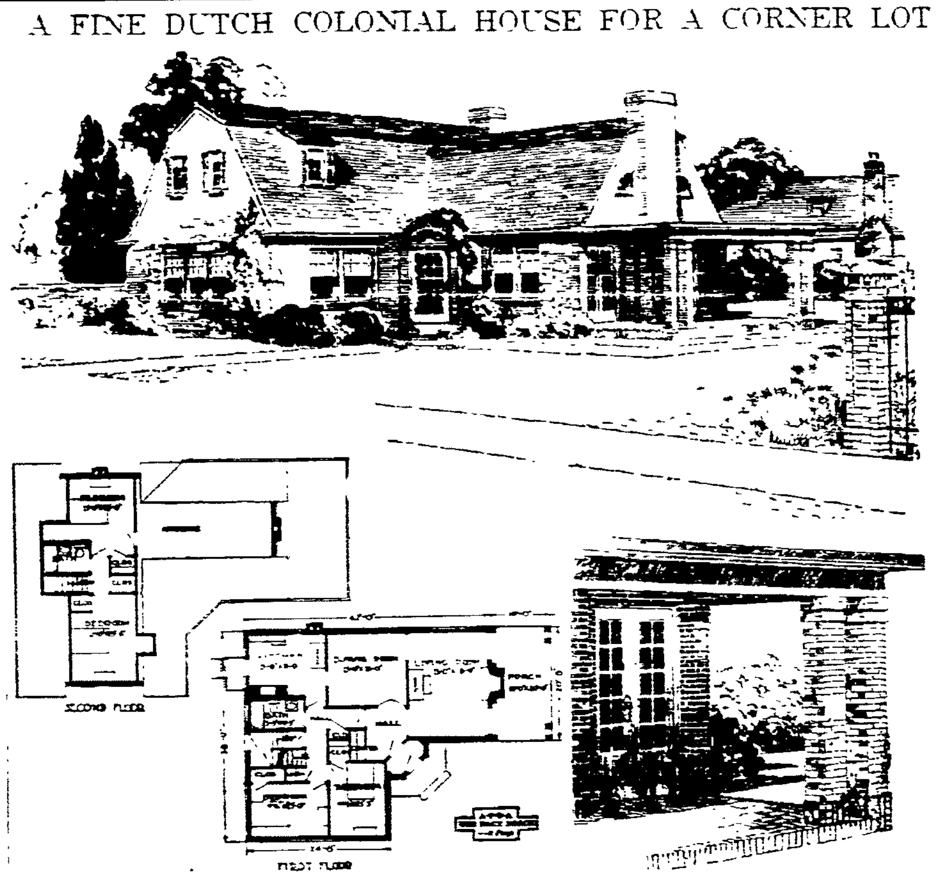

Protection Against Draft.

Bedroom doors are also to be equipped with weather-stripping. Since the demand for fresh air in bed rooms at night is fixed in America, it must be accepted as a healthful fact. But, oh, that strip of air under the door! No wonder the house is cold in the morning. At Stratford Manor, the bed room doors have been provided with inside door bottoms which automatically close this gap when the door is closed. Yet they are out of sight, and will not be noticed without special attention.

Even temperature for the rooms is another of the advantages claimed as a corrolary of the use of weather-stripping. No cold comes near the windows, and no floor drafts are to be used.

The same lack of circulation will make an appeal to the mistress of the Manor, according to the representative of the Chamberlin Weather Stripping company, who will install the material. The equipment will save a world of work by keeping out the soot and dust which not only must be cleaned up, but which also soil drapes and shades.

A FINE DUTCH COLONIAL HOUSE FOR A CORNER LOT

The corner lot very often offers a perplexing problem to the home-builder or architect. In this instance the designer has solved his problem admirably. The L-shaped design fits the corner lot perfectly and has an atmosphere of hospitality. It fairly invites one to enter the charming doorway.

The Dutch Colonial style is peculiarly appropriate as it combines so well a certain architectural charm and elegance with the comfort and coziness of a home. This house will look well in almost any color or texture of face brick. It has been built in several different kinds of brick in various parts of the country and the houses are all unusually attractive.

While this house was designed primarily for a corner lot, it has the merit of fitting practically any location, and may be placed on the lot to obtain the sun and breezes for any room desired.

The entrance in the angle of the house is unusually charming in effect, and the vestibule will be doubly appreciated in cold climates. The door at grade on the side of the house may serve also as a driveway entrance.

The grouping of the living room, dining room, porch, and hall is the attractive feature of this house. The living room and the porch have the view toward the street, as well as the garden, with a consequent maximum of light and air.

The bedrooms have fine cross ventilation, and are convenient to the bathroom. The kitchen could not be better placed. It is equipped with cabinets in place of a pantry, as some housewives prefer, for the sake of convenience. There is plenty of closet room throughout.

The well-lighted basement includes a laundry and drying room, heating plant, fuel bins, storage space, and vegetable cellar. A garage incinerator is connected with the heating plant.

The second story contains two bedrooms with closets, a second [illegible], and a large storage attic.

Will Hold Church Workers Institute At Cotner College

The third Church School Workers Institute open to Lincoln teachers and officers will be conducted at Cotner college from February 9 to 13. Afternoon session will be from 4 to 5:45 and evening sessions from 7:15 to 9:30. Mr. Charles Darsie of St. Louis and Miss Lucy Wetzel of Bloomington, Ill., are the out-of-town leaders. Each student is supposed to select one course and complete it. Elementary, young people and adult department specialization will be offered. Mr. Glenn McRae, superintendent of the northern district of the Christian church, and a member of the education committee of the Lincoln Council of Churches is dean of the institute. All Lincoln teachers are welcome.

The three committees, finance, curriculum and teacher training, for the vacation schools will be appointed next week and begin work immediately. Applications for teaching positions are being received by the secretary, and the announcement of the spring training school for the workers will be made soon.

All Sunday schools desiring to enter the Bible Story Telling contest are urged to send in their applications to Rev. Oliver M. Adams, First-Plymouth Congregational church before March 1.

University Notes

Dr. A. Bruce Curry, of New York City, has just completed a course of twelve lectures before university students on "Life At Its Best." Mr. Curry spoke Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 4 and 7 p. m., and on Saturday and Sunday at 3:30 and 8 p. m. The lectures were given under the auspices of the university Young Men's and Young Women's Christian associations. Mr. Curry, who is professor in the Biblical Institute of New York, bases his lectures on the New Testament. He has addressed students at more than sixty colleges and universities in the last two years.

Prof. Maurice Wessen of the department of English addressed the workers in the extension division of the university at the last monthly luncheon, held Monday at the Grand hotel. Professor Wessen spoke on "The Problem of the Reader of Student Papers." He emphasized the point that in reading papers the instructor should look for something good to encourage, for something of merit can be found even in poor papers. The "gems" which the reader finds enliven the task. Examples of twisted thinking and expression noted in the papers should be used by the instructor to aid in clearing up the students' difficulties, Mr. Wessen said. He quoted a number of amusing examples from the papers he had read. Prof. A. A. Reed, director of the extension division, introduced Mr. Wessen. A Valentine day motif was carried out in the decorations.

Traveling fellowships of $1,000 are being offered by the American-Scandinavian foundation for advanced students who wish to continue their studies in Scandavian countries. Fellowships are being offered for a number of subjects. Work may be done in Sweden, Denmark or Norway. The period of study is one academic year. Candidates must have been born in the United States or possessions. It is desirable that they be college graduates, and each must submit a definite course of study. A knowledge of the language of the country in which they desire to study is desirable.

Major John H. Hester of Washington, D. C., inspected the Nebraska unit of the Reserve Officers Training Corps Friday and Saturday.

Seven Nebraska students who completed the advanced course in military science at the end of the first semester have received their commissions as second lieutenants in the organized reserve. They are Jay W. Hepperly, Norfolk; Donald P. Roberts, Lincoln; John H. Graebing, Lincoln; Amos K. Gramlich, Fort Crook; Carl H. Johnson, Lincoln; Edward C. Richardson, Lincoln and Henry H. Strickland, Lincoln. Charles V. Warren, Cheyenne, Wyo., has received a certificate of eligibility and will receive his commission when he reaches the age of 21.

E. E. Anderson, C. E. '15, who is now connected with the structural engineer's department at the University of Illinois, visited the university last week. Mr. Anderson directed the work of the new athletic plant at Illinois which includes a stadium seating 67,000 persons. So far $1,700,000 has been spent on the plant and $400,000 more will be used before it is completed.

Dr. G. E. Condra, head of the conservation and survey division of the university, spoke over the radio from the Woodmen of the World station at Omaha Friday evening, on "A Trip Over the Burlington Through Nebraska." Dr. Condra described the territory through which this road runs.

Miss Helen Dean, who received her master's degree from the University of Nebraska and who is now head of the Latin department of the Lewis and Clarke high school at Spokane, Wash., was recently elected president of the Classical association of the Pacific States at a meeting held in Seattle. Miss Dean has been connected with the Spokane school for a number of years.

The Y. M. C. A. has furnished a den in the gymnasium. It has a study room, a reading table containing the dailies and college papers, and a pingpong table.

Philomatheans elected officers for the ensuing semester: President, Arleene Ritchie, '27, Stella; vice president, Mildred Pate '27, Alliance; secretary, Rose Lee Mills '25, Auburn; treasurer, Richard Hartley '25, Plattsmouth; sergeant-at-arms, Glenn Gleeson, '25, Clay Center.

Doane College Students Give Radio Program

Students from Doane school of music will give a radio program next Friday evening from station KFAB. The following students will appear: Mildred Potter, Elva Bloodgood, Mabel Storms in vocal numbers; Marian Carter, Opal Crone, Ruth Noyce, and Elva Bloodgood in piano numbers; Paul Taylor, Eleanor Crone and Hilma Scammon in violin numbers. Miss Crone, Miss Scammon and Mrs. R. C. Joyce, cellist, with Opal Crone at the piano, will play as a special feature of the program.

RADIO DIGEST

For the Notebook.

Added "B" battery voltage means louder signals.

Final adjustment for weak signals are made with the rheostat.

Merely tying a wire on a pipe does not make a ground connection.

When using guys for the aerial it is best to use wire, because rope shrinks and stretches.

The more "C" battery used, the more the plate current will be cut down and the life of the "B" battery prolonged.

An instrument making possible the elimination as "listeners in" of all radio owners who have not leased the device, has been perfected.

Sometimes amplifiers may be used successfully to receive a weak signal through heavy static by reducing the size of the aerial, or by the use of a loop.

Radiograms.

There are 22 radio clubs in and about Portland, Maine.

The laboratory of station WGY, six miles south of the city of Schenectady, N. Y., covers 78 acres.

The number of receiving sets now in use in Argentina is estimated to be between 150,000 and 200,000.

A radio set has been designed in Germany so small that it may be carried in a vest pocket. The cost is 50 cents, exclusive of headpiece and antenna. It is nothing more than a little piece of wood, with some coils of wire and a few screws.

Doane Notes

Robert Van Pelt, '20, who since his graduation from the Nebraska university law college in 1922, has been associated with Stewart, Perry & Stewart, at Lincoln, was admitted into the partnership January 1 of this year. The firm will henceforth be known as Stewart, Perry, Stewart & Van Pelt.

Ruth Burrus, manager of the Girls' Glee club, left Tuesday to book the remaining dates for the girls spring trip. She will go as far west as Loomis and Holdrege.

Much interest has been shown in the special class in violin now being organized under the direction of Mr. Rogers. Instruction will be given in class methods with two or three student assistants. This class will be limited to ten pupils.

A special class in singing under the direction of Prof. Kettering has been organized for the last semester. Seven young men [illegible]. This [illegible] students.

GREEDY MEN'

Not all immensely wealthy people of today are happy

Even at this time when the quest for riches is so keen, it has been very generally recognized that the mere possession of money is no guarantee of contentment

Men through their genius and application rise to positions of eminence in the community Success seems to crown every effort they make Great business establishments or industrial organizations stand as monuments to their creative capacities Their advice is eagerly sought. Their less successful' associates and friends defer to their opinions and eagerly seek their favor In a material way at least they have everything they might wish and still they are not happy

Bruce Barton who has been contributing regularly to magazines and other publications in recent years reviews an old lesson in the following fashion

Neither fame nor money can satisfy if you buy them at the cost of self respect But to be able to say truthfully I have done the best that could be done with the tools and the chance that I had—that is something enduring and real

Most of us who live wisely can look forward to having some little competence in old age The thing that we need to worry most about is not a financial but a mental fortune Will we have a philosophy with which to face old age and death? Will we be as comfortable inside as outside when the Autumn days arrive?

A philosophy cannot come to us from our parents it cannot be found in books it cannot be bought ready made from any other who has lived It must be worked out each man for himself as he thinks and grows and suffers and succeeds Some men never gain a philosophy and they are to be pitied For surely one of the greatest satisfactions—and surely the greatest of all—is to be at peace with your own soul to live so you have the calm self confidence of one who is master of his own spirit You have sailed your boat according to the rules of the race and into whatever harbor you may come there will be your home

Even as unreasoning desire and greed can be a powerful whip and a spur to a man it can as easily destroy him

How many men who have prospered and have grown rich have forgotten the path along which they climbed? How many retain the simplicity of taste and desire

There are men in every community who started life as poor boys but who have reached the top They were endowed with nothing but a capacity for work and for thrift an ability to apply themselves more assiduously and more intelligently than their fellow men They were the men of deep sympathies of warm rich impulses of an ambition to serve They were kindly men whose hearts warmed at the sight of their fellow beings It was instinctive with them to be courteous and considerate and generous and fair in their judgments They possessed these attributes because just around the corner they had a vivid memory of what life had meant to them in those earlier years of poverty and prodigious labors

And then what happened?

Those same qualities which made these men so lovable and in a large measure accounted for their success gave way to greed They became cold and harsh and unsympathetic You find them in every community—these men who failed to store up an imperishable philosophy of life while they were acquiring their riches Those things which formerly excited their interest and their sympathies no longer awaken a sentiment They are living entirely within themselves and for themselves

The overly-greedy man is to be pitied for there is no home port for him in this or any other life

AN IMPOSITION

A Lincoln musician recently directed attention to the action of a prominent Chicago business man in resigning from one of the prominent clubs of that city because he was tired of asking people to give away their stock in trade

The rebuke by the Chicago man is timely

A remarkable increase in civic activities in practically every American city has been responsible for a pernicious custom of asking musicians and entertainers to give their services free to the programs Most of them are public spirited and want to do their part They appear at one club and then are flooded with invitations to furnish programs for other similar organizations The more talented they are and the more popular they are the more demand there is for their services It is amazing how much time is requested of them and how much interference there is with their regular work

Even the business houses and the business men have not escaped the burden

It is an imposition which civic clubs should not tolerate No one should be expected to be continuously giving away their services

AN IMMENSE WATER PROJECT

Although New York City at present has two water sources the Catskill and the Croton capable under favorable circumstances of supplying it with 900 000 000 gallons daily the people of that metropolis see the time in the not distant future when this supply will be sadly inadequate and plans are now maturing for the greatest project of this character ever undertaken by mankind There has up to the present time been expended on the Catskill project over $200 000 000 but this is a small sum compared with the estimated total cost of the Delaware river enterprise

There is now before the legislatures of New York New Jersey and Pennsylvania a treaty providing for the use of the waters of this river which has its source in the Catskills in New York and borders and flows through parts of all three of the states The Delaware already supplies many cities and towns including Jersey City Newark Trenton Philadelphia and many smaller places but there is no system nor co operation both of which are provided for in the treaty

While New York's Croton watershed contains only 330 square miles and its Catskill watershed only 600 the watershed of the Delaware contains 10 000 square miles and it is estimated it will yield [illegible] 000 000 gallons every twenty four hours Of this under the treaty 1 500 000 000 gallons is apportioned to New York state an equal amount to New Jersey while Pennsylvania is to get twice as much The water of the Delaware is soft and is good to drink but it is to be made better

The Delaware project includes not only the supplying of water for the various municipalities but also the development of mighty power plants which it is estimated will produce 1 500 000 000 kilowatt hours equal to 250 000 horse power daily or nearly half the capacity of Muscle Shoals As water used for the driving of turbines is held back for only a short time and is not contaminated, the engineers do not consider that this will greatly lessen the supply for other purposes Steam emergency plants are to be installed to insure regularity of current The [illegible] next century is $500 000 000

The great engineers in charge of this tremendous project propose going about it in a scientific way and building from the ground up There are to be rigid laws against discharging into the stream at any point untreated sewage or other waste and reforestation tree planting is to be vigorously pushed Everyone is to be urged to plant trees which break the fall of heavy rains causing the water to sink into the ground and reappear in the form of springs rather than run off as flood Flood waters which now at seasons do much damage are to be impounded to be released later when needed

With this project progressing New York and other interested cities see an end to worry about water for at least a century Beyond that they do not care to make any predictions

THE OLD REGROUPING IN CENTRAL EUROPE

If there is a regrouping of interests in Central Europe responsibility for it must rest on the house of Stinnes

Recent news reports indicate that it was fallen heir to all of the vast interests heretofore controlled by Camillo Castiglione, billionaire overload of Austrian finance who fell victim to his own over expansion and the crooked dealing of subordinates Hugo Stinnes began his business partnership with Castiglione in 1921 three years after the armistice was signed Now the Stinnes group has taken advantage of Castiglione's fortunes and have forced him out of the great enterprises which he controlled As a result the Stinnes heirs, who are the most powerful and influential leaders in Germany have become supreme in the banking and industrial domains of Australia and Czecho Slovakia.

This is precisely the development which the allies in framing the Versailles treaty had hoped to prevent It was an old trick of modern Germany to extend her power by securing control of the industries and finance of associated countries That was the situation in the Central powers before the outbreak of the war and the vast German investments and extensions of credit in the Near East had the same purpose in mind

With the Stinnes' heirs in control of Austrian finance and industry German domination is again established in the affairs of that hapless country It would appear that the first steps in reshaping the old alignment had been taken In Czecho Slovakia a different situation is presented Its people are fiercely and bitterly hostile to German influence They may elude the trap that has been set for them

A PLEA FOR CAPITAL

India the land of lost gold now makes a plea through the Bengal chamber of commerce for all of the outside capital that can be poured into the country

The entrance of foreign capital is not objectionable says the chamber in its reply to a questionnaire sent out by the government and in the present stage of Indian industries is essential There was never a country it continues which needed external capital more than does India today The chamber would encourage the entry of all forms of capital for productive industrial purposes

European merchants say that it will be difficult for many years to obtain sufficient internal capital for maintaining the development of Indian industries and still more difficult to replace external capital already invested in those industries

This statement is made and this situation is brought to light in face of recently published estimates that India has more gold than any other nation of the world Every year millions of dollars worth of this precious metal as well as great quantities of silver and jewels are imported into the land of mystery Every year there is a clamor for more It fades from sight of the business world absolutely disappears into the little hordes and the big hordes kept by Indian peasants and princes

Such heavy consumption of gold coupled with the apparent need of ready capital is a potent illustration of the misapplication of wealth India one of the richest nations is also one of the poorest Though affluent in resources it cannot get ready money to carry on the necessary industries of its own land and must beg of foreign capitalists Instead of massing the wealth and freely circulating it so that men of ability can use it in forwarding the industrial schemes of the whole people each resident has preferred to sink his little accumulation into a private strong box and try to feel rich in a land of poverty

CLEAN UP THE STREETS

Melting snows and ice have forcefully directed attention to the fact that Lincoln streets are unusually dirty

The condition is one which does not reflect credit upon this city Along some of the principal thoroughfares there is a half inch of mud and water covering the intersections It is useless to attempt to keep these clean so long as the streets themselves are so dirty Walk along O street and you will see the accumulation of debris of the winter and late fall months in the gutters

The old system of using sweepers was abandoned in favor of flushing As long as the weather permits flushing there is no better way of cleaning the streets It is cheap and efficient But the unusually heavy snows coupled with the severe and protracted cold have made it impossible to keep the streets clean through this system If the city commission can find the money to employ men and teams it would be a splendid thing to clean up the more generally traveled streets

SCHOOLS IN LOGGING CAMPS

Quicker than the sunflower followed white pioneers across the great American desert the school teacher has dogged his tracks to the wildest haunts Once it was the Irish master of scant learning but indefatigable energy and vast faith in the worthiness of his own purpose who set up the prairie sod house or log cabin in the forest But now it seems that a puffing freight engine supplies the energy

Forests in the United States form the last profitable frontiers and consequently lumbermen are always clawing at their outskirts Lumbermen have children who will need booklearning more than woodcraft in days to come so means are supplied a teacher supplied books supplied and a school on wheels supplied to hold them

All aboard is the school time cry far off in western Oregon Often with the children studying inside the school car is hitched on to a little engine that goes puffing over the hills to the new location of the logging camp Once there the car is side tracked and the pupils settle down to work again little disturbed by the pleasurable interruption of a trip

In Lane county two of these schools are maintained one with twenty seven pupils and the other with twelve The cars have running water fresh from cool mountain springs and all of the conveniences of modern school rooms

On the same day that a minister reports but 20 per cent of University of Nebraska students are influenced by churches Mr Byars introduces a bill calling for compulsory Bible reading at the institution No more prompt action could be desired

Magnus Johnson claims that his competitor in the senatorial race extracted $75 000 from bootleggers to be used in his campaign Nebraska courts have done a far better job of extracting more than that and such an extreme measure as a political campaign wasn't used either

Tortures are endured by blue eyed girls in struggling to be movie queens say the publicity men Therefore be it proclaimed that Lotus Thompson who poured acid on her own legs is queen of them all

THE PROMPTER'S BOX

GOOD HUMOR TAKES THE PROMPTER'S BOX AND BIDS THE PLAY GO ON A CRITICISM FOR CRITICS.

Three middle aged ladies on high culture bent
To the art exhibition solemnly went
And considered the morning extremely well spent

One joined the way for the less cultured two
In an erudite manner explained what she knew
Told them all about Art and her point of view

"This portrait's not bad there is glint to her hair
And the top of the table you see is quite bare—
So unusual Yes—splendid brush-work is there

The Hunters I like except for the deer
Much too small for the foreground they should have been here
And the sky is too blue for this time of year

"Now that girl's a singer' At least Laura said
They judged from her throat and the set of her head
That she was Maybe so but her dress is too dead

Nine thousand dollars they want for this one—
The highest price here — but it's beautifully done
And attention in Paris the artist has won

What a sweet little face and such lively brown curls
Her cheeks are like roses her teeth are like pearls
I always like portraits of dear little girls

"Only look at this background' peculiar I think
For the old lady's figure she seems on the brink
Of some chasm—the clouds in that sky are like ink'

She chattered and chattered—I fled in dismay
As she was approaching A Storm in the Bay —
I hope to the Lord that it swept her away'

EARTHQUAKE.

Came a mutter and grumble
And tall walls began to tumble
The building stones were riven wide apart

Stones rattled and stones clattered,
Down went all that ever mattered,
All the walls went down that held you in my heart

—Toly Lin

IT IS at this point that we feel it necessary to voice our protest against the passage of the bill to prohibit locomotives from blowing whistles within city limits Why if the act passes half of the memories of youth will fade and nothing will ever come to awaken them Those of us who come from small towns where folks walk down to see it come in will certainly be agin it And what whistle ever kept a man with an easy conscience awake And if the long drawn wail of some locomotive miles away did awaken one at night why it's always so much nicer to sink back into the covers It has been some years since we wanted to be a railroad engineer and it is different to be sentimental about a locomotive whistle isn't it?

THIS MIDWINTER thaw well it will be appreciated a lot more if we could say spring instead of sprig but we can't not with this cold

WHO SAYS there is not good in everything and everybody? Now who'd have thought that Magnus Johnson could ever charge that the bootleggers defeated him?

COLD VERSE

The winter thaw a prophet is
Of glorious days to come!
Of April and of Maytime
And of hearts warmed by the sun

Ah! But the trouble is
Though ripples free the rill,
That winter is still with us
And we're taking calomel

SENATOR PERRY Reed just grinned one morning last week when we remarked that someone pulled one over on the house in the matter of adjournment before all who wanted to introduce bills had done so The senate still had two days left so that is probably why he grinned

THE NEW ATTABOY LANGUAGE

Sparks From The Twentieth Century Tongue

'A speaker has got to his audience with a punch fairly kick them out of the room

About fifteen years ago some body invented the word Attaboy At first it was used only by the urchins of the baseball bleachers Presently it was used by the college students After that it was taken up by businessmen lawyers judges and congressmen and it spread all over the world

It is said that when King George of England welcomed home General Allenby after his conquest of Palestine he put his hands on Allenby's shoulders and said with deep feeling Attaboy!!

The general profoundly touched was heard to murmur in return Some King what!

This story may or may not be true It is possible that King Georgge used merely some such dignified English phrase as Not half bad at all! But the story at any rate illustrates the tremendous change that has been creeping over our language

I am not here refering to the use of slang That of course is as old as language itself The man who uses a slang work and let us say calls a man's hat his "lid" or calls a woman a "skirt," is conscious of using a metaphor and of trying to be funny or peculiar But the man who uses attaboy language in speech or writing is really trying to say something he really thinks he is using English It is not merely the words that he uses but the way in which he uses them

Let me give an example That is much quicker business than trying to explain the whole thing in a methodical fashion

ATTABOY LETTER OF INVITATION

Here for example—to illustrate the old style writing and speaking—is a letter which I received almost thirty years ago inviting me to attend a gathering of my college class In point of dignity and good form the letter speaks for itself

Toronto Feb 1st 1895

Dear Sir

I beg to inform you that a reunion of the graduating class of 1891 will be held on the 5th of February in the form of a dinner at the Queen's hotel The guest of honor on the occasion will be Professor Baxter who has kindly consented to deliver an address to the class It is confidently expected that all the members of the class will take this opportunity to renew old friendships The price of the dinner including wines will be seventy five cents May I ask you to send a reply at your earliest convenience

With sincere personal regards
I have the honor to be and to remain being
Yours very faithfully
John Smith

Now it happened that just the other day I received a letter from the same old class mate inviting me to attend a similar gathering of the class—thirty years later But here is how he has expressed the invitation—

Mr He Man from College!

This is You!

Say! what do you think? The real old He-Boys of 1891 are going to gather in for a feed at the Queen's on February 5 Songs Speeches Fireworks! And who do you think is going to be the main Big Talk! You'd never guess why old Prof Baxter—old nutsey Baxter! Come and hear him Come and hear him Come along right now The whole feed—songs fun and smokes included is only six bucks So get down in your pants and fork them out

Yours Attaboy!! Hooroo!
Rev John Smith
(Canon of the Cathedral)

Let it be noted that the great point of the Attaboy system is the terrific desire for emphasis A man is not called a man He is called a He man Even that is not enough He has to be 100 per cent he man And in extreme cases he must be called a 100 per cent full blooded bull chested big-headed great-hearted man —all of this to replace the simple old fashioned word gentleman

Indeed one could write quite a little dictionary of Attaboy terms like this—

LADY—a big hearted wide eyed warm chested woman a hundred per cent soul and built square

FRIEND—a he man with a hand-grip and a jaw that means that as soon as you see him in front of you you know that he is back of you

SENATOR—far sighted frog-eyed nation waking he man

CRIMINAL—no such word Try hold up man — yegg — thug — expert safe cracker etc etc etc

In the same way when the Attaboy language turns from the nouns to the verbs there has to be the same vital emphasis The fatal step was taken when someone invented the word punch Since then every form of action has to be described as if it occurred with a direct physical shock A speaker has got to hit his audience with a punch, he must lift them throw them, in short fairly kick them out of the room

A book is said to be arresting, gripping, compelling It has got to be vital, dynamic, he must put his sermon over he must pitch it at the audience in short preaching becomes a form of baseball with the clergyman in the box

In other words the whole of our life and thought has got to be restated in terms of moving things in terms of electricity radio and all the crackling physical apparatus of the world in which we live

MACAULAY AND GIBBON IN ATTABOY

It is quite clear that if this Attaboy tendency goes on all the books of the past will have to be rewritten or nobody will understand them Somebody will have to re-edit them so as to put into them the necessary pep and punch to make them readable by the next generation

We can imagine how completely unintelligible will be the stately pages of such dignified writers as Macaulay or Gibbon Here for example is a specimen of the way in which Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of The Roman Empire will be revised I take as an illustration a well known passage describing the action of a heroic matron of Rome in rallying the wavering citizens after a retreat It runs

A Roman matron of imposing appearance and striking countenance stepped forth before the hesitating citizens—

Translation

A pre war blonde who was evidently a real peach skipped out in front of the bunch—

At the sight of her the citizens paused—

Translation

As soon as they put their lamps on her all the guys stood still—

Reluctant cries of admiration arose from the crowd—

Some doll' said the boys

Cowards' she exclaimed '

You big stiffs she snorted

And would you leave the defense of your homes at such a time as this'

Do you mean to say that you are going to fly the coop?

To your posts all of you she cried

Beat it she honked

Inspired by her courage the citizens with shouts of Long Live Sempronia' rushed to the ramparts

Full of pep they all shouted Attaboy Lizzie' and skipped up the ladders

High Jobs, But Low Pay
(Washington Post)

Three states—New Hampshire Vermont and South Dakota— pay their governors $3 000 It is not high pay for a man holding the highest office in his state says the Manchester Union Any man in high office is subjected to a most serious drain upon his finances by the importunities to contribute to every sort of drive worthy cause and unworthy cause

The late Col James O Lyford used to tell how the first year he was naval officer of the port of Boston before he realized what he was doing he had in subscriptions contributing to every cause whose solicitors appealed to him used half of his salary A public man is asked to contribute not merely for the sake of the money he donates but for the influence of his name

Three states pay their governors $4 000 big Texas and little Delaware and Wyoming big in area and small in population Al Smith governor of the biggest and richest state gets $10 000 while the next largest and richest state Pennsylvania pays $18 000 and the third in both these particulars Illinois pays $12 000 Even the higher paid governors experience such demands upon their pocketbooks for the incessant contributions already mentioned and for the entertaining they have to do and the assessments for party purposes that it is by no means a profitable job

Now and then some one speaks of a politician seeking office for the money there is in it This is seldom true of an elective office A frugal man who can manage to stay in congress say after he has paid the expenses of his first campaign regards his as a good and well paying job If he learns how to withstand the assaults of solicitors he can lay aside money But it is some hing of a man's job to keep the solicitors at bay and in these days of incessant drives perpetual demands for doles it is a difficult thing for an office holder to get much more than his board and clothes and except the board and clothes are reasonably good he might also as well be a bound boy

The Tax Burden
(Seward Independent Democrat)

Nebraska's total tax burden for 1924 for state county city school and all other purposes is shown to be $53 447 280 This is an increase over the 1923 total of $163-256 in spite of the fact that state taxes alone were $667 947 less in 1924 than the year before While the state spent less money than the year before the counties cities and school districts are spending more The year 1921 was the peak year for taxes in Nebraska the total for all purposes for that year reaching $59 36 699 State taxes alone for that year amounted to $10 980 607 which was just about double what they were in 1924 the exact figures being $5 736 516—while the total for all other purposes in 1921 was $48 385 092 as compared to a total of $47 670 870 in 1924 Thus while state taxes in 1924 were only about half what they were in 1921 all other taxes were only $714 222 less in 1924 than they were in 1921

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM

How the Railroad Corporations Should Be Assessed and Taxed

Palisade Neb Feb

To the Editor of The Lincoln Star Will you please publish me the following letter addressed to the members of the legislature

The constitution of the state says That a railroad is a public highway And a public highway cannot be assessed and taxed as private property to any person company or corporation and our laws assessing and taxing railroad corporations that are running the railroads for the state as agents are a farce and a joke The law should be changed so as to tax them on the money invested instead of taxing them on land as the right of way that they cannot and do not own It is the duty of every state to [illegible] open up public highways for trade and travel and under the law of eminent domain the state can take the land and property of citizens in order to open up public thorough fares

But the state must hold the land and property that it takes from the citizens, as trustee for the use and benefit of the public

And the state cannot transfer that property benefits or the rights of the public to any person company or corporation

Therefore the proprietorship and ownership must remain in the state for the use of the public

A railroad company is a state corporation and the state can grant a charter or a franchise to a corporation to build and operate a state railway With the understanding that the corporation [illegible] furnish the money to open up build and operate a public highway called railroads

And they are allowed to collect from the people that use the roads enough to pay all expenses and a reasonable return interest or dividends on the money necessary to build equip and operate the road

The state allows the railroad corporations to handle the money and requires them to make reports in regard to the amount collected from the people and the amount of their expenses taxes and dividends

And the law should be changed so as to tax the railroad corporations on the amount of money invested in railroads That would be right and just and stop this tomfoolery of the railroad corporations claiming each year that their land or right of way that they do not own [illegible] and go into court and have their assessment reduced which costs the state thousands of dollars to defend when the facts are they are not paying one half the tax that they should pay according to the amount the farmers pay on their investment and income

The railroad companies claim that the railroads are their own private property and that they can run them as they see fit and charge the people all the traffic will bear that they may become rich at the expense of the people If the legislature will investigate the laws and the decisions of the courts they will find that is not true that the ownership and control of railroads as public highways is always in the state The legislature should take the matter up and pass laws that would be just to all concerned

What You Weigh Depends on Where You Are

BY GARRETT P SERVISS, Noted Estronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

A reader asks where he can buy a book on Newton's laws of gravity and gravitation

There is a small book by A Stanley Mackenzie on The Laws of Gravitation which will probably serve his purpose Any book store should be able to get it for him

But I wonder whether this reader clearly understands the distinction between 'gravity and gravitation Most persons treat the words as synonyms and use one or the other as it happens to come to their lips The two terms are sometimes employed as if gravitation means abstractly the force or the law of force that acts like an attraction between all bodies—as for instance between the earth and a stone suspended above it or between the sun (or the moon) and the earth while gravity means the specific effect or result of the force of gravitation for example the fall of a stone or the weight of a body help up above or pressing upon the earth

The most useful distinction seems to be that which Professor Young stated as follows

Gravity is not simply gravitation—the attraction of the earth for a body upon its surface—but it is the resultant of this attraction combined with the centrifugal force at the point of observation '

Because the centrifugal force of the earth's rotation opposes the earth's gravitation the effect of the latter is diminished but not equally so everywhere on the earth At the equator the centrifugal force is greatest from the equator toward the poles it gradually diminishes until at the actual poles it vanishes leaving gravitation to act without opposition

If the earth's speed of rotation were increased about seventeen times that is to say if it turned on its axis once in about an hour and two-thirds instead of once in twenty four hours the centrifugal force at the equator would balance gravitation and gravity at that point would become nil But at the poles there would be no change because no matter how fast the earth rotated there would be no centrifugal force at the ends of the axis

The actual effect of the earth's gravitation upon objects resting upon it varies for another reason viz the departure of its surface from the figure of a perfect sphere On the equator the distance from the surface to the centre is greatest at the poles it is least between the two it gradually diminishes from the equator toward the poles

This change of distance from the centre of gravity implies a corresponding change of the weight of bodies the attractive force varying inversely with the square of the distance All of these things have to be carefully taken into account in estimating what the force of gravity will be at any particular place on the earth

But the maximum effect amounts when both centrifugal force and the oblate form of the earth are considered to only about 1 190th i e effective gravity or weight is 1 190th greater at the poles than at the equator

In comparing the force of gravity at different points on the earth a pendulum of unvariable length is employed to measure the force by the increase or decrease of the time of vibration This shows itself in the running of a pendulum driven clock if the change of place toward or from the equator is great Thus an early earth measurer Richer in the days of Louis XIV found that his clock which kept good time at Paris lost nearly two and a half minutes a day at Cayenne in South America which is five degrees from the equator while Paris is 41 degrees farther north This was due to the decrease of gravity which as before said is least at the equator and the greatest at the poles

Taxing Bonds
(Nebraska City Press)

A member of the Nebraska legislature has introduced a measure which if enacted will end the issuance of tax free municipal bonds and other securities in this state and perhaps make it less pleasant and easy for municipalities to run into debt.

Billions of dollars of tax free securities are handled every year by the bond salesmen whose best argument is that the income is not subject to any financial handicap As a result money has been withdrawn from worthy commercial enterprises and hidden in these securities which do not pay their way

The tax free security evil is obvious and there is no valid argument against the enactment of a law which will make it impossible for such bonds to escape their just share of the burden which is theoretically applied to all citizens of the state It may make it less easy for the towns and villages of this state to run in debt but that will be a blessing in so many instances which might be recounted that it isn't worth discussing

Want No Commission
(Sherman County Times)

If the McMullen administration is going to favor a commission to build our roads it will demonstrate a weak spot and will go to show that he wants to shelve responsibility The question of road building should be up to the department of public works and not a commission which has no responsibility and is not responsible to the people The people of Nebraska have had their fill of commissions and we want no more of them

"Steam Wagon" Road Near Nebraska City Monument To Early Freighting Venture

Upper left: Old pontoon bridge at Nebraska City many years ago. The Iowa shore is seen in the distance, and it was from this shore that freight and passengers were ferried across to the pontoon bridge and then on to the Nebraska shore.

Upper right: An old time "freighter," which ran from Steamboat landing to Fort Kearney and from there to Denver. The old freighters were drawn by five and six yoke of oxen, and it was to save much time and energy that the Steam Wagon was purchased by the residents of Otoe county.

Lower right: The steam wagon which would have done much to aid in freighting from Nebraska across the plains to Denver, if it hadn't broken down.

Nearly a hundred years have passed since the first wagon tracks were made on the Oregon trail, and it has been almost that long since the first freighter made its way from the old steamboat landing close to Nebraska City, across the plains of Nebraska into Denver and on to Salt Lake City.

In 1830 the first white man drove his wagon and oxen over what later became the Oregon trail. For the first ten years or so there wasn't a great deal of traffic. In 1844 there were only four or five thousand people moving across the continent, but in 1865, there were forty thousand wagons 100,000 head of cattle and that many sheep treking across the plains to points west.

St. Louis, at that time was the center of all western transportation and Nebraska City, 714 miles away, was considered the most favorable point on the Missouri river for the transportation of freight to far western points. It was also the headquarters for the government supplies destined to military points from the Missouri river to Salt Lake City.

The freighting, of course, was all done by oxen and wagon. Wagons were constructed especially for the plains transportation business; made of the best timber, wide tracked, strong and tight, high double box, heavy tired, and the top covered with heavy canvas.

Seven thousand pounds was the load drawn by five yoke of good cattle, and six yoke were used if the cattle were light.

Big Traffic at Fort Kearney.

A full freight train in the old days consisted of about twenty six wagons, twenty-five freight and one mess wagon, in charge of a wagon master and an assistant who usually rode mules.

Seventy-five per cent of the freighting west from the Missouri river went through Fort Kearney, and 75 per cent of the freight from the British possessions north, down to the gulf, also went through Fort Kearney. This made Fort Kearney one of the most important freight stations along this line.

Freight rates were high in those days. Freight on flour, corn and grain between Nebraska City and Denver was 9 cents a pound. Freight rate on tobacco from the Missouri river to Denver was 12½ cents a pound, and rate on dry goods was 15 cents a pound, and on good Kentucky whisky, 18 cents.

The freight rates to Denver now are 36½ cents per 100 pounds, for grain; $1.24 for drygoods, and 47 cents for drinks.

In the old days, it took six days to go from Nebraska City to Denver, and the cost per passenger was about $150 round trip.

The first road from Nebraska City to Fort Kearney was rather a long one and not so good as it might have been, but the old freighters carried on just the same, even though the way was long and tiresome.

Then came what was to have been the termination of the oxen teams. A steam wagon had been invented by J. R. Brown of Ulm, Minn. The idea was to fasten freight wagons one after another behind this steam wagon, thus making freighting much easier for both man and beast.

It was the seventh day of July, 1862, when the county board of Otoe county gave out the following order:

Built Road for Steam Car.

"It is hereby ordered by the commissioners of Otoe county, territory of Nebraska, that a sufficient tax will be levied upon the property of Otoe county to build and grade a road from Nebraska City in said county and territory to western boundary of said county with a grade not to exceed 300 feet to the mile, with bridges of sufficient strength to support and hold steam wagons of twenty tons each, provided that a majority of the voters in Otoe county shall cast their votes in favor of said levy and expenditure at the coming October election, and provided that J. R. Brown shall give to the county commissioners of Otoe county sufficient guarantee and assurance that he will bring sufficient steam wagons and machinery to run a daily line from said Nebraska City to Denver City, in Colorado territory."

Evidently the people of Otoe county agreed to the tax levy, for on July 14, 1862, the steam wagon arrived, driven by David L. Osborne. The driving wheels of the wagon were 10 feet high and 2 feet wide, and the forward wheels 6 feet high and 18 inches wide. A 72-inch upright boiler, 36 inches long, connected with a water tank 10 feet long and 30 inches in diameter, secured to the boiler. The forward end of the tank was so arranged as to connect it with the forward axle, which was also adjusted with a universal ball joint to allow the wheels all action. The tank held 2,000 gallons of water.

It was a great day for Nebraska City when the steam wagon was to make its trial trip. Previous to the year of 1861, all western freight followed the old California trail running northwest from Nebraska City to the Platte, then following up that stream running north, making a big bend around what are now the counties of Saunders, Butler and Polk.

Some of the business men thought that a more direct route could be found running west from Nebraska City, and so William E. Hill was chosen as the one who should go over the country between Nebraska City and Ft. Kearney. Mr. Hill was sent out with [illegible] and upon his return told the citizens of Nebraska City that a good route had been found.

Over this new route the steam wagon made its first trip in 1862, and ever since that time the road has been called the Steam Wagon road. It went about six miles out of Nebraska City and broke down, and there it stayed for many years, until the boiler was taken from it and used in the old gas plant of Nebraska City. The [illegible] junk iron.

It is the regret of the Nebraska State Historical society that the old steam wagon was not kept for future display, but perhaps people of Nebraska City did not realize at that time just how interesting the old relic would be to future generations.

Parts could not be bought for the wagon, outside of New York, and Mr. Brown, the inventor, intended to go back to New York after them, but an Indian massacre occurred in the vicinity of his home, his wife and children were reported killed and his home burned, so he went home. His wife and children had been warned by an Indian woman of the coming massacre and managed to escape [illegible] So that ended the steam wagon in Nebraska.

In a letter written to Paul Morton, son of J. Sterling Morton, by David Osborne, driver of the steam wagon from New York to Nebraska City, the arrival of the wagon in Nebraska City is described.

"The Nebraska City 'News' gave us a big send-off," said Mr. Osborne in his letter. "There was an extra edition in which the future prosperity of the city was assured. The steam wagon had arrived, brought to Nebraska through the influence of J. Sterling Morton, who personally knew Gen. J. R. Brown, and had corresponded with him, giving the geographical advantage of Nebraska City over other river towns.

"So on Monday, July 14, 1862, everybody was present to witness the wonder. With surprise and astonishment, they—men and women—saw us move off toward the city, and after much time, difficulty, miry and soft ground, and other hindrances, obstructions and impediments, the steam wagon turned off Main street at the old blockhouse to the rear of D. J. McCann's banking house. Here we repainted and put on the finishing adornments, with a new cab and platform getting ready for the trip to Denver. Your father proposed an excursion, a pleasure trip through the main streets of the city, hauling wagons coupled to the steam wagon. There were about twelve wagons attached which were full and crowded to running over with everybody. And as the accommodations were not ample for the crowd, more followed in the van."

Mr. Osborne tells in his account of the banquet and informal hop that was given at the Seymour house all in honor of the steam wagon.

Lincoln Woman May Have Made Record On Radio

Mrs. L. D. Wood, 1515 North Thirty-first street, listened to programs from fifty-two radio stations on the evening of February 2, according to Ivan D. Wood of the College of Agriculture.

The set used is an ordinary neutrodyne with homemade neutroformers, two stages of radio frequency being used. The stations received were scattered all over the United States and Canada, five being on the west coast and three on the east.

This is believed to be a record for a woman operator.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Charging Your Storage Battery From Your Lighting Plant.

Neutrodyne receiver, such as the FADA NEUTROCEIVER, using five UV-201A or C-301A vacuum tubes will draw about 1 1-4 amperes of current from a storage battery, and if this battery is of, say "80 ampere hours" capacity, you can expect about 60 hours of service.

The battery charger employed in charging such a battery may be supplied by either alternating current or direct current and should be of the 2 or 5 ampere type. A 2 ampere charger will recharge the above "80 ampere hour" battery in about 40 hours, and if a 5 ampere charger be used, the same work will be done in approximately 15 hours. From this we can see that if a 2 ampere charger is used, one must charge his storage battery nearly as often as it is used. In other words, it is preferable to charge the storage battery during the idle periods rather than wait until the battery becomes entirely discharged inasmuch as it will take too long to recharge the battery to its originally fully charged condition.

The best plan is to charge your storage battery at night directly after you are through receiving broadcast programs and to shut off the charger the next morning. Carrying out such a plan and making frequent hydrometer readings to be sure that "the specific gravity" is approximately at 1250, will keep your storage battery in good condition and assure successful reception of both local and distant broadcasting stations.

The drawings show the connections of both alternating current and direct current battery charging systems using the 110 volt alternating current or direct current lighting circuit and using two porcelain base knife switches, one to open or close the 110 volt circuit, and the other to shift the storage battery from the "charging" connection to the "set" connection. This plan is very simple to connect up, and by its use one need never be disappointed in hearing a desired broadcast program because of a "run-down" "A" battery.

[illegible] a condenser, inserted in series with the antenna lead-in or ground wire of the receiving set to eliminate interference. By tuning the wave trap to the wave length of an interfering station, the undesired signals can generally be eliminated. The wave trap offers high impedance to the wave of the undesired station and at the same time offers normal impedance to the station the operator wishes to hear. A good wave trap for use on the wave lengths used for broadcasting can be made by using a honeycomb coil No. 75 and a 23 plate variable condenser with vernier control. If interference is caused by a station using higher wave length than employed by broadcasting stations, a larger honeycomb coil should be substituted.

Weak Signals.

If the signals which are customarily loud from a station are suddenly found to be quite weak, the difficulty may be caused by one or more of the following:

The plate battery may be exhausted.

The phone jack may not be making good contact.

The filament battery may have become discharged.

The transmitting station may have reduced its power.

The antenna may have become disconnected, or the ground connections may have become ineffective due to existence of insulating paint or gaskets used in making pipe connections.

The crystal detector of the receiving set may be out of adjustment or may have become dirty. In the latter case the metal point which touches the crystal may be filed and the surface of the crystal washed with soap and water.

[illegible] condenser type having a capacity of .0005 microfarads should be installed.

All the Pleasures of Radio

You may know that when you install the Super-Zenith model, here shown, you will enjoy all the pleasure that radio can give. For it is positively the highest development of the radio builder's skill. Combining, as it does, distinctive beauty with marvelous performance, it is the ideal radio set for the fine home. It is years ahead of other designs.

Remarkable Beauty and Performance

Installed in a beautifully finished cabinet of solid mahogany—44¾ inches long, 16¾ inches wide, 10½ inches high. End compartments for dry batteries. Only two dials to operate. Six tubes—2 stages of tuned frequency amplification, detector, and 3 stages audio frequency amplification.

It enables you to draw from the atmosphere programs broadcasted by practically any station. Powerful local stations don't stop you from getting far distant cities. You skip from coast to coast — from Canada to Cuba—and select the very best that may be on the air.

The Theatres

The Sensational Dramatic Success "Rain" Coming to the Orpheum.

The announced appearance of "Rain" at the Orpheum for three days commencing Monday, Feb. 16 with matinee Wednesday, has aroused unusual interest among local theater?goers

A play that continues to fill a Broadway theater after two years of uninterrupted success, and apparently could continue indefinitely, must have a popular appeal 'Rain' has been seen by more than three million people, and the record has never ben approached by any other strictly dramatic offering. The specially organized company that Sam H. Harris is sending on tour is an exact duplicate of the New York production, and indications are that the local engagement will prove a record-breaker. It is certain to prove one of the artistic treats of the year.

Taken from Mr. Somerset Maugham's story, "Miss Thompson," it has been given marvelous dramatization by John Cotton and Clarence Randolph. It has been greeted by the New York critics with a shower of superlatives. The fact that a dominant character in it, a South Sea missionary, is tempted and betrayed by a siren incarnate, whose soul he is zealous to save, does not lessen the dramatic appeal. It is a story of a kind that would hardly have been written a generation ago, when it would have been less safe to count on an understanding of the characters thus pitilessly expressed. It may offend the orthodox, but the fact remains that it is an outstanding box office success that has seldom been equalled.

The Screen's Greatest Drama 'Abraham Lincoln' at the Rialto This Week.

Without fear of contradiction Manager Garman claims that the magnificent production "Abraham Lincoln," the feature attraction at the Rialto this week, is the greatest drama presented on the screen this season. It's beauty will charm you, its realism will startle you, it is real entertainment for young and old. Few pictures are truly great, but this one stands out as a star in the firmament. Here are drama, humor, thrills, and adventure all blended in the best show you've ever seen. A picturesque prologue presented by a quintet of vocalists and a brilliant interpretative musical program by the Rialto Symphony Players, Jean L. Schaefer, conductor, and Herbert C. MacAman, organist

If you saw Glenn Hunter in "Merton of the Movies" at the Orpheum, one of the most enjoyable shows that has appeared at that theater this season, you will surely want to see Glenn Hunter and Viola Dana in the screen production of "Merton of the Movies" at the Lyric this week. "Merton of the Movies" is a clean, clever, wholesome comedy that every family in town will enjoy. The love interest will appeal to you, it is real screen entertainment. "Never Again," a new Christie comedy, news and topical subjects and on the stage of "Palace of Jazz" with Harriet Cruse and girls. A fine musical program will be rendered by the Lyric Concert orchestra with U. G. McVay, director, and May M. Mills, organist.

Buster Keaton in "The Navigator" ..at the Colonial.

If you want to enjoy a trip on an ocean of laughs and be splashed by tidal waves of joy, if you want twenty thousand leagues of fun, "The Navigator" with the best of all screen comedians, Buster Keaton. Also, Ben Turpin in his newest comedy "Yukon Jake" and Jack Dempsey in another thrilling story "Town Hall Tonight." Kinograms of interest and special musical program by J. C. N. Richards and D. F. Easterday, organists.

"Greenwich Village Follies" with Gallagher & Shean Coming to the Orpheum.

Mail orders are now in order for the engagement of Mister Gallagher and Mister Shean, those "unique" and "extraordinary" comedians now en route on their world tour in America's most popular musical revue, the Greenwich Village Follies, which comes to the Orpheum theater Thursday night, Feb. 19.

The regular seat sale will begin Monday.

In the Greenwich Village Follies, Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean have arrived at the pinnacle of stardom and added to this a starring tour which takes these "unique and extraordinary" comedians "around the world"; in other words, a world tour has been booked which will require two years to complete. This as a reward for the sensation they created in last season's Greenwich Village Follies.

The supporting cast for Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean could hardly be better chosen and comprises a long list of musical comedy and revue luminaries well known to local theater-goers by reputation, while the chorus boasts of thirty famous artists' models said to be most pleasing to the eye.

PAVLOWA'S PROGRAM, SECOND ACT, "SNOW FLAKES."

TschaiKowsky wrote three ballets —one of five acts, another of three, and the celebrated two-act ballet, 'Nut Cracker." In the third and briefest work we have his masterpiece the best composition, wherein he seems to have concentrated the best effort of his genius. Of this ballet there is nothing more lovely than the interpolation which tells the story of the birth of the Christmas tree

In the creation by the Pavlowa Ballet Russe, under the title of "Snowflakes," the fairy's wintry realm has been given an ethereal and beautiful stage setting by Joseph Urban, the adept, with boughs bending beneath their burden of snow. It is "the land of Christmas trees." This particular ballet has been given the title of "Snowflakes" most appropriately, for throughout, the music and the performance are as light and airy, and as delicately synchronized as the flakes themselves.

The story concerns Nut Cracker, the doll, a Christmas gift, who ultimately proves to be an enchanted prince, and who is released from his enchantment by his little mistress, in the progress of the ballet, and after the release of Nut Cracker, Tschaikowsky gives the pretty legend of the Christmas tree, and the auditon is transported to a land of snow and wintry splendor.

"Snowflakes" is more than the Christmas legend interpreted in the dance. It breathes the Christmas spirit of jollity, purity and beauty in its music and every movement

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—Please tell me the height of the man who played the role of Pervus De Jong in "So Big?" What color hair and eyes does he have. Is he married and if so to whom? How old is he?

What was the name of Viola Dan's husband that died? Was it Bernard Durning?

What will be Colleen Moore's next release after "So Big.' What is Leatrice Joy's next picture? Is she married and if so to whom?

What is Alma Ruben's latest picture? Is she married and if so to whom?

Who played opposite Bebe Daniels in "Miss Bluebird?" Has Mitzi, the popular musical comedy star, ever made any pictures?

Is it true that Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor are going to be married, or is it just a publicity stunt like the Negri-Chaplin engagement?

Well, many thanks for this time. I'll write more later. I beg you to sign me—ROMOLA.

John Bowers, who played the role of Pervus De Jong, in "So Big," is a six footer. He has dark hair and eyes, but he had to have his hair dyed light for his role in "So Big." He has been married once but is single at the present time John was born in 1888.

Viola Dana's husband was John Collins. Bernard Durning was Shirley Mason's husband.

Raymond Griffith is Bebe's leading man in "Miss Bluebeard." Mitzi has not entered the motion picture field yet, but she is said to be "flirting with the idea."

Jack and Estelle have both admitted that they are engaged It looks bonafide, but you never can tell. Only Jack and Estelle know whether they are serious or not in their intentions.

On With the Fun, For Some Of the Season's Best Shows Arrive In Town This Spring

Away dull care and find another home, for Lincoln's going to live in the world of make believe for the next few months. The real is to give place to the fantastical—and the reel—and ordinary burdens will seem mere bagatelles beside the troubles of the persecuted heroines of Orpheum and cinema. The footlights of the Orpheum will seldom be dark, and they will compete with the springtime moons and prove more potent than the liquid spring nights.

Lincoln is to have the whipped cream portion of the road shows and names that have been but intriguing thoughts to us of the provinces are going to develop voices and bodies and perform a little, if we save our nickles and wear out last year's suits. Stars whose names have glittered on Broadway for more years than Ziegfeld has chosen pretty girls are to stop in our midst for a night or two.

Soft summer rain is poetical, but an island tropical rain of five days ruined a missionary, saved and lost a lady of doubtful past, and caused a play. "Rain," which ran two years in New York, is one of the truest plays of modern dramatists, with an unforced ending, and it comes February 16, 17 and 18 at the Orpheum.

"Oh, Mr. Gallagher, Oh, Mr Gallagher that is this game they play out on the links.....Oh, Mr. Shean, Oh, Mr. Shean, you don't even know a mashie from a dream" —uh, hum, they are coming in person. It's a show, not a moving picture. As soon as "Rain" is over, the Greenwich Village Follies, with the highest salaried comedians in the world, will move in—February 19. The click of the feet of the fairest coryphee of the Follies and the swirl and whirl of drapers will form a subtle contrast to the pungent wit of the two "Misters."

The dainty, dashing, fascinating Mitzi, who has lost her other name somewhere along the road to fame, sweeps through "The Magic Ring," which leaps lightly from the mystery of an Arabian night thirty centuries ago to the blatancy of an American night today. But yesterday or today, Mitzi is always Mitzi the enchanting and February 2 she is, not a boy, but a rollicking little girl waif of the street.

Many actresses have longed to be Paula Tanqueray of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" but few have dared it, for the unhappy Pinero heroine has one of the most difficult roles on the English speaking stage. However, Ethel Barrymore has essayed it, and accomplished, as she has so often and Lincoln will see her as Paula ere the summer comes.

West Africa is the scene of "White Cargo," another of the coming season's attractions and the old, old love of a white man for a native furnishes the theme. Through it all runs the white man's vindication, the new and nearly unbearable environment under which he is forced to live. "White Cargo," ran for two years in New York City

Walker Whiteside through the years has become synonomous with the bizarre and the startling in characterization. In "Mr. Wu," he portrayed the crafty, scheming Chinese, who risked his all for revenge and this year she has turned to another Oriental type, the Japanese. In his love play, "Sakura," he assumes the role of Prince Sunetomo Hagane, he powerful statesman around whom the play, revolves It is the eternal triangle, made more throbbing and poignant by the mystery and imagery of the east.

"No, No, Nanette," with sparkling lines, pretty girls, and music that you can't forget comes here after a protracted run in Chicago. Another comedy of the season is "The Nerous Wreck," and Henry Miller comes later in the year with an all star cast.

The critics gave "Able's Irish Rose," a week and the first nighters said "thumbs down" but they can't down Able and his Irish rose and the critics are wondering what got into their typewriters that Monday night almost three years ago It is running riotously in New York yet and it is also runing all aobut the country, with Lincoln on its schedule some time between now and the fall of the final curtain for the year. It is purest comedy, with its delicate vein of sadness all but submerged in its riotous lines

Mrs. Fiske Mincie Maddern, does not deign to travel into our west often, but when she does she brings "The Rivals" and ar all star cast behind her She will undoubtedly excel as Mrs. Malaprio for somehow she seems to fit into the role as neatly as does dawn on daylight. Famed actresses have carried Mrs Malaprop to glory, but it seems possible that Mrs. Fiske will equal another Mrs. Malaprop, Mrs. John Drew.

Artists and Models, with fair ladies and brave men, comes trailing along to us this springtime Perhaps the young Venuses do not have much of a plot in their offering, but they have pulchritude—and who asks more? They are in New York now, with a run of several months behind them, which speaks well for the success of their attempt.

And the "movies"—the screen will vie with the legitimate in its coming offerings. With a trio of cinema houses for showing, gorgeous productions are to be brought here, including the newest and the best products of directors, cameramen, and scintillating stars. New successes blossom on the screen and old ones are rejuvenated

"Madame Sans Gene," which procured for Gloria Swanson a marquis and a trip to Europe, will be one of the most pretentious of the "movie"? shows. "Madame Devil-May-Care" opens at the wash tub and ends by becoming a duchess, helped by Napoleon. Norma Talmadge allows the hoar of years to grasp her again in "The Lady," which takes her from young girlhood through to old age. This picture gets away from the proverbial happy ending but it allows Norma to do a bit of fine acting.

Everybody's trying to find Sally these days, but Colleen Moore seems to have captured her, for she is to appear in the Marilyn Miller success on the screen. Not much of a plot, but Colleen is the old Colleen in it and not the wistful woman of "Sobig." Ethel Barrymore drew criticism, but she grew praise, too, for her "Declasse" and one of the most beautiful actresses of the screen has cast her fame into the same drama as did Ethel Barrymore. Corinne Griffith is to be seen as Lady Helen Haden, who has many vicissitudes, a brutal husband, compromising letters, a gambler's love, attempted self-destruction, and finally, out of the chaos, peace.

One of the most pretentious releases of the season will be "The Lost World," featuring Bessie Love and Lewis Stone The film version of the Sir Arthur Conan Doyle novel was begun more than seven years ago, but is to be shown for the first time this year. The basic theme of the story is of an expedition into the upper Amazon, where prehistoric animals are found alive. Some of them later break loose in London and a riot ensues.

Lillian Gish is to be seen in "Romola," which was recently filmed in Rome and Mazimova is to appear in "My Son" Thomas Meighan ever the favorite, will play "Old Home Week" and Betty Compston in "The Dressmaker from Paris" appears with trunksful and trunksful of chic and dashing frocks.

The D W Griffith super-production of the year, "Isn't Life Wonderful?" will be offered in the near future and the charming young femme star of the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," Alice Terry comes in "Sackcloth and Scarlet" Pola Negri teaches men a little about women in "The Charmer" and Norma Talmadge will be seen a second time in "Madame Pompadour."

Screen Siftings

Valentino Hires Director—Henry King, feature director, who was responsible for "The White Sister," "Tolable David" and "Romola" has been signed to direct pictures for Ritz-Carlton Pictures. He will direct two of Valentino's forthcoming productions which will be made on an elaborate scale.

"Chickie" Next on List—Gladys Brockwell, who so aptly portrayed the Dutch Farmer wife in "So Sing," has gone to New York where she will play an important character role in "Chickie" which First National is filming at their Long Island studio. Miss Brockwell used to be a star in Fox pictures

Shire Acquires Lincoln Theaters

ELI SHIRE, President.

CHARLES SHIRE, Manager.

LOCAL THEATERS NOW CONTROLLED BY LINCOLN MEN

Corporation Headed By Eli Shire Will Have Charge of Rialto and Lincoln.

City Will See Best of First Run Movies In Country, Claims Management.

When the new Lincoln theater is thrown open to the public on May 1 it will be under the absolute control and management of Lincoln men The corporation which owns the lease on the Lincoln is the Lincoln Theater corporation, of which Eli Shire is half owner and president. This company has also leased the Rialto from Mr. Shire, who has just closed a deal whereby he come sole owner of the theaters in this city formerly operated by the Hostettler Brothers. These are the Orpheum, Liberty, Lyric, and Colonial, in addition to the Rialto.

Herested with Mr. Shire in the Lincoln and Rialto is the Paramount-Famous Players Lasky corporation, the greatest and most powerful film organization in the world, through whose instrumentality the Lincoln was built The Lincoln Theater corporation is a subsidiary of the larger organization.

Mr. Shire gave out the following statement in regard to the big transaction Saturday afternoon:

"The Lincoln Theater corporation, a subsidiary of Famous Players-Lasky corporation, the largest film company in the world, who operate several hundred theaters in the United States, England and France, has acquired the Rialto theater and will operate it in conjunction with the newly built theater to be known as the Lincoln theater.

"The newly built theater has been brought about by Famous Players to present their stars and pictures simultaneously with their other theaters in the United States, a long felt need in this city, as well as to present these productions with proper music, etc

"Eli Shire, who has recently bought out the Hostettler interests in the city of Lincoln, made the deal with Famous Players on his last trip to New York, leasing the Rialto to the Lincoln Theater corporation ,and thereby becoming a half-owner of that company. Eli Shire will be president of the local corporation and his nephew, Charles Shire, will be local manager of the two theaters, in conjunction with other Famous Players theaters and under the supervision and direction of the Famous Players management."

It was stated by Mr. Shire that the arrangement that has been made will place the people of Lincoln on a parity with those of Chicago, New York or any other city in the country in the matter of amusements. The greatest pictures produced in the world will be released in Lincoln on the exact date that they are first shown in all the larger cities of the United States and they will be shown with the proper setting and appropriate music. To care for the latter feature a pipe organ costing $40,000 is to be installed in the Lincoln and this will be operated by one of the greatest organists in the country.

While nothing but high quality and very latest pictures are to be shown at the Lincoln, Mr. Shire states that the impression that there is to be an advance in price is erroneous and that admission is to be 50 cents. The new house is to seat 1 700 people.

The Lincoln, after its opening on May 1 is to be operated during the entire summer. A cooling system is being installed which is guaranteed to keep the temperature down to 60 and the management feels that with this environment assured there will be no difficulty in filling the house during the entire heated period.

Following the opening of the Lincoln it is probable that the Rialto will be closed for a time to allow renovation and redecorating.

The interior of the Lincoln is to be one of the most beautiful with which any theater was ever provided, combining elegance, luxury, comfort and artistry. In fact it is designed as a proper setting for the greatest pictures and the most renowned stars in the world, for only such are to appear there. The position of the Paramount-Famous Players Lasky organization enables it to command the very best from everywhere and Lincoln people are assured that they are to have them all and have them as soon as anyone else in the land. Adolph Zukor is president of the big corporation, which produces 108 pictures every week.

Mr. Shire has been a partner of the Hostettler Brothers for the past five years. They own three theaters in St. Joseph and many others in Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas. On their circuit are most of the larger towns in Nebraska They are Nebraska men, having formerly lived at Superior, Bloomfield and Wayne and are at present among the largest theater owners in this part of the country.

L. M. Garman, veteran Lincoln amusement man, is to continue in charge of the Orpheum, Liberty, Lyric and Colonial and he is extremely optimistic over the local situation. He says that the people of Lincoln are to be congratulated over the outlook, but they are deserving of the best, for this has become one of the best show towns in this part of the country, according high class attractions better patronage than many cities much larger.

The new arrangement, Mr. Garman declares, means better shows here than ever before. The quality will be improved and the surroundings and embellishments will be the very finest procurable Lincoln is gradually developing into what he has always predicted it would become, one of the greatest educational and amusement centers in the country. It was because of this faith that he has stuck to this city, refusing in the past some very tempting offers to go elsewhere. At the present time, Mr. Garman asserts, Lincoln is getting a better class of road shows than any of the surrounding cities, notwithstanding the fact that many of these are much larger than Lincoln.

Screen Siftings

Stage Success Filmed — "The Boomerang," a screen adaptation of the stage success, has just been completed by Director L. J. Gasnier, with Anita Stewart, Bert Lytell and Arthur Edmund Carew playing the leads

Real Fire Horses Perform.—Real fire horses are seen in "Pampered Youth," the David Smith picturization for Vitagraph of Booth Tarkington's novel, "The Magnificent Ambersons" Los Angeles "pensions" its fire horses after they have finished active service Most of them are still fit for duty, however, and it was from among this lot that Mr. Smith obtained horses for the fire scenes in the picture

Recovers From Breakdown

Louise Glaum, who was forced to retire from the screen about two years ago because of a nervous breakdown, is returning in "Children of the Whirlwind" by LeRoy Scott, which Whitman Bennett will produce.

Completing "Teaser" Cast—Hedda Hopper, Walter McGrail, Wyndham Standing, Byron Monson and Margaret Quimby have been added to the cast of "The Teaser" a Jewel production which William Seiter is directing for Universal Laura La Plante and Pat O'Malley are co-starring in the picture

Buster Brown on Celluloid—Buster Brown the famous hero of R F. Outcault's comic supplement page, and his pals, Tige and Mary Jane, are to be made the main characters in a series of two reel motion picture productions, according to an announcement from the Century Film Corporation. Arthur Trimble, a five year old film prodigy, will play the role of Buster

Jack Pickford Has Lead — Jack Pickford will play the juvenile lead in "The Goose Woman," the Rex Beach mystery story Clarence Brown is to direct for Universal Louise Dresser has the name part, and others of the cast selected to date are Constance Bennett, James Barrows and George Cooper.

Famous Comedians Together — Two of the largest screen comedians are seen in "Enticement," the new Thomas Ince-First National Picture. They are Russ Powell and Mathilde Comont. Both claim to be "perfect 72's" Powell was formerly a vaudeville singer and Miss Comont was on the legitimate stage before entering pictures. Extra large sets were required when the two heavy-weights were in the scenes.

ANSWERS TO Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—I haven't written to you this year, because I've been too busy to get time to go to the movies, but I did get to see Colleen Moore in "So Big" and thought it was a wonderful picture. I had read the book and like it a lot, and although the picture didn't follow the book exactly, I thought it was just as good as though it had. I rather liked the idea of seeing Selina getting her heart's desire when "So Big" got the contract for the big building. We expect that in the book, but it doesn't show it exactly.

I admire Wallace Beery more and more everytime I see him. I thought he did some wonderful work in "So Big." His portrayal of the Duton farmer was exactly as I had pictured him from the story. Gladys Brockwell, too, was as I had pictured him from the story. Gladys Brockwell, too, was as I had pictured the character in the story. She is getting terribly thin. I remember her when she was playing in star roles several years ago, and she wasn't nearly as thin and old looking as she is now. She is a much better actress now than she was then, however. I never did care much for her at that time.

Colleen Moore is just about the cutest thing I have ever seen since she bobbed her hair. She is a little like Dorothy Gish in her acting, but she has a hundred times more pep and personality than Dorothy ever had. Is Colleen married or single? How old is she? She looks terribly young.

Who directed "The Sea Hawk?" I thought Wallace Beery was the best actor in that picture, not excepting Milton Sills. Was he ever on the stage, or did he come directly to the screen from school?

Who directed "Captain Blood?" It was a wonderfully well produced picture, and the director deserves much credit for it. I think we don't give the directors of motion pictures as much credit as we should. It is the director who is responsible for the whole picture, and not the star, in my estimation. I don't suppose any of us would go to see pictures without stars, but we do all flock to Cecil B. DeMille productions and D. W. Griffith pictures without ever having seen the stars before, if they happen to be exploiting new ones. The reason we do, is because we know that those directors would have good pictures, no matter who the stars were.

Well, I'm not going to take up any more of your space today. Thanking you in advance for answering my questions, I remain, yours very truly—MILLY.

Colleen Moore is adorable. She's married to Emmett McCormick, and she's twenty-four almost.

Frank Lloyd was responsible for "The Sea Hawk." Wallace Beery had ten years' experience on the stage, before he turned his attention to the screen.

David Smith directed "Captain Blood" for Vitagraph.

Dear Movie Editor—Will you please give me the addresses of the following: Barbara LaMarr, Bert Lytell, Betty Compson, Warner Baxter, Mary Brian, Douglas MacLean, Helen Ferguson, Esther Ralston, Jacqueline Logan, Hallam Cooley?—A FAN.

Address Barbara LaMarr in care of First National Pictures, Hollywood, Calif. Bert Lytell gets his mail in care of Warner Brothers, Hollywood; Betty Compson, Warner Baxter and Mary Brian may all be reached at the Famous Players-Lasky Studio in Hollywood. Doug lives at [illegible] South Alvarado street, Los Angeles, Calif. Helen Ferguson has a mail box at Universal Studio, Universal City, Calif. Esther Ralston will answer letters sent in care of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Culver City, Calif. Jacqueline Logan's mail would be forwarded to her if you sent it in care of Gardner Sullivan productions, Hollywood, Calif. She is in Cuba at present working on "White Mice." Hallam Cooley's home address is 1610 Lanwood avenue, Hollywood.

Dear Movie Editor—Will you please tell me how old Manuel Granada? Has he been in pictures long? Is he married? I saw him in "The Bandolero," and I think he is wonderful. I like the picture because it was so Spanish. And I love any of those Spanish or Mexican actors such as Granado, Novarro, Moreno, and Valentino. They're just sort of romantic, doncha know. I almost forgot, I wanted to ask you for his address, as I must send for a picture. Thanks—KASEY.

Manuel has only been in pictures a short time. He is twenty-four and single. If you will write him at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio, Culver City, Calif. I'm sure he would have his photo taken, just to please you.

Dear Movie Editor—Please give me the age of the following: Richard Dix, Rudy Valentino, Dick Barthelmess, Hoot Gibson, Jack Perrin, Frank Mayo, Harry Carey and Buck Jones.

Is Jack Perrin still in the movies? I saw a picture in Colorado one time. The name of it was "The Lion Man." It was a serial and I sure thought it was good. Could you tell me if it's ever been here in Lincoln?

Could you tell me the address of Newton House. He is a boy about fourteen years old. I know him personally. He went into the movies about three or four years ago. His father's name is Jack. He is also in the movies. I guess I'd better quit for this time.

Hoping I haven't bothered you too much. I'd like to see my answer in next Sunday's paper, if it's possible. Many thanks to you—A FAN.

No bother at all. The pleasure is all mine. Sorry I couldn't get the letter in the Sunday you expected it, but was impossible.

Richard Dix is thirty and Richard Barthelmess has a year to go yet before he is as old as Richard. Mr. Valentino will be thirty in May. Hoot Gibson was born in 1892 and Mr. Perrin is two years his senior. Frank Mayo is thirty-nine and Harry Carey is forty-four. Buck Jones was born in 1888.

Jack Perrin was working in Universal Pictures the last I heard of him, but I haven't seen him mentioned lately. You might write to him in care of that company, Universal City, Calif. It's the latest address I have for him.

"The Lion Man" was released several years ago. I'm not positive but I think it ran at one of the smaller local theatres at the time of it's release.

I am unable to find a thing about Newton House. I haven't a House of any kind listed in my Blue Book. Perhaps he is playing under another name. Do you know what company he started to work with? I could give you their address and you could write him, even though he did have an assumed name.

Dear Movie Editor—Will you please tell me all you can about the following movie stars, and please give me their addresses: Claire Windsor, Ben Lyon, Cullen Landis, Lois Wilson, Corinne Griffith, Jack Holt, Lila Lee, Agnes Ayres, Enid Bennett, Tom Mix, Viola Dana, Marion Davies, Richard Dix and Norman Kerry. I am a movie fan—MAXINE, Wymore.

That's quite an order, Maxine, but I'll fill it if my space holds out. Claire Windsor was born in Cawker City, Kansas in 1897. She received her education at Washburn College, Kansas. Her motion picture career was started under Lois Weber's direction and she was heralded as a "Lois Weber" find. Miss Windsor is five feet six inches tall and has light hair and blue eyes. She was originally known as Ola Cronk. Address her in care of First National Pictures, Hollywood, Calif., or at 4624 Santa Monica boulevard, Los Angeles.

Ben Lyon was born in 1896 at Atlanta, Ga. He received his education at Baltimore Park school. After a successful stage career, he made his screen debut as Violet Mersereau's leading man in "Morgan's Raiders." He co-starred with Marian Swane in "The Transgressors," and played leads in Edison's "Conquest Series." He has brown hair and dark blue eyes, is five feet eleven inches tall and weighs 160. Address him in care of First National, Hollywood, Calif.

Cullen Landis is working at the Vitagraph Studio, Los Angeles. He was born in Nashville, Tenn., in 1895. His hair and eyes are light. He had considerable newspaper experience in Tennessee, but he got the California fever and went to Long Beach. Here the only employment he could find, was driving a truck at the Horkheimer Studio. He was promoted to property man, and later became assistant director in motion pictures. Finally he was given a small part in a picture, and he soon became one of the most popular leading men of the screen. He has been married, but Mrs. Landis was recently granted a divorce.

Lois Wilson was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., but when she was a small child she moved to Birmingham, Ala., where she was raised. She started her career as a rural school teacher, but won a beauty prize, and was given a small part by Lois Weber in "The Dumb Girl of Portici." She became leading woman for J. Waren Kerrigan, and later played opposite Frank Keenan. She is now one of the most popular leading women in Paramount Pictures. She has brown hair and hazel eyes and may be reached at Hollywood, Calif., studio.

Corinne Griffith is a star for First National Pictures, Hollywood. In private life she is the wife of Walter Morosco. Corinne was born in Texarkana, Tex., in 1898. She received her education in a convent in New Orleans. She began her screen career with Vitagraph, and starred for that company for several years. She is of the blond type with light brown hair and blue eyes. She is a splendid swimmer, enjoys all outdoor sports, and is especially fond of horseback riding.

Jack Holt, star in Paramount Pictures, where he may be reached, was born in Winchester, Va., and educated at the Virginia Military Institute. After four years in stock, he started his screen career with Universal, going from there to Select, Ince and finally Famous Players-Lasky. Jack is married and has three children. He is six feet tall and has dark brown hair and eyes. He's an all-round athlete and is especially fond of baseball.

Lila Lee, in private life Mrs. James Kirkwood, may be addressed in care of Famous Players-Lasky, New York City. She was born in New York City in 1901, when she was quite young, she was "discovered" by Gus Edwards, and started on her vaudeville career. She was the original "Look Out for Jimmy Valentine" girl, and appeared in many of Mr. Edward's kid revues. She became known to the Orpheum goers as "Cuddles." She made her first screen debut in "The Cruise of the Make Believe" for Famous Players. She is five feet three inches tall and has black hair and eyes.

Agnes Ayres was born in Chicago in 1896. Her entry into motion pictures came by accident. She accompanied a friend to the Essanay studio in Chicago. A director, known to the friend, saw the beautiful Agnes and immediately offered her an engagemnt with Essany. She finally accepted, and later went to the old Mutual company, and then Vitagraph. She was featured in twenty of the O. Henry stories by Vitagraph. Agnes has brown hair and hazel eyes. Address her in care of Famous Players-Lasky, Hollywood, Calif.

Enid Bennett, Mrs. Fred Niblo, is a native of Australia. While working in an office in Perth, Australia, Fred Niblo, who was touring the country with his company, advertised for somebody to take a minor part. Miss Bennett applied and was accepted. She had played important parts in "The Whip," "The Fortune Hunter," "Seven Keys to Bladpate," and other notable stage successes. She made her first picture for Famous Players-Lasky in "Keys of Righteousness." She is five feet three inches tall, has golden brown hair and hazel eyes. Address her at Beverly Hills.

Tom Mix was born on a ranch near El Paso, Texas. He was a cowpuncher who held the championships for all of the most daring cowboy exploits. He attended a Virginia military academy, and then served in the Spanish-American war as a scout. He was in China with the expedition of the Boxers, where he was wounded in the battle of Tien-Tsin, and invalided home. He was U. S. deputy marshall in Oklahoma. He won honors at a rodeo and attracted the attenion of motion picture producers. He signed up as a star in Fox westerns, and has been with that company ever since. Address him at the Hollywood studio.

Viola Dana was born in Brooklyn, N. Y. She was five years old when she made her first public appearance. Her first big "hit" was in the title part of the Belasco stage production, "The Poor Little Rich Girl." She made her first screen appearance in "Molly, the Drummer Boy," an Edison picture. She starred for Metro Pictures for several years, and has been seen recently in Paramount Pictures. Address her at the Lasky Studio, Hollywood, Calif.

Marion Davies' permanent address is 2478 Second avenue, New York City, but she's in California at present working on a picture. She was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., and attended the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Hastings-On-the-Hudson. Her initial stage appearance was in "Chin Chin." Her beauty attracted the atention of Howard Chandler Christy, and he painted her as "Morning." She was model for such artists as Harrison Fisher, Penrhyn Stanlaws, Montgomery Flagg and Hamilton King. She made her screen debut in "Runnaway Romany," for which she wrote the scenario and titles. Miss Davies is five feet six inches tall and has golden hair and blue eyes.

Richard Dix was born at St. Paul, Minn., in 1894. His name was Peter Brimm. He received his education at the University of Minnesota and started his stage career in "The Hawk" with Faversham. He played in Morosco stock for over two years in Los Angeles before embarking on his screen career with First National in "Not Guilty." He was a featured player in Goldwyn pictures, and is now a star for Paramount. Address him at the East Coast studio of that company, L. I. New York. He is six feet tall and has brown hair and eyes. He's single to date.

Norman Kerry is married. Address him in care of Universal Pictures, Universal City, Calif. He was born in Rochester, N. Y. He was a student in the Arts and Science branch of the University of Maryland, St. John's college and the Le Salle school. He made his bow in motion pictures with Mary Pickford in "The Little Princess."

He also appeared with Miss Pickford in "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley." He played with Constance Talmadge in "Up the Road With Sally" and "Goodnight Paul." He is one of the screen's greatest athletes. He's six feet two inches tall and was a leader on the athletic field when in college. He's an expert swimmer and diver and a great football player. Norman's eyes are hazel and has dark hair.

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Minerva Rejoices That Recognition Can Be Won In Modern Society Through Brains and Cleverness Even More Than With Money Or Family, But A University Girl Regrets That "Outsiders" Appear At Many Fraternity Dances—Fault For the Much-Discussed Wildness of the Modern Girl Placed With Parents and Environment — Religious Training In Schools Also Discussed

Brains or Money

Dear Minerva I for one regret that there are no longer class distinctions of any sort I am not a snob but I believe the world is much better off when standards are held high and society is regulated by old-fashioned conventions

At several fraternity dances recently there have been a great many girls who are not connected with school who are working in business offices and who are practically all new here They were nice girls and I do not begrudge them the good times But their being there meant that girls who are in college and belong to sororities who rightfully should have been invited to these dances were left at home These employed girls attract the men because they are sporty and slangy and gay and irresponsible and because they are unhampered by any about night hours and date nights

Many of them are very poor influences on the boys because they demand that so much money be spent on them and because they have no regard whatever for the studying which the boys should be doing

I believe that this doing away with the distinctions of family and breeding is decidedly harmful to society in general

One girl at a party recently was a divorcee who has been talked about scandalously She was brought there by a very popular college man and we simply had to be nice to her My mother was horrified when she learned that we had been to the party with her

As mother said when she was a girl and you went to certain parties you knew who everyone there was but now it is about like going to a public dance you never know who you will meet

I believe we are entirely too free here in America and getting freer all the time What do you think

ANITA

A I dont see things as you do in the least

I believe the greater democracy we enjoy the better off we are

One of the brightest spots in modern life as I see it is the fact that people can win recognition through brains and cleverness even more than with money

Time was when mere brains were scorned but now days more recognition is gained socially through brains than through wealth or family I do not believe you need fear competition from girls who are not worthy in point of cleverness and talents certainly not competition of any far reaching order The girl in a business office who gets nice dance invitations from fraternity men just has to be clever that's sure There are too many charming girls in school circles to make it simple for outsiders to break in

In all social circles nowadays you find that the most coveted guest is he or she who does something interesting who is achieving or creating in some way worthy of notice

I have in mind a young matron who is decidedly a social leader She has been in the town where she reigns only a few years Her parents are unknown and her husband is likewise a comparative stranger there He is a good substantial business man respected and trusted but far from wealthy They live modestly Yet he is invited everywhere and it is regarded as an honored guest by everyone She has not distinguished herself in art or letters but she has brains and has used them nevertheless She has planned and carried through various big entertainments with an enviable smoothness and executive ability

When there is money to be raised she organizes the forces and the money is forthcoming in a surprisingly painless fashion

This state of affairs is true in this land as well as in our own country A social function is quite incomplete unless attended by a few so called celebrities people who have achieved something besides mere money

Moreover the sons and daughters of wealthy parents are learning that they cannot get by through their money and family prestige alone that they must have individual charm and abilities

Our Own Handiwork

Dear Minerva I am very much interested in the letters from teachers and others about the modern girl I am the mother of two girls of high school and college age and I find that the girls of today have a decided wild and foolish ideas about things They want constant excitement and think they have preferences reserved I struggle to keep my girls faithful to the standards I was taught as a girl but it is very difficult and I do not know that I succeed

But I despair for many of the girls who visit in our home girls from nice homes but who are astounding lacking in knowledge of what is right and wrong

There is certainly a serious problem confronting us What is wrong with our young people

THOUGHTFUL MOTHER

A Beatrice Forbes Robertson Hale has written a book which she calls What is wrong with our girls? which is a treatise on environment training and the future of the American flapper so called She places the fault with the parents and the environment in which the girls live

Since the war she writes the public has been displeased with its young girls There has been a chorus of criticism directed against their ... manners and morals I have read a volume on this subject with ... that the whole of it is apparently so misdirected With them we get a ... of good clean blood and then hygienic and decent homes this is as good as any in existence Therefore if things are amiss the material of which our girls is made fault lies in the soil not in the plants Girls are in no sense responsible for their environments that is our affair Physicians we must heal ourselves

Mrs Hale then gives a diagnosis of the disease and suggests a remedy she thinks is right environment which the women of our country can provide if they will The individual problem goes back to the individual mother and hers to her own conscience she says

To the girls Mrs Hale says Girls of America your ways are not our ways We do not always approve them as our mother did not always approve ours We do not like your careless manners your sexual freedoms your powder and rouge your indifference toward the old your neglect of pleasing But we like your courage your self confidence your honesty and your intelligence We think your faults lie more on the surface than ours did and I now that what you appear to be is of your own making The twig of youth shoots from life's tree it is we who bend it Perhaps we have not bent you wisely Perhaps we owe you an apology for blaming you for our handiwork

Religious Training

Dear Minerva Now that the holidays are well behind us we can devote more time to your Mail and I trust that the many interesting writers will not neglect it I see that one writer does not like the partisan discussions What would your mail be without its discussions? To my way of thinking they are the life of the mail True you might conduct it merely as a column of advice to the lovelorn interspersed with a few miscellaneous receipts but to do so would cause it to sink to the dead level of most such departments would rob it of much of its interest and popularity because it would no longer be the broadening educational uplifting different and distinctive department it is today

Regarding the proposition of reading the Bible in the public schools without comment I am opposed to it for the reason that the without comment is a myth pure and simple and I am opposed to embroiling our educational institutions in a sea of sectarian bitterness as we have mixed religion and politics in recent years to the great detriment of both Politics have not improved any and in many instances religion has suffered incalculable harm from the merger

When I was a child it was the policy to read a chapter from the Bible at the opening of the school day ostensibly without comment but the comment was generally forthcoming The Bible is most interesting though deep book and is of little value to children unless carefully explained Many children would ask questions about the reading which was perfectly natural and these were answered by the teacher in a more or less haphazard way One teacher in particular who was an ardent worker in the church of her choice did not hesitate to comment freely and of course altogether in keeping with the teachings of the particular sect she affiliated with When a child would say Mama says this or Papa says that the teacher would politely but very firmly say You must keep it this way and then proceed to explain the matter as she understood it I did not think so much of it at the time but looking backward I can see wherein her explanations differed widely from what I had been taught to believe and what my parents wished me to believe and because it was found that rabid sectarianism was creeping into our school system is the reason why the practice was abolished and it is the reason why it should not be reinstated in the public schools and it is the reason why all intelligent Americans disregardless of creed are opposed to the measure If our well meaning but misguided reformers keep on at the rate they have been going for a few years past first thing we know they will insist that we open our public dances and our movie shows with prayers and hymn singing Possibly such a course would improve the aforesaid nevertheless it would hardly be the proper thing

The absurd notion that the two Chicago boys who were sent to prison for murdering another school boy for the thrill it would give them would have been saved from such a fate by merely reading a few lines from the Scriptures is not entertained by thinking men and women They probably would have given no heed to it presented in a cold methodical colorless way as reading without comment in a public school would prove to be

The home and the respective churches are the proper places for religious training and the fact that it is sometimes neglected in one or the other is not a sufficient reason for injecting it into the public school system

And now I crave a little space for a few words to Ardent It is not my intention to discuss the dance as it has most able defenders I agree with her that children should be taught obedience but not to the extent she advocates In a recent letter from her we find this absurdity Johnny is sure a goner unless he is curbed that the only great people on earth have grown greater by repression suppression deflection being curbed harnessed controlled rebuffed rebuked chastised—and then led Sounds like a passage from the Koran or some dark logic of the Spanish Inquisition doesn't it If Ardent will open her eyes and take the trouble to look round little bit she will observe that the world is now showing two brilliant examples of that policy i e, Germany and Russia The people of those countries have been suppressed harnessed controlled rebuffed chastised—and then led all right Misled we should say Destroy the self respect of a people and you virtually destroy their soul they degenerate into creatures but little above the beast and while they unquestionably are more easily led when in such a state it is equally true that they are more likely to be led into evil doing than into paths of righteousness America grew great upon the very reverse of that policy and the tendency in recent years to follow the evil example of the autocratic nations of Europe where the few did the thinking for and controlled the actions of the many has done more influences combined Those who advocate such a theory are our country's ... enemies

There is absolutely nothing in the like father like son theory Because dad is a physician is no reason whatever why son should be interested in pills and powders The child is a separate and distinct individual and not only should be but MUST be treated as such I am well aware that the Bible tells children to obey their parents and it also tells parents to provoke not their children to wrath, which rightly interpreted means simply that being a parent does not give one a license to be a tyrant The Bible is not a one-sided affair granting special favors to a privileged few Something is expected of both sides but Ardent has not learned that yet

Arthur Brisbane the highest salaried and perhaps the most brilliant editorial writer in the world in a recent article says It's a good plan presumably but it is possible to overdo schemes and plans for showing boys how to act and think They need some time in which to think exactly in their own way It is the thinking that a boy does on his own account and of his own free will that counts

Little Newton called a dull boy was thinking out the law of gravitation Napoleon called a sulky boy at his military school was making plans that surprised his teachers later Let children alone at least part of the time

And for Ardent's benefit I would like to say that permitting a child to grow up accustomed to exercising his own brain as he should do instead of letting that power deteriorate through stagnation is by no means a turn em loose give em what they want doctrine or a good bye destraint hello license policy She and her so called witty Missourian do not seem to be able to distinguish the difference between radicalism and common sense between justice and injustice between an apron string policy and manliness If that is the way she is bringing up her children she will have no one but herself to blame if they kick out from such a home and go the world on their own hook as soon as they are old enough to do it and it will serve her right too for driving them to it as she alone will be held responsible for their course in life Our land is cursed with hundreds of such homes and the rocks of disaster are literally strewn with the wrecked lives of the thousands of unfortunate children who have fled from them while Hades is brim full and overflowing with parents

I always thought Ardent wrote a great deal for the sake of a war of words and with each succeeding letter that she fosters upon us I become more thoroughly convinced of it—DAD

Questions Answered Briefly

Divorcee The custom seems to be well established for the divorced woman to retain her ex husband's name but not to use his given name as that would conflict with a possible second wife's name For instance if your maiden name has been Anna Brown and you married William Smith Upon securing a divorce you would call yourself Mrs Brown Smith not Mrs William Smith

To learn ways to beauty and to youth

BY EDNA WALLACE HOPPER

I have spent over $100 000 in my search for beauty aids But that search has won me fortunes It made me a famous beauty For 40 years it has kept me a famous beauty Now at a grandmother's age I look like a girl of 19

Those aids are largely due to France Her scientists have done the most to multiply girls beauty and give added youth

Now I offer those helps to others I have arranged so all druggists and toilet counters can supply them In four preparations I combine ... beauty helps And I gladly send a sample to anyone who wants to ... what I did

My Youth Cream

Is a remarkable creation combining many factors It contains products of both lemon and strawberry Also the best helps science gave me ... and protect the skin

It comes in two types—cold cream and a vanishing cream It has ... high cream also daytime ... Never is my skin without it My velvet complexion shows what that cream can do The cost is 60c per jar Also in tubes

My Facial Youth

Is a liquid cleanser I owe to France Great beauty experts the world over now advise this formula but their price is too high for most women

It contains no animal no vegetable fat The skin cannot absorb it So it cleans to the depths then departs My Facial Youth will bring you new conceptions of what a clean skin means The cost is ...

White Youth Clay

A new type clay white ... and dainty Vastly different from the crude and muddy clays so many have employed

It purges the skin of all that clogs and mars it Removes the causes of blackheads and blemishes Brings a rosy afterglow which amazes and delights Combats lines and wrinkles reduces enlarged pores

No girl or woman can afford to omit it It multiplies beauty White Youth Clay costs 50c and $1

My Hair Youth

The ... of my luxuriant hair ... thick and silky finer far than 40 years ago I have never had falling hair dandruff or a touch of gray

A concentrated product combining many ingredients I apply it with an eye dropper directly to the scalp to tone and stimulate No ... woman will omit it when they see what Hair Youth does The cost is 60c and $1 with eye dropper

My Face Powders

These are supreme creations ... of powders you have used can compare Mine are exquisite They come in two types One a heavy clinging cold cream powder in square box $1 I like that best The other is light and fluffy in round box 50c

All toilet counters supply my beauty helps If you send the coupon I will mail you a sample of any one you choose Also my Beauty Book Clip coupon now

MISS HELEN KELLER

Georgia Lee Hall, Playing The Leading Role In "Rain," Began Career In Lincoln

Georgia Lee Hall was just a little girl when she came to Lincoln first, fresh from a convent. She was barely sixteen years of age, and came here to study music and dramatic art at the University School of Music.

That has been a number of years ago. She is coming to Lincoln for the second time next week, as "Sadie Thompson," the leading role in "Rain."

Georgia Lee Hall has had quite a career in the theatrical line. Attractive and with a great deal of real ability, it did not take her long to make a name for herself in the realm of theatrical folk, and before even she had dared hope she was playing on Broadway, which is the aim of every young and old would-be star.

Miss Hall's career began in Lincoln when, as she herself states, her money gave out and she had to get a job. She heard that the Barrow-Howard people, a stock company playing Lincoln at that time, needed an extra for a certain play. Georgia Hall applied for the part and was accepted. The little part led to other larger parts, and finally Miss Hall was sent to Sioux Falls, S. D. to play leads in another company managed by the Barrow-Howard people. Her salary was thirty-five dollars a week, with wardrobe furnished.

It was while she was in Sioux Falls that a manager of a theatrical company in Milwaukee came through, saw Miss Hall's performance, and asked her if she would accept a position with his company. When she closed the season at Sioux Falls, Miss Hall said that she weighed ninety pounds, and didn't have a cent. The manager from Milwaukee advanced her two weeks salary and that's how she began her season in Milwaukee.

Played Stock in Boston.

While in Milwaukee, Miss Hall saved enough to get her to New York and to live very modestly there for about three weeks. She said that she believed that would be all of the time she would need to secure a position. It took much longer than that, but she finally landed one playing stock in Boston. She stayed there two seasons and then went back to New York. Willie Collier gave her a chance to play opposite him in some Broadway show and later she was given a chance to try out for a part in "A Voice in the Dark," with the promise by the manager that he would see about New York if she made good. She made god and he gave her the part for New York with a twenty-five dollar increase over the tryout salary contract.

"I had no help nor influence, and no money but what I made myself," Miss Hall said. "My father was back of me always, however, until his death. He was a wonderful man and beloved by all who knew him in Lincoln and O'Neill."

Miss Hall's father was Captain Charles E. Hall, captain of detectives in Lincoln. He was killed while trying to capture some automobile thieves a few years ago.

Miss Hall will be the honor guest at a number of social affairs during her stay in Lincoln, and will be welcomed back by a number of old friends.

While at the University School of Music, Miss Hall studied voice with Howard Kirkpatrick, who is still there, and John T. Prince, who was head of the dramatic art department at that time, and who is now in California.

Music and Art Teachers Guests At Exhibit During Closing Week

Two state conventions, the State Music teachers, and the Nebraska Art teachers will be guests of the Nebraska Art Association at its annual exhibit in the University Art Gallery. The music teachers have been invited for Wednesday and will be addressed by Prof. Paul H. Grummann of the university school of fine arts. On Saturday the art teachers will adjourn to the art gallery following their luncheon at the Lincoln hotel. Miss Gertrude Moore, also of the university school of fine arts, has been asked to speak on the pictures on display.

This is the last week of the art exhibit. Those persons who have put off going to the art gallery are reminded that the exhibition closes one week from today, February 15. The present collection is made up of pictures sent from the thirty-seventh annual Chicago exhibit and a group of twenty-seven paintings of the city of New York by Everett Warner.

Robert B. Harshe, director of the Chicago Art Institute, with whom Dr. S. Mills Hayes, president of the Nebraska Art association made arrangements for the present exhibit, has recently received from the French government, the cross of the legion of honor. Mr. Harshe's Lincoln friends are pleased to hear that he has been distinguished by this signal an honor.

The Week's Program.

On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Dr. H. B. Lowry will address gallery visitors. The hostesses for the afternoon are Mrs. F. M. Deweese, W. A. Tolman, Mrs. H. I. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. F. M. Sanders, and Miss Marie Kohn.

Monday night Mesdames A. W. Jensen, H. B. Miles, Willard Folsom and [illegible] will preside.

The patronesses for Tuesday [illegible] Mesdames W. [illegible] Alexander, [illegible] Miss [illegible]

Wednesday night Mesdames E. J. Angle, H. B. Meginnis, E. B. Perry, Adrian Newens, and Miss Jenny Z. Smith will preside.

Those in charge Thursday night are Mesdames M. E. Vance, E. H. Barbour, T. F. A. Williams, H. W. Orr, F. C. Hamer and George Day.

On Friday the patronesses will be the Misses Gere, Mesdames John M. Stewart, W. H. Raymond, E. C. Hardy, Carl Steckelberg and C. D. Traphagen.

Saturday night the following members will sponsor the exhibit: Mesdames E. C. Folsom, F. E. Beaumont, F. R. Hussong, A. E. Sheldon and Max Meyer.

Honoring New Teacher.

Sunday afternoon, the closing day of the exhibit, the Nebraska Art association will give an informal tea in honor of Miss Tressa Emerson of Belfast, Me., who comes to instruct in painting in the university school of fine arts. Miss Emerson is a young artist of much interest. She graduated with honor in 1923 from the Syracuse university school of fine arts where she won a $1,000 traveling scholarship. She comes directly to Lincoln from fifteen months of study in Paris. Mesdames S. Mills Hayes, Samuel Avery, Paul H. Grummann, C. F. Ladd, Earl Cline, N. Z. Snell, L. A. Sherman, C. W. Woods, J. E. Le Rossignol and E. A. Burnett will serve as a reception committee. [illegible] young ladies of the University Art club will assist in serving.

Deaf, and Blind, Helen Keller Will Speak Here For Aid of National Foundation

More than forty years ago a little child was stricken of dreadful [illegible]ness. [illegible] the babe [illegible] arms [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] Helen Adams Keller [illegible] and speechless [illegible] that dark house wherein [illegible] burned a festive fire [illegible] Somewhere the love [illegible] life [illegible] and [illegible] had reached her [illegible] concentrated [illegible] [illegible] them real to her and she has [illegible] one of the greatest women [illegible] generation, stripped though [illegible] of all but one medium of communication and that gained with great effort.

She has become a woman of [illegible] Mark Twain said: "The two [illegible] figures of the nineteenth [illegible] are Napoleon and Helen [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] as is humanly possible, but [illegible] teaching, without intensive [illegible] help she would have been [illegible], for she had no way to [illegible] the outside world. This woman has overcome tremendous handicaps, has made the whole living, laughing world her own, but there was one who stood beside her as guide, counsellor and friend.

Miss Keller was born at Tuscumbia, Ala., June 27, 1880, the daughter of Captain Arthur H. Keller and Kate Adams Keller. Of the best heredity, it is probable the influence of strong forebearers helped her in her fight. On her father's side she is descended from Alexander Spottswood, a colonial governor of Virginia, and through her mother she is related to the Adams and Everett families of New England.

Stricken When a Baby.

At the age of nineteen months Miss Keller was stricken with the illness which deprived her of [illegible] [illegible] example to the afflicted [illegible] to the strong. She grew up a young child in her Alabama home, a wild little creature of the outdoors.

When she was seven years of age the woman who was to become her lifelong help and comforter and teacher went to her. Anne Sullivan, then, now Mrs. John A. Macy, went to the Keller home to teach the little Helen. As a teacher, she has probably achieved greater results than any other woman in her profession, for she brought light [illegible] happiness and [illegible] to one in the [illegible]

Patience that knew no brittle moments, faithfulness that the Master taught, devotion that knew but one object have been the guides by which Anne Sullivan Macy has molded her life. She has made Helen Keller the woman she is today. And to few is given the power of creation.

Because of her, Miss Keller has been helped to break through the wall that separated her from the world. By her aid and Miss Keller's own optimistic spirit, she has learned to see and hear by methods of her own, she has learned to talk in a delicate, rather hesitating voice, with a marked syllabic pronunciation.

Miss Keller placed her fingers in Mrs. Macy's mouth to feel the position of the tongue and palate while talking, she making the sounds; upon her throat and nostrils to get the feeling of the vibrations. To learn to speak from such sources was at best an almost insurmountable attempt. The only thing to do was to try and try, and be corrected, and try, with success so slow and long coming. One of the most difficult portions of her training was to build up her voice, so that it could be heard, to get the proper inflections, and to secure some expression.

After years of private tutoring at home, Miss Keller entered Radcliffe college with Mrs. Macy as her and appreciative of all she has lectures and to interpret them for her later. She entered at twenty and graduated four years later cum laude.

Knowing that her opportunities have been unusual that training and money have been hers, and realizing at the same time that many, many blind were deprived of the advantages they might enjoy, and appreciating of all she has gained from men, such as Mark Twain, who have been her advisers and friends, Helen Keller has long had the dream that there might be some one to become a friend to the blind. Her dream has at last found its counter part in reality in the establishment of the American Foundation for the Blind, which has undertaken nation-wide service for the sightless.

It is in the interests of this foundation which is attempting to raise $2,000,000 to establish a foundation at Washington, that Miss Keller and Mrs. Macy come to Lincoln Wednesday forenoon to remain until Monday. So well she knows the struggle that the 100,000 blind in this country are undergoing that it is with a sympathetic heart and a feeling soul that she comes to plead the cause of the sightless.

The American Foundation for the Blind will mean friends, work, and sympathy to the blind. It serves as a clearing house to correlate the work now being done among the various institutions, and to promote throughout the country al the best forms of such work. Among the things for which the foundation will care will be the re-education of the adult blind, the survey of all occupations open to them, the development of industrial shows and associations for the sightless. It has been organized in response to requests from practically all the organizations engaged in education and relief of the blind.

Miss Keller has done much for the blind, through her own work and her own writings. She was formerly a member of the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind and she has been a member of advisory boards of various societies for the blind and deaf. This woman has given many lectures in the United States and has studied all the time for the improvement of her speech, with Mrs. Macy and with C. A. White of the New England Conservatory of Music.

She has contributed occasional papers to Century magazine, Youth's Companion, to the Ladies Home Journal and to McClure's. Miss Keller is the author of "The Story of My Life," "Optimism, an Essay," "The World I Live In," "The Song of the Stone Wall," and "Out of the Dark." She has also appeared in a moving picture play "Deliverance," based on her autobiography.

A definite program has been arranged for Miss Keller while she is here, a program where she may speak and plead for the sightless, who long not so much, perhaps, to know the stars and the treetops and the morning sky as to be freed from the restrictions which hem them [illegible] Through the story of her life [illegible] the knowledge it [illegible] Miss Keller hopes to aid the thousands she knows only through the similarity of their struggles.

She, and Mrs. Macy will be honor guests at a luncheon Wednesday at the Lincoln hotel, when Governor Adam McMullen, Mayor Frank C. Zehrung, and the Rev. Dr. S. Mills Hayes will give addresses of welcome. The American Foundation for the Blind will be presented by Dr. Hayes and Miss Keller will speak for it. An appeal will be made for funds.

The following day a luncheon, under the auspices of the Lions' club, will be held at the Chamber of Commerce, with Miss Keller again speaking for the foundation and a request for funds to promote the work.

The first large meeting will be held at St. Paul's M. E. church at [illegible] Friday evening. Dr. S. Mills Hayes will preside and the Wesleyan glee club will give two groups of songs. Dr. Hayes will explain the proposed work of the foundation and Miss Keller and Mrs. Macy will speak. An appeal will be made for funds.

The evening of Miss Keller's departure is the second mass meeting of her stay, and it is to be held at St. Paul's church Monday evening. Before the lecture, Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond will give a group of organ numbers and the Rev. Dr. Walter Aitken will give the remarks of welcome. A stringed quartet, composed of Lillian Eiche, cello; E. J. Walt, violin; Ernest Harrison, violin; and Mrs. August Molzer, viola, will give two groups of numbers.

Dr. Aitken will tell of the foundation and Miss Keller will give the principal address of the evening. Mrs. Macy will also speak and the Rev. Dr. S. Mills Hayes will speak at the conclusion of the program. Final pledges will be made that evening.

An Omaha wedding which brings a charming bride to Lincoln will be that of Miss Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mann of Omaha, to Edwin Gould of Lincoln, formerly of Omaha. The wedding will be a brilliant affair of Wednesday evening, February 18, at the First Congregational church of Omaha. The bride-to-be is an Ak-Sar-Ben princess. Miss Lillian Head will be the maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Misses Josephine Platner, Flora Skukert and Ruth Miller.

Miss Wylie, an attractive Nebraska girl, is to wed Dr. William Ellis Pinner, lieutenant in the medical corps, U. S. navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Pinner of Suffolk, Va., Monday afternoon, February 16, at Cambridge, Mass. The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock in Christ church. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mrs. Louise M. Miles of Grand Island. She is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Miss Nancy Breazeale Cobb, daughter of Colonel J. O. Cobb, commanding U. S. marine hospital, Chelsea, Mass., and Mrs. Cobb, will be Miss Wylie's only attendant and fellow officers of Dr. Pinner will serve as his attendants. Dr. Pinner and his bride will be at home after March 10 at 52 Garden court, Cambridge.

Helen Keller, one of the most widely discussed women in the country for her remarkable achievement in overcoming the handicaps of inability to see, hear or speak, will be a guest in Lincoln this week in the interest of the work of the American Foundation for the Blind. Miss Keller and her companion, Mrs. Anna Sullivan Macy, arrive Wednesday morning and at noon will attend a large luncheon at the Lincoln hotel before which Miss Keller will speak.

Miss Hall is a former Lincoln girl who has won success on the stage and comes to Lincoln February 16 for a three days' engagement in "Rain," the popular New York play in which she plays the leading role. Mrs. J. A. Van Kuren and Miss Hazel Ritchey will entertain at tea Tuesday afternoon, February 17, from 3 to 5 o'clock in her honor.

Mrs. Krause has been chosen chairman of the women's committee which will entertain Miss Keller during her stay in Lincoln. A luncheon at the Lincoln hotel and two mass meetings at St. Paul church for one of which Mrs. Krause has enlisted the aid of the members of the Junior League are among the affairs Miss Keller will attend and before which she will speak in the interest of the American Foundation for the Blind.

Valentine's Day Chosen For Elks Charity Ball

Valentine's day has been chosen by the members of the Elks lodge as the most suitable date for the Charity ball which will be given under the auspices of the lodge at the city auditorium, Saturday evening, February 14. Purple and white, the colors of the lodge, will be used throughout the auditorium for decoration, and the same motif will be carried out in the favors.

A number of professional vaudeville acts have been secured for that evening, as well as a group of home talent acts which will be given during intermissions. The members of the lodge are planning on having the Elks band open the ball with a half-hour concert. Governor Adam McMullen and Mayor Frank Zehrung have been invited to lead the grand march.

Distinguished Guests Will Be Center of Many Festivities In Lincoln During Coming Week

Lincoln will entertain a number of distinguished guests during the coming week and about these guests will center many of the week's festivities. Among the visitors will be Myra Hess, the lovely English pianist, who appears before the Matinee Musicale Monday afternoon at the Temple theater; Miss Helen Keller, noted for her great achievements in overcoming the handicaps of inability to see, hear, or speak, and her companion, Mrs. Anna Sullivan Macy; Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury under Theodore Roosevelt and former governor of Iowa; Madame Ponafidine, widow of a Russian diplomat; Anna Pavalowa, the famous dancer; Mrs. John T. Lyons of Fort Worth, Tex., president of the National Federation of Music clubs; Oscar Seagle, Rudolph Reuter, Richard Czerwonky, the three master musicians, who will conduct master classes in voice, piano, and violin in connection with the meeting of the Nebraska Music Teachers' convention.

Arrange Luncheons.

A luncheon under the management of the woman's committee in charge of Miss Keller's visit which is in the interests of the American Foundation for the Blind will be held at the Lincoln hotel Wednesday.

The same day Madame Ponafidine will be the guest of honor at a luncheon at the Country club for which arrangements are being made by a group of women particularly interested in Madame Ponafidine. Mrs. A. S. Raymond and Mrs. A. L. Hecker are making plans for the luncheon which thirty guests will attend. Madame Ponafidine will speak Wednesday evening at the high school auditorium under auspices of the Junior League. This is the fourth number of the Junior League Lecture series. Madame Ponafidine is the widow of a Russian diplomat and her home for many years was in the center of Russia where she suffered many hardships and where her husband died. Through the help of friends in America she and her two sons made their escape in December of 1921 and came to America. The material for her lecture whose subject is "Soviet Russia" was gained through her position as wife of a Russian of high birth and through her entree to diplomatic circles and also includes her own unhappy experiences in Russia. Madame Ponafidine will be the house guest of Mrs. W. L. Hinman.

Mrs. Lyons will be the guest of honor at luncheon at the Lincoln hotel on Wednesday for which Miss Hazel Ritchey will be hostess. Representatives of the various musical clubs of Lincoln have been asked to meet Mrs. Lyons, who will be in Lincoln for the Nebraska Music Teachers' convention.

Weddings

BLAKESLEY-ACKERMAN

A wedding of interest in University circles took place Sunday, February 1, in Council Bluffs when Miss Gladys Blakesley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W Blakesley of Fairbury, became the bride of Walter H. Ackerman, also of Fairbury. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F F. Case of the First Methodist church of Council Bluffs

The bride attended the university and is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority. The groom attended both the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor and the University of Nebraska where he became a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. They will make their home in Omaha where Mr. Ackerman has a position with the Riggs Optical company.

FLODEEN-FAIRBROTHER

The marriage of Miss Mildred Flodeen to Forest Fairbrother took place Friday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flodeen, 1505 A street. Only immediate relatives attended the wedding. Pink roses and ferns were used in decoration, and the ceremony was performed before the fireplace by Rev G. J. Stannard, chaplain of the house of representatives. A dinner at the Lincoln hotel followed the ceremony. Mr and Mrs. Fairbrother are making their home at the LeRoy apartments, 540 South Twenty-fourth street.

DE LES DERNIER-PRATT

Mr and Mrs Richard De Les Dernier of Elmwood announce the marriage of their daughter, Vera, to Arlo F. Pratt of Lincoln, formerly of Rochester, N. Y. The marriage took place at Council Bluffs, January 30. Both are students in the University of Nebraska and Mrs Pratt is also a teacher in the Cheney high school.

Parties of the Week

McCALL PRINTED PATTERNS

McCall Printed Pattern 4003

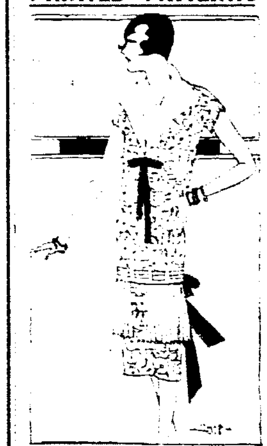

THE graceful jabot drape from neck to hem is a feature of more than one fashionable frock. It is most deftly used in this—one of the new McCall Printed Pattern styles for spring.

OUR semi-annual Sewing Week—beginning Monday—offers hundreds of saving features women of Lincoln and Nebraska will want to profit by! Not only does this big event bring to you the newest Silks, Wool Goods, Wash Fabrics and other Cottons, Linings, Draperies, Accessories, Notion and Sewing Needs, Trimmings and Laces, etc.—but it brings them to you at saving prices you really can't afford to ignore.

AND the daily Promenade de la Mode (see invitation below) is sure to interest every woman. For every day at 3 p. m. living models will show reproductions of original Paris modes in clothes by famous French designers (note below) and an expert McCall supervisor from New York will show you how simply and easily you can re-create these exclusive fashions right in your own home, at little cost, with the aid of McCall PRINTED Patterns.

ATTEND this event—tomorrow—and learn yourself the joy and economy of making your own clothes—so smart and satisfying in every particular—at a fraction of what they would cost you ready-made! Samples of advertised materials gladly forwarded out-of-town folk upon request. Do not fail to mention colors preferred when writing.

The Ensemble Costume

Greets the Coming Spring

FASHION has dictated that the ensemble will be extremely popular in the coming spring season. It is developed in simple as well as elaborate modes.

Soft, light weight materials are used, Flannels, Kashas, Tweeds, Cashmere weaves and Camel's Hair, and as a result the natural tan of the Kashas is a most popular shade.

The new colors for spring include Maderio, Bois de Rose, soft greys, hydrangea pinks and blues, dulcet yellows, naive greens, and turquoise and tranquil violets. In fact all the wanted shades can be found in these garments that are gaining such popularity.

LIFE SKETCHES PAST PRESIDENTS W. C. T. U.

The Frances Willard Union of the W. C. T. U. met Friday at the state W. C. T. U. headquarters, 1517 L street.

The meeting was opened by singing "Some Glad Day" and devotionals were led by Mrs. Jessie M. McCoy. Mrs. L. P. Hartley spoke on world peace and fellowship and a collection was taken for the sixth quinquennial convention to be held in Washington, D. C. May 4 to 14, 1925.

Reports were given by Mrs. Etta McFain, superintendent of Sunday school work; Mrs. J. S. Wallace, superintendent of scientific temperance instruction; Miss Esther Scott, superintendent of Bible in the public schools.

Upon reading that Miss F. Louise Marden, dean of women at the University of Wisconsin had said that no woman need come to the University of Wisconsin if she could not be happy without cigarets the presidents of the city W. C. T. U. unions sent her the following letter:

"My Dear Miss Marden:

"In the name of hundreds of W. C. T. U. women in our city, please let us thank you for your stand against cigarets, which, doubtless, ... forms of smoking.

"Would to God that all women and men in positions of such far reaching importance would ... your brave ... and efforts along this line will mean the salvation of future generations from wreckage. ... loved country ... doomed.

"We pray that you may ... this stand as ... revered Frances E. Willard ... in a position the same as yours led the fight against liquor.

"Thinking men and women realize the impending tragedy in this 'thoughtless fad,' and only await an inspired leader for a chance to 'fight it hard.'

... Yours sincerely,

"Signed, Mrs. Allie Jackson, president Central W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Mary Gould, president Capital W. C. T. U.; Mrs. M. L. Finney, president East Lincoln; Mrs. Ella L. Burton, president Frances Willard W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Lillie R. Atkinson, secretary W. C. T. U."

Miss Marden's reply is:

"Miss Marden wishes me to express to you her sincere thanks for the encouragement which your letter conveyed to her. She believes with you that serious thought will cause the young women of our community to choose the higher things and to forego habits which are harmful to the best interests of the communities which they have joined.

"Very truly yours,

"Signed:

"Lillian K. Russel,

"Secretary."

Life sketches of presidents of the National W. C. T. U. during the past fifty years was given by the following: Mrs. L. P. Hartley gave that of Annie M. Whittenmeyer; Mrs. A. J. Morley, Frances Willard; Mrs. C. F. Willard, Lillian M. N. Steven; Mrs. Cal. Johnston, Anna A. Gordon.

CENTRAL W. C. T. U. ANTI-NARCOTIC MEETING.

Central W. C. T. U. held its meeting at the union's headquarters Friday afternoon. The vice president, Mrs. Allie Johnson, was in charge. Mrs. Sarah M. Baker conducted the devotionals opening of the meeting, and Mrs. Rose B. Garnier of Nelson, played her own composition "Twilight's Sad Thoughts," and responded to an encore. Mrs. W. H. Hillan of Albion, sang a solo.

It was voted to send flowers to Mrs. W. G. Whitmore, president, who is ill at the home of her son in Valley.

Miss Sarah T. Muir spoke on the bills pending in the legislature, and Mrs Thomas Axtell, whose husband introduced the child welfare bill in the legislature, talked about the bill.

The meeting to be held March 5 at headquarters, will be an anti-narcotic meeting, and will be in charge of the superintendent of that department.

WOMAN'S CLUB ADDS BOOKS TO CITY LIBRARY.

The Trenton Woman's club celebrated Library Day with an offering of one dollar each which she had earned. Along with the offering must be a rhyme telling how the member had earned it. The rhymes told many and various amusing incidents and the meeting totaled thirty-four dollars which was presented to the library committee.

The public library was organized two years ago by the Trenton Woman's club and now has over 500 volumes of its own, besides the traveling library. There are two hundred patrons in this little city of six hundred people.

PHYSICAL DEPARTMENT REGISTERS LONG LIST.

The physical training department of the Lincoln Woman's club met last Wednesday at 10, in the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium with seventy members present. The meeting next Wednesday will be followed with luncheon at Herpolsheimer's tea room.

The department is adding new names to the register at each meeting and the total has now reached 115.

LINCOLN LEAGUE TO SPONSOR BIG MEETING.

The Lincoln League of Women Voters will sponsor a meeting in Representative hall, Monday evening. H. H. Wilson will talk on "The Child Labor Amendment" and the public is invited.

The local leaders of the national organization who have declared themselves in favor of this amendment and are working for its ratification are to be represented on the platform.

They are, Mrs. A. E. Sheldon for the American Association of University Women, Miss Margaret Fedde for the American Home Economics association, Miss Lulu Abbot for the American Nurses association, Mrs. E. L. The four generations in the family of Mrs. Philip Hoffman of Wilber are, from left to right, Mrs. Hoffman, aged sixty-four, her son, Anton Hoffman, forty-eight, his daughter, Mrs. Sylvia Jelinek, twenty-three, and her daughter, Maxine Jelinek, fifteen months.

LINCOLN ARTISTS' GUILD HAS ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The Lincoln Artist guild met Tuesday evening at 3000 Stratford avenue. Misses Martha Turner and Gladys Dana were hostesses.

The election of officers was held, resulting as follows: president, Mrs. W. L. Albin; treasurer, Dwight Kirsch; secretary, Miss Martha Turner.

Paul Laune gave an interesting talk on "Art in Advertising," exhibiting reproductions of some of the more famous artists in that line who make paintings for the large business concerns of the country, and entering into detail of the engravers work in completing a cut for the printer. He told of incidents he had encountered in his own art studio.

HALL IN THE GROVE HAS LUNCHEON MEETING.

Regular meeting of the Hall in the Grove was held Friday afternoon following a one o'clock luncheon at the Y. W. C. A.

For the opening of the program, Margaret McGregor played three piano solos. Repeating of the Chautauqua motto and current events in response to roll call preceded the study of the historians and scholars, Prescott, Motley and Parkman. The discussions were comprehensive and interesting.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. H. L. Grubb, 1306 V street, University Place, February 20. Mrs. F. E. Bricka, leader.

DR. S. MILLS HAYES TO ART DEPARTMENT.

The Fine Arts department of the Lincoln woman's club met Friday afternoon in the art gallery at the university, to hear Dr. S. Mills Hayes gave a sketch of the work and aims of the Nebraska Art association and of the American Art association which holds an annual exhibit in Chicago of the best work done during the year. The pictures on exhibit here come from the Chicago exhibit. They are of the modern artists. "The Recessional" by Eugene Savage, which received the most praise and has been awarded the most prizes of any picture painted this year, and "The Artist's Mother" by Malcolm Parcell, are the two pictures most discussed in the exhibit, Dr. Hayes said.

The twenty pictures of New York, by Everett Warner have attracted much attention also. Everett Warner was one of the camouflage painters during the war.

Preceding the lecture, Miss Helen Tuttle, department leader, read a letter from Mrs. James T. Lees, a former head of the department, and also a president of the woman's club.

At the next meeting on February 20, Prof. P. H. Grumman will speak on "The Art of London."

Blackheads Go Quick By This Simple Method

Blackheads—big ones or little ones—soft ones or hard ones — on any part of the body, go quick by a simple method that just dissolves them. To do this get about two oz. of calonite powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub a few seconds—and wash off. You'll wonder where the blackheads have gone. Pinching and squeezing blackheads only open the pores of the skin and leave them large and unsightly—while the simple application of calonite powder and the water dissolve them right out, leaving the skin soft and the pores in their natural condition. —Advertisement.

WEAK, RUN-DOWN NERVOUS, DIZZY

Mrs. Lee Suffered From All These Troubles, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well

Terre Haute, Indiana.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time and dizzy, had no appetite and could not sleep. I tried different medicines for a year but they did not help me. Then my husband saw the ad. for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and had me take it. I regained my strength and never felt better in my life. It completely restored me to health. I had practically no suffering when my baby boy was born and he is very strong and healthy. I know that the Vegetable Compound is the best medicine a woman can take before and after child birth for health and strength. I would be willing to answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. WM. J. LEE, Route E, Box 648, Terre Haute, Indiana.

Keeps Light Hair From Darkening—Lightens Faded Blonde Hair.

When light haired people wash their hair in an ordinary way, a thin film of ... is left on each hair, which collects ... and dust, causing the hair to darken. That is why blondes should always use a special shampoo. For while light hair is always attractive, its beauty is lost just as soon as it becomes uncertain in color, dirty-looking and streaky. Blondex, the new Swedish light hair shampoo, not only keeps blonde hair from darkening, but actually brings back the true golden beauty to even the dullest and most faded blonde hair. Makes hair fluffy, silky. Highly beneficial to both hair and scalp. It is not a dye. Contains no injurious chemicals. Money promptly refunded if not delighted. Get Blondex today at all good dealers, such as Moore's Pharmacy, Rector's Pharmacy, Koehn Drug Co., Rohaender Drug Co.—Adv.

FRENCH WOMAN TELLS HOW TO GET THIN

Without Diets, Creams, Exercises or Reducing Girdles.

I reduced my own weight 50 pounds in less than five weeks, and at the same time marvelously improved my general health and appearance with a new French discovery called SAN-GRI-NA. To-day I look, act and feel far younger than my real age. From the results in my own case and those of my friends, I am absolutely convinced that any man or woman burdened with rolls of ugly, injurious, unwholesome fat, can take it off easily, quickly and safely with SAN-GRI-NA. Every day science discovers something new. SAN-GRI-NA is one of the latest French discoveries for the reduction of excess fat. It does away with weakening diets, tiresome exercises, torturing garments and absurd and expensive so-called reducing creams. It is used extensively in Paris, where women of every age pride themselves on keeping their figures slender and graceful, and where the men detest a heavy waistline or double chin. No matter how fat you are, or what you have done in the past to reduce, you must remember that SAN-GRI-NA has never been offered before to the American public. IT IS GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS, does not contain any dangerous drugs, and cannot possibly affect your stomach or your health. By simply taking two small tablets before each meal, I lost 50 pounds in two months, and I have not regained a pound since. I eat all I want and enjoy the best of health. You can do the same. To-day go to any good drug store, ask for a package of SAN-GRI-NA. Do not accept anything else, as it is the only thing I ever found to reduce after I had tried hundreds of different ways and remedies.

NOTE.—The above appeared in many papers about a year ago. Since then SAN-GRI-NA has been investigated by American Physicians, Nurses, Clinics, Beauty Specialists, etc., and is now endorsed and recommended to fat people by Dr. Rudolph, former Health Commissioner, as a most wonderful and harmless way to reduce. Every day letters from grateful users come to us from all over the country. Men and women in all steps of life have reduced 10, 20, 30, or even as high as 80 pounds, saying also that they were able to greatly improve their health and looks. Do not accept a substitute. Insist on the Veritable Tablettes SAN-GRI-NA.

On sale at Rohaender's, Piller's, Conklin's or Rector's Drug Stores.

Wesleyan Affairs

Oscar Bennett, baritone, gave a recital in the Wesleyan auditorium last Tuesday evening. Mr Bennett has a rich and flexible voice which was displayed to advantage in the varied program. In addition he has unusual interpretative ability. His singing of the Aria Eri Tu che macchiavi was full of diginity. The old English songs, particularly Purcell's "I Attempt From Love's Sickness," were distinguished by much grace and charm. His diction was especially noteworthy in the singing of the German group. In this group Mr. Bennett gave evidence of his dramatic ability, noticeably in "The Erlking." The French group was sung with delicacy and also with marked clarity of diction. The program showed his feeling for differences of mood and his ability for characterization. Mr Albert Sievers, accompanist, gave Mr. Bennett sympathetic support. The recital was well attended by an appreciative audience.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Educational council of Wesleyan will be held Tuesday, February 10, at 2:30 p m Following the business meeting, a group of Zeta Phi girls will furnish a colonial musical number. Miss Mida Summers, director of the school of art, will have charge of the remainder of the program. She will give class demonstrations in design, drawing, painting, and china painting The practical value of art will be made a special feature. Miss Summers will also have an exhibit of her own work.

"The Y. M. C. A. in Sportsmanship and School Spirit" was the theme of the Y. M. C. A. chapel service last Tuesday morning. Talks on this subject were given by Leroy Donohoe of Decatur, John Calvert of York, and Lawrence Davis of Sidney.

The annual faculty dinner was held in the parlors of the First Methodist church of University Place Thursday evening About eighty were present. After the dinner the guests assembled at the home of Chancellor and Mrs. Schreckengast where Miss Hopper, chairman of the committee on entertainment, was the announcer of a program in which several members of the faculty took leading parts.

Prf. E. R. Lewis, head of the department of philosophy, filled the pulpit at the Methodist church at Tecumseh on Sunday, February 1

The Wesleyan Coyotes will battle with the North Dakota Aggies on Tuesday of this week, and with Morningside college cagesters on the following Saturday. Both games will be played on the Wesleyan floor.

The Musical World

The University of Nebraska glee club will participate in the first annual Missouri Valley intercollegiate glee club contest, which is being held in Convention hall, Kansas City, Monday evening. All the valley schools are sending clubs to this contest as a single club will be selected to represent the Missouri Valley at the International glee club contest in New York City, the latter part of the month.

A committee of Kansas City alumni of each of the valley schools are sponsoring this event, and plans are under way to make it a real college night for the city. Indications are that some 4,000 college folks will gather at the Convention hall to hear their respective colleges club sing. This is a definite step in a movement toward linking the alumni and their alma mater more closely together.

A group of three songs will be sung by each club. One, a prize song for all the clubs to sing; a second one of the individual club's selection; and a third, the popular song of the college represented. All of the numbers will be given without instrumental accompaniment. A definite system of grading based upon diction, tone, ensemble, interpretation, and appearance will enable the judges to select the club giving the most creditable performance and also the club which will receive the Silver loving cup. This trophy must be won by a club three years before becoming a permanent possession of the school.

The following men have been selected as judges: Mr Friederick Fischer, conductor of the St. Louis symphony orchestra, Mr. John R. Jones, director of the Haydn club, Kansas City; and Dean Holmes Cowper, School of Fine Arts, Drake university.

The Nebraska club has been trained under the direction of Parvin E. Witte, who has been very successful in work with college glee clubs. The club consisting of thirty men will appear under the direction of the Dietrich Dirks, student director.

All members of the student division of the Matinee Musicale are requested to sit in the balcony for the recital of Myra Hess. The request is made by the president and board of the student division out of courtesy to the visiting musicians.

The University of Nebraska R. O. T. C. band of which William T. Quick is conductor will give a series of three concerts to which the public is invited in apprecaton of the suport given the band by Lincoln people and students in making the trip east for the Notre Dame-Nebraska game last fall. The band has a membership of sixty. Maurice Shickley is captain; Paul Coglizer, first lieutenant, and Raymond Lewis, second lieutenant.

The first concert will be given this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the university armory.

The program follows:

"Marche Fantastique" — Julius Finch.

The Matinee Musicale will present Myra Hess, the eminent English pianist, in recital Monday afternoon at the Temple theater, the second number of its series of three artists' concerts. Miss Hess is a pianist who can be heard with unusual pleasure and profit and deservedly holds a place in the veryr front rank ofg pianists.

It has been said of Miss Hess that she is an essentially all around pianist. Her excellence in Mozart or Scarlotti, for instance does not mean that she is less happy in Chopin, the expressive power of her playing is not at the expense of the fluency and lucidity of her technique. Audiences in this counrry and abroad have greatly enjoyed Miss Hess' playing.

The program which begins at 3:30 o'clock will be as follows:

Mozart—Sonata, A major.

Business Women's League.

Jessie Ackermann transported with her on world pilgrimages in foreign lands on Thursday evening a large audience which gathered in the club rooms of the league to greet Miss Ackermann and listen to her tales of the religious pilgrimages which are a part of the lives of the people in many lands The pilgrimage to Fujiyama mountain which every Japanese must take at some time in his life, "because our ancestors always went," with hundreds of thousands of pilgrims making the journey; the Chinese pilgrimage up the mountains on the said mission, viewing the wonderful sunrise, tramping hundreds of miles for this purpose; a visit to Taj Mahal, the wonderful tomb in India erected by the great modul emperor, Shah Jehan, the memory of his wife, the lovellest woman of the ndies: It is built of alabaster, and the walls of the crypt are studded with rare jewels to the amount of one hundred seventy-five million dollars. Twenty thousand men worked twenty-two years to build this monument to a woman. The marvelous statue of "Peace" in South America, built by the women of the republics of that land and a graphic picture of the dedication of this statue, when soldiers of the armies of Chile and Argentine laid down their arms at the feet of the statue and the generals surrendered their swords, each one murmuring 'peace, peace' in this action, and the treaty was signed for perpetual peace among the republics of South America. These and other pilgrimages to the sacred mountains, of which there are hundreds, presented more than an hour of pleasure and instruction. Preceding the talk many people met Miss Ackerman and Mrs. Adam McMullen.

The carnival on February 26 promises fun of all descriptions: sleight of hand performers, minstrels, a mock circus, dancing, booths for every thing imaginable, refreshments, and many other inducements are in preparation by the various committees under the general charge of Esther Wilson, commissioner of recreation.

Camp Fire Notes

About twenty-five guardians and assistant guardians gathered at the Camp Fire office at 7:30 Tuesday evening, Feb. 3, for a meeting of the Lincoln Guardians' association. Judge Chappell made a most interesting talk on traffic laws, providing the guardians with much useful information with which to help their girls earn local citizenship honors Mrs. Clara S. Clayton spoke on voting, registering, elections, etc., knowledge of which will also be very helpful to girls working for local citizenship honors

The Camp Fire Chorus is devoting all of its time to working on the program for the Parents' day tea. A new section of the chorus for girls who wish to learn the Camp Fire motion songs will be held each Wednesday at 4 at the First Baptist church under the direction of Miss Pauline Farrens. All girls from all Camp Fire groups are welcome to join either section of the chorus.

There will be a Wohelo Court on Tuesday, Feb. 10 at 4 o'clock at the Camp Fire office for all girls wishing to pass their requirements for the firemaker's rank.

Kish Camp Fire, of which Katherine Dean and Dorothy Jean Thorson are the guardians, has the distinction of being the first group to register for camp. Ten of these girls have registered, thereby allowing their guardian to go to camp for a week free and their president to go for half price. They have registered for Holy Smoke cabin in Treasure Island camp and plan to go the week of July 5 to 11 Groups are urged to register as early as possible if they desire their choice of cabins for those who come first will secure their favorite cabins and the others will have to take what is left. Registration for both Magic Hill camp for older girls and Treasure Island camp for younger girls is open now at the Fire office.

Plans for the exhibit of Camp Fire work to be shown at the tea for all Camp Fire parents on Sunday March 8, grow more fascinating daily. There are to be judges for each class of work displayed, and the best article in each of the classes, which include cooking, all kinds of handicraft, campcraft, nature, and posters, will be decided upon and the girl or group entering it will receive special mention. Each article which is turned in must be marked with the full name of the girl who made it, her Camp Fire's name, and her guardian's name, and all articles must be at the office by Saturday noon, March 7. Each group is urged to select its loveliest handcraft work, its best nature exhibit, its cleverest gowns and headbands, and any other articles of special merit and interest and enter them in this exhibit.

Eluta Camp Fire met at the office at 1 o'clock on Saturday, Feb. 7. Most of the girls earned a local citizenship honor by passing an examination on the traffic laws of Lincoln. On Saturday Feb. 14 the girls will be entertained at a Valentine party at the home of their assistant guardian, Helene Clement.

Introducing new and novel program features, the ninth annual convention of the Nebraska Music Teachers' association will meet Monday morning at 10:30 in the ball room of the Lincoln hotel. Registration will begin at 9 o'clock. The convention will be in session three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The master class conferences in charge of artists of international reputation and the presence of distinguished speakers is expected to break former attendance records, if the weather man is kind. It is the fourth state convention in the United States to introduce the master class conference program. It has attracted state-wide attention.

Mrs. Smith, president of the state association, said that no person in Nebraska vitally interested in music and its various branches can afford to miss such an inspiring and educational program as will be presented by the ninth annual convention.

The officers of the association are: president, Mrs. Lura Schuler Smith, Lincoln, vice president, Cecil Berryman, Omaha, and secretary-treasurer, Miss Edith Lucille Robbins, Lincoln. Mayor Frank Zehrung will welcome the musicians and Mrs Smith will extend greetings.

Pimples

You will be startled how quickly and thoroughly you can stop skin eruptions and beautify your complexion with S.S.S.

PIMPLES are the first thing one notices in another person's face. It is too often cruel in its misjudgment. It judges from what it sees on the outside. Pimples are easy to get rid of. More red-cells! That is what you need when you see pimples staring at you in the mirror. Red-cells mean clear, pure rich blood. They mean clear, ruddy, lovable complexions. They mean nerve power, because all your nerves are fed by your blood. They mean freedom forever from pimples, from blackhead pest, from boils, from eczema and skin eruptions; from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-blood-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S.S.S. will aid Nature in building them for you! S.S.S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. Start taking S.S.S. today. Silk Hosiery

Is too important an accessory to buy carelessly. Durability is just as important as beauty, sheerness. That's why you will appreciate the "Ex-Toe," a Holeproof Hosiery which Speier's Tenth and O streets, are showing. There's a wide range of popular new shades to select from. These lustrous hose give three or four times more wear than the ordinary kind and retain their perfect fit in spite of constant wear and much hard laundering.

The Beaded Sheath

So Many Friends

Are leaving on trips to Europe or to the Orient. One frequently forgets to send a token to the train for the departing one. Do you know what you can have a Park and Tilford steamer basket, packed with fresh fruits and luscious dainties, delivered direct to a stateroom on a steamer docked at New York? Beachly Brothers will do it for you. A similar service has been inaugurated on the West coast, too. Call B6557.

Feather Trims

Are still popular, but furs excell them. Have you noticed how many of the new spring models have wide bands of light colored fur around the bottom?

Don't You Admire

A well-cut bob? I have seen many lately, and find that Mr. Champ of the Terminal Hairdressing parlor did the work "Bobbed Hair," says this expert of the shears, "increases in popularity because it is practical, comfortable and attractive. Paris is already wearing the mannish bob to suit Paris clothes, and we will have both here by Easter." Expert work, latest style, personal attention. Hair-cut, marcel and curl for $1.00.

The Jumper Frock

Will be one of the leading styles for summer. Paris accepted it unanimously. Palm Beach followed the example. Already local shops are displaying attractive models in lovely materials and colorings. So, if you should choose one of these youthful frocks, you may rest assured that your judgment is not amiss.

A Delicious

The Kiddies

worn winter clothes. Let the Are out-growing their much Children's Style Shop, 401 Fraternity building, help you Hand made frocks of dressy spring materials by the yard. English prints, imported sateen, French washable flannel for jumper dresses, ginghams, jersey weave, awning stripe and other broadcloths.

You Can't Be

Too particular about your hair cut. The style of cut is almost as important as the expertness of the work. Right now French women have adopted the strictly mannish respect as well as in cut of cut, imitating the men in that clothes. This almost straight and very simple hair-dress is becoming to many women. Hair styles as well as clothes styles vary from time to time, and if you would be up-to-the minute on both questions I advise you to read one or more of the better class of fashion magazines.

One Can Afford

To be properly shod if one shops economically—in other words, shop at Kinney's. The smart styles, well built shoes, fair prices. Stop in and see their new models in patent leather, kid, satin and metal cloth in the smartest colors and designs for spring wear. 1024 O street.

Take Care

Of yourself, of your looks and your vitality. The bitter winds of winter have whipped the moisture and freshness from your skin—left it harsh and dry. Soot and dirt fill the pores. Your hair is not at its best. You feel physically run down. Listen! Go up to Mayer Brothers Beauty shop and put yourself in their care. A facial, a shampoo, an energy-restoring electric bath can do wonders. Manicuring, marcelling, hair bobbing, too. This is a real home-town concern, with home-town folks employed, and these expert operators have had years of experience in helping home-town folks to keep fresh and vigorous or to recover attractiveness and youthfulness.

Good News

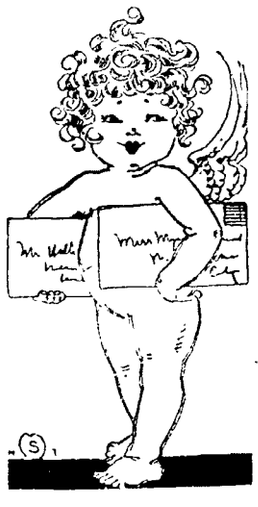

I bring for folks of Lincoln and surrounding territory. This is Sewing Week at Golds which means that kashas, silks, woolens and all the popular materials for spring are for your selection. Besides, a Promenade de la Mode will be held daily at 3:00 o'clock on the second floor. Living models will present reproductions of Paris designs created by such famous authorities as Patcau, Jenny, Lanvin, Drecoll, Chanel and others. A fashion expert from McCall Publishing company will show you how to cut and sew these same garments in your own home at a very modest cost. It's an opportunity to get your spring garments done now. Remember: Gold's at three, daily.

Girdle Effects

A Peasant Blouse
